Special to The New York Times.

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill., July 2.—Many negroes have been killed in race riots which have been raging here since Sunday night. At a late hour most estimates of the dead range from twenty to seventy-five, of whom three were white men. The negroes were shot down by mobs as they fled from their homes, which the whites had set on fire. The disturbances arose out of the ill-feeling engendered by the importation of negro labor from the South.

State Attorney Schaumloeffel of St. Clair County, in which East St. Louis is situated, drove through the riot district tonight with Police Inspector Walsh of St. Louis, Mo. The State's Attorney estimated that the dead negroes would number 250, but all estimates are conjectural.

Thousands of persons were in the mobs. The rioting is a renewal of race troubles that occurred here a month ago, following the importation of large numbers of negro laborers from the South.

Military rule was proclaimed at 8 o'clock tonight, and at the same time 300 white men were arrested and locked up at Police Headquarters.

Nearly 500 negro men, women, and children are quartered in the City Hall and the police station. At frequent intervals all evening, and until late at night, trucks brought negro refugees from burning sections to augment the cowering groups at these refugee buildings, where a strong guard of troops was stationed. Terror spread among the black men and women at 10:30 P. M., when all the lights in both buildings suddenly went out, due to the destruction of electric wires in the downtown district.

Adjt. Gen. Frank S. Dickson of Illinois arrived and took charge of the situation late tonight. He went into conference immediately with military and civil authorities to outline a plan of procedure. In answer to a question as to why the troops on the ground when the trouble developed did not use force to put down the rioting, General Dickson said the purposes for which the soldiers were sent here had been gained without firing a shot, and that wholesale bloodshed would have been the result of any firing on the part of the troops.

"Five hundred rioters, the ringleaders of the largest mob, I am informed, are now under arrest," said General Dickson. "This was accomplished by surrounding the rioters and forcing them to submit without shooting or employing the bayonet."

General Dickson said after the 500 were taken into custody the disturbance at once took on a less serious aspect.

One of the fires which was started in the negro belt between Third Street and Railroad Avenue spread beyond the control of city firemen, and is threatening the business section of the city at a late hour. Another fire, started by part of the mob in Black Valley, a negro segregated district, between Fourth and Sixth Streets and Broadway and Railroad Avenue, spread until the firefighters admitted that it, too, was beyond their control.

Loss $3,000,000 Already.

The property loss so far is estimated by City Attorney Fekete at $3,000,000. At 11 P. M. another fire had broken out in the extreme northern portion of the city, where there is a negro section. This brought the burning sections to four, lighting the entire city with their glare.

Colonel Tripp, Assistant Adjutant General, stated shortly before midnight that the rioting crowds had for the most part dispersed.

When a report came to military authorities that negroes of Brooklyn, Ill., were moving on East St. Louis, a truck full of guardsmen was sent to the bridge to meet any attack that might be attempted. At the same time another truckload of soldiers was rushed to a corner near the Post Office, where negroes barricaded in upstairs quarters had been firing at soldiers standing guard in the street below.

The worst property damage was done along the tracks of the Southern Railroad Company, where the Southern's warehouse and between 100 and 150 cars, many of them loaded with merchandise, were consumed by flames. The damage there was estimated at between $ 00,000 and $500,000.

The Broadway Theatre, valued at $100,000, was destroyed. At night the flames were moving steadily along the tracks, almost unhindered by the feeble

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 2.—Six additional companies of State troops were ordered to East St. Louis for riot duty tonight, making a total of twelve companies detailed there. Adjt. Gen. Frank S. Dickson left for the scene to take command.

General Dickson said the troops were under orders of the civil authorities of East St. Louis, and only in the event of martial law being declared would they be under orders from the State.

"I do not know whether they have been instructed not to fire on the rioters," he said.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—It was said tonight in an official quarter that Major Gen. Thomas H. Barry, commanding the Central Military Department, with headquarters at Chicago, had authority to act if the necessity arose for sending United States troops to East St. Louis, Ill., to control the situation there due to race riots.

EXEMPTION RULES FOR DRAFT ISSUED

Individual Claims Are Required of Even Those in Classes Held Not Liable.

AFFIDAVITS ON DEPENDENTS

Husbands and Others Must File Depositions — Selection Method Unknown.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Preparation for the mobilization of the first contingent of 625,000 troops of the new national army advanced another step today, when President Wilson promulgated the regulations to govern exemption from military service.

Local and appeal exemption boards already have been appointed and the issuance of the regulations will permit them to organize immediately and prepare for the concluding phases of the task of getting the men under training for duty in France, in the order in which they must come.

In a statement accompanying the announcement of the regulations, the President called upon the boards to do their work fearlessly and impartially and to remember that "our armies at the front will be strengthened and sustained if they be composed of men free from any sense of injustice in their mode of selection."

There are three steps in the organization process of the national army as prescribed by Congress. They are registration, selection, and exemption. The first step has been carried through and approximately 10,000,000 men between 21 and 31 years old have been registered. The regulations issued today cover in detail the operation of the third step, exemption.

Selection Method Not Told.

Information concerning the second step in the series is still lacking, and officials are guarding closely the method by which selection is to be applied.

The exemption regulations announce that the boards will be advised of the selection process later, although none of the steps prescribed, except the organization of the boards, can be carried on until the selection machinery has furnished the names of the men whose fitness and desirability for army service the boards are to adjudge.

There is one hint as to how the selection machinery is to work. The local boards are directed upon organization to take over from the registration precincts the cards and lists of the men registered on June 5, and as their first duty to provide a serial number for each registration card. This has given support to the belief that the selection is to be by numbers. Reports were current recently that the selection drawing was to be made in Washington.

Presumably the process of selection will be announced only a short time before it is put in operation. When that will be is not known. Sept. 1 has been the tentative date set for calling the 625,000 of the first contingent to the colors for training. Progress with construction of the sixteen divisional cantonments for the troops will govern that action. It is now believed there will be no serious delay.

The exemption process will not take a great deal of time. It is difficult to calculate the time the local boards will need in passing on the cases that come before them. The regulations provide that decision in any individual case shall not be delayed more than three days by the local board or an additional five days where appeal is taken to the district boards. The whole process probably can be carried through in less than thirty days.

No Class Exemptions.

The exemption regulations, as issued, add little to the terms of the draft law, the question of whether a man between the ages of 21 and 31 is entitled to exemption because of dependents, the nature of his occupation, or physical unfitness being for the boards to decide after proper investigation. It is made very clear, however, that there are to be no class exemptions, and that each individual case must be decided on its merits.

The local boards—one for each county of less than 45,000 population or city of 30,000, with additional boards where necessary for each additional 30,000

THREATENS FOOD VOTE BY CLOSURE

Chamberlain, Seeking Final Action This Week, Says He Has Ample Support.

NEW PROHIBITION TANGLE

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—So slowly did the Senate move today in its consideration of the Food Administration bill that at the end of the session Senator Chamberlain, who is handling the measure on the floor, threatened to invoke the closure rule tomorrow, so as to come to a vote by the end of this week.

At the same time Mr. Chamberlain announced that he would move tomorrow that the Senate have night sessions, whereupon Senator Hoke Smith of Georgia said that he would move that the Senate sit on the Fourth of July.

The closure threat by Senator Chamberlain came after a long debate of various amendments to Section 1, in which Senator Reed of Missouri monopolized more than four hours. Early in the day Senator Chamberlain had tried without avail to get unanimous consent to vote on the bill by tomorrow night.

If he insists upon invoking closure it will mean that each Senator will be limited to one hour of debate. That would restrict debate at the most to ninety-six hours, but as not all of the Senators would avail themselves of the privilege the bill probably could be passed by Saturday night. This would require night sessions.

"We have been debating this bill for two weeks, and yet we haven't finished with the first section," said Senator Chamberlain in making his threat to the Senate. "Now, I want to say that I have the necessary consent (two-thirds of the Senate) to the closure rule. If it seems tomorrow as if the passage of the bill is to be indefinitely delayed, I shall move that closure be applied."

Should Senator Chamberlain carry out this threat it will be the first time in the history of the Senate that closure has been invoked.

Protest by Penrose.

Senator Chamberlain's warning that he might resort to the limited debate rule brought a protest from Senator Penrose of Pennsylvania, who said that closure is only used to "kill a filibuster."

"There hasn't been any filibuster on this bill," Senator Penrose added. "The only delay there has been was due to the ill-advised efforts to force a drastic prohibition amendment into this Food bill. They've been going all over the universe, bringing in every sort of an amendment to regulate the liquor traffic, instead of getting down to the passage of food regulation."

This brought from Senator Jones of Washington, a prohibitionist, an angry retort resentful of what he considered Senator Penrose's insinuation that the prohibition advocates in the Senate had been delaying the bill.

"It's the Senators who oppose prohibition who have filibustered," asserted Senator Jones. "They are the ones who have blocked the passage of this measure. There has been an insidious attempt on the part of these filibustering Senators, as well as on the part of newspapers throughout the country, to put the blame for the delay on this bill upon the prohibition Senators. This is baseless, unfair, and untrue.

"Prohibition was in this bill when it came to the Senate. It was prepared by the Administration and was handed to the Senate as a part of this measure. It represents the views of the President himself, or it wouldn't have been left in the bill. The Senate might as well realize that that is a fact; I know it to be a fact.

"The Administration not only wanted prohibition of the manufacture of distilled liquors, but of wines and beer. The original liquor section, as it came to the Senate, was put there by friends of the President. It is not the fault of the Prohibitionists in the Senate if this has been the cause of the delay."

Senator Jones launched into an attack upon the use of alcohol during the war, not alone from the viewpoint of conserving the food resources of the country, but from the moral standpoint.

"I'd like to ask," the Senator went

Spanish Unrest Grows Despite Repression; Impending Events "May Surprise the World"

PARIS, July 2.—The situation in Spain appears to be going from bad to worse. The gravity of the crisis is confirmed amply by such news as reaches Paris. The Madrid correspondent of the Petit Parisien, telegraphing Sunday, says that the suspension of constitutional guarantees by the Government has not removed the unrest. The heavily censored Spanish press publishes nothing concerning the internal situation.

Great importance is attached in political circles to two facts: First, that the King and Queen canceled an engagement to attend a polo game; second, that a special Cabinet meeting was held, at the conclusion of which Premier Dato went to the palace and had a long conference with the King.

E. Oristo Salmeron y Garcia, President of the short-lived Spanish republic, who has just arrived from Spain, also takes a serious view of the situation there. In a statement published in the Petit Parisien he says he is convinced Spain is on the eve of important events.

There are three causes of discontent—the dissatisfaction of the army, the dissatisfaction of the democratic parties, and the unrest of the masses, brought about by the increased cost of living. Señor Salmeron says that if these three causes, of different origins, should produce effects at the same time, events which would surprise the world would be likely to occur. The army officers, although they have obtained partial satisfaction, do not trust the promises of the Government, and so long as their professional interests are safeguarded, their co-operation with the parties of the Extreme Left appears possible. The grievance of the democratic parties is the attitude of the Government toward Germany. As for the masses, the laboring people are in such a state of effervescence that a general strike is imminent.

PRESIDENT AVERTS SPLIT IN CABINET

FIRM AGAINST BIG PROFITS

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 2. — President Wilson took over the coal price-fixing controversy today, and as a result the danger of a serious split in the Cabinet as to the methods to be employed in connection with coal and other commodities was averted for the time. There were many important developments. Among them were these:

Secretary Baker of the War Department and Secretary Lane of the Department of the Interior, who had been reported at loggerheads because of the letter written by Mr. Baker repudiating the $3-a-ton bituminous coal agreement with the operators made by Mr. Lane, had luncheon together in public at the Shoreham Hotel.

Mr. Baker told the newspaper correspondents that "there is no difference of feeling between Secretary Lane and me."

The coal operators decided to stick by their agreement and furnish bituminous coal at the mouth of the mine to the consuming public at $3 a ton, according to the decision reached at conferences between the operators, Secretary Lane, and Commissioner Fort of the Federal Trade Commission, despite whatever decision might be reached by the Government as to the price it would pay for such coal.

Chairman Peabody of the Committee on Coal Production of the Council of National Defense, which co-operated with Secretary Lane and Mr. Fort in arranging for the $3 bituminous coal price, with a reduction of 50 cents a ton for the Government, will not resign as at first predicted. As a result of the action taken by the President he will remain in his present post and do all in his power to bring about a settlement of the dispute.

The day was one filled with excitement, so far as the price-fixing controversy was concerned. It became known, first, that Secretary Lane of the Interior Department had had no intimation that Secretary Baker of the War Department was to make pubic a letter repudiating his efforts until that letter was in the hands of the newspapermen. It was said, however, that President Wilson had had a talk with Mr. Baker before the letter was issued, and that he was in accord with his views as to the prices which the Government should pay for coal and other commodities. Whether he knew that Mr. Baker was about to send out a letter repudiating the agreement arranged by Mr. Lane is another question.

Secretary Baker made this statement to the newspaper correspondents when they asked him about the controversy:

"So far as I know, there is no difference of feeling or purpose between Secretary Lane and me in regard to the coal situation. My statement on the subject (the letter sent to Director Gifford on Saturday night) was to prevent what seemed to be a very liberal popular misconception of the whole situation."

Mr. Baker said that no price was being fixed, and that none could be fixed until some governmental agency was authorized to do it, and that at the present time no such authorization had been given.

The developments today were taken as an indication that President Wilson was more or less in accord with Secretary Baker and Secretary Daniels in their efforts to obtain prices for the Government at lower figures than those quoted by the operators in their agreement. In this arrangement, however, it is known that the President and his Cabinet have no intention of permitting the consuming public to remain at the mercy of the operators.

The President, it was said today, was in a frame of mind to stand firmly for the interests of the public as well as the Government if investigations of the Federal Trade Commission showed that coal operators and other producers are obtaining undue profits.

SAW U-BOAT GO DOWN IN AIRMAN'S ATTACK

Details of the sinking of a U-boat fifteen miles off the Italian coast on June 18 by gun fire from an airplane, were brought here yesterday by Max Henkin, a New York business man, who arrived on an Italian steamship from the Mediterranean. The vessel brought 650 passengers. He said that on June 18 about noon a large submarine emerged on the starboard side forward a mile away, and opened her bow port to fire her 4-inch guns.

"Before the U-boat could fire a shot," Mr. Henkin said, "an airplane, flying at a great height, shot down and fired pointblank at the submarine. Several shots struck the German craft, which seemed to crumple up amidship almost instantly and disappear without leaving any trace on the surface of the sea. None of the crew of the submarine was seen afterward, although the steamship waited at a little distance to see if any of them came to the top."

FRENCH NOW SURE WE BRING VICTORY

OUR EQUIPMENT ADMIRED

Battalion of Soldiers Will Visit Paris Tomorrow to Take Part in Celebration.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, July 2.—As far as the French press is concerned, the publication of dispatches describing the arrival of Americans in France in the London papers of Thursday, while all mention was prohibited in Paris until last night and this morning, appears to have reacted unfavorably on the attention paid here to the subject.

The Temps last night printed three dispatches from an unnamed port, dated Tuesday and Wednesday, each headed "delayed in transmission by American and French censorships." This example is followed by the leading newspapers today save the Petit Journal, which leads its issue with four columns of dispatches under a four-column head. There is considerable comment, including an editorial by M. Harvé, on "The American Vanguard," which pointed out the moral and material value of the arrival of the expeditionary force.

The dispatches of the special correspondents leave nothing to be desired in respect to genuine enthusiasm and appreciation. It is, perhaps, not realized in New York that during the last few months there has been a violent outcry throughout France, and especially at the front, against what is called "Bourrage de Crane" or "Buncombe" in the newspapers—a phrase which covers all the wild excess of enthusiasm and so-called encouragement of the French people.

At the same time Premier Lloyd George's policy of talking out straight to the people has caused a reaction against unwarranted official optimism, and the consequence has been that France now wants facts, not prophecies or extravagant hopes. Moreover, in regard to Americans the French press has already expressed the national sentiment adequately on the occasion of General Pershing's arrival.

Three years of invasion and its horrors, magnificently resisted and doggedly endured, have not failed to rid the French character of frothy enthusiasm and sloppy sentimentality. In short, the whole people has reached a stage when words have become of small account, and nations and individuals are judged by actions and results.

That is how they regard the landing of an American expeditionary force on French soil. France regards it as one of the greatest, if not the greatest, achievements of the war to have brought a whole armada across the Atlantic in defiance of the submarines without the loss of a single man.

In reading the stories of the French correspondents one feels that they are so impressed that they are simply unable to indulge in high-flown phrases or extravagant rhetoric. Beyond a general reference to the symbolic character of this reversal of the world's history in the coming of men from the west to the east, bringing aid and progress instead of retrogression and ruin, the correspondents "keep down to earth" in a manner that would have been deemed incredible for French journalists three years ago. In strong, simple language they emphasize the meaning of the triumph over the Kaiser's "pirates" and its lesson to the world and to Germany herself that the skill and foresight of the American Navy can prevail and have prevailed against the gravest danger threatening the allied cause.

So, too, they tell the people of France, the pollus at the front, and the steadfast population behind that their confidence in America is not misplaced, that here, unbelievably quickly and unbelievably safely, are American soldiers in France—the vanguard, as M. Hervé says, of a mighty host of fighters and workers, of organizers and engineers with food and munitions and stores, whose coming from America spells victory for France.

After that the dispatches all speak with complete and admiring detail of the troops and their equipment from a military viewpoint. The Temps describes the equipment minutely, laying special stress on the knife at the belt, which it calls ideal for trench warfare—"a terrible weapon in strong American hands."

The same writer speaks highly of the veteran and disciplined appearance of the troops, and quotes the opinion of French officers at the port that the American officers struck them as being "top notch" as regards general military training and "perhaps even more adapted to war than were our English friends of the first expeditionary force."

BATTLE SPREADING NORTH

PETROGRAD, July 2.—The brilliant Russian advance, with the capture of upward of 10,000 prisoners the first day, the news of which has sent a wave of rejoicing through the entire country, was led by War Minister Kerensky in person.

For four days the War Minister had been continuously at the front, spending every effort to urge the troops to advance. He finally rode to the front line trenches and, placing himself at the head of the troops, gave the order to advance.

The spectacle of the popular War Minister on the firing line accomplished what oratory had failed to do, and the Russian line swept forward into the German trenches.

The commander of the armies on the Western front has issued an order of the day reading:

"Our army on the southwestern front has vanquished the enemy and broken his lines. A decisive battle has begun on which depends the fate of the liberty of the Russian people. Our brothers on the southwestern front are advancing victoriously. They expect assistance from us. We shall not be traitors, the enemy shall hear the thunder of our guns."

Army Still Advancing.

Up to the hour of telegraphing, the advance of the army in Galicia was still in progress. A dispatch received by the War Ministry, but unpublished, says that the local army staff was pleased with the speed of the advance, as the operation which they had expected would take days was executed yesterday between the hours of 2 and 9.

All of the latest telegrams to the War Ministry agree that the soldiers are in excellent spirits, and the Ministry authorizes the statement that preparations as regards munitions and equipment are in better shape than in any preceding period of the war.

Crowds of enthusiastic citizens marched through the streets of Petrograd today carrying portraits of War Minister Kerensky and General Brusiloff, while others thronged the sidewalks and filled balconies and windows, cheering and waving flags and handkerchiefs in celebration of the first victory of the Russian arms on the western front since the revolution.

The demonstration started with a score of men who got the first news from the War Office of the Russian advance and grew rapidly to large proportions. Large portraits of the War Minister and the Chief of Staff were obtained and carried in the parade, exciting the greatest enthusiasm since the capture of Przemysl.

The new Chief of the War Ministry Information Department is Lieutenant Perun, who is also a member of the Executive Committee of the Council of Deputies. Lieutenant Perun has just returned from the front, where he witnessed War Minister Kerensky's crusade in favor of an immediate offensive. The Lieutenant told The Associated Press that the eloquence of Minister Kerensky was largely responsible for the change in the army's mood. The Lieutenant was present when Kerensky, having told the soldiers that if they would not attack he would march toward the enemy's trenches alone, was embraced and kissed by the soldiers.

Lieutenant Perun mentioned one division, especially known for its unwillingness to fight, which, after the Minister's speeches, became the most militant on the front.

"The army," said the Lieutenant, "was reborn under my eyes."

The minds of the soldiers, according to the Lieutenant, are thoroughly permeated with Russia's new political program. War Minister Kerensky's merit is that he first realized that the Russians would fight only if they were convinced they were fighting not for imperialism, but for freedom at home and international peace. The War Minister, Lieutenant Perun added, has accomplished the almost impossible task of convincing the soldiers of that fact. He says that deserters are returning more rapidly than ever, and that the condition of the army is markedly better than Petrograd thinks.

With the village of Koniuchy and other strongly fortified positions in Galicia, southeast of Brzezany, upward of 10,000 prisoners, comprising Germans, Austrians, and Turks; seven heavy cannon, and seven machine guns were captured.

BOY EMPEROR AGAIN IN PEKING PALACE

WASHINGTON HOLDS ALOOF

"None of Our Business," Says a High Official—Chinese Move to Join Allies Is Halted.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

TIENTSIN, July 2, (Dispatch to The London Morning Post.)—President Li Yuan-hung has refused to resign in favor of the Emperor, but said he would resign in favor of the Vice President. The suddenness of the coup probably temporarily paralyzed the opposition. There is little doubt, however, that General Chang Hsun has overreached himself, for neither in the North or South is there any widespread sentiment in favor of the Emperor's reinstatement. Civil War is inevitable unless the young Emperor again goes into retirement.

TIENTSIN, July 2.—Hsuan Tung, the young Emperor, according to reports from Peking today, has taken possession of the palace occupied by President Li Yuan Hung and is surrounded by prominent military leaders.

Reports reached here from Peking say the Emperor has issued an edict appointing General Chang-Hsun Premier and Viceroy of the Province of Chi-Li and has named members of the new Cabinet, including Kang Yu Wei, President of the Progressive Party, and Hsu Shih-chang, former Secretary of State, who will head the Ministry. General Chang-Hsun sent delegates to President Li Yuan Hung to demand his resignation, but the President paid no attention to them. The Japanese have offered him a Granad Dukedom.

Liang Chi, the reformer, calls General Chang-Hsun's coup suicidal, and says it cannot succeed.

The first intimation that foreigners in Peking received of General Chang Hsun's coup was the appearance in the streets of the capital of strong bodies of troops. The boy Emperor was taken into the palace at 3 o'clock in the morning under guard of Chang Hsun's soldiers. According to some reports the Emperor was crowned immediately, and according to others there was no ceremony.

President Li Yuan-hung is believed to be a prisoner in the hands of the military leaders.

General Chang Hsun's action was most unexpected, and most of the foreign diplomatic representatives were away from the capital for the week-end. All the military movements are reported to have been carried out with the greatest precision.

Washington Gets Confirmation.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 2. — The State Department announced today that Minister Reinsch at Peking cabled partial confirmation of the reported coup d'état in the Chinese capital resulting in the re-establishment of the boy Emperor, Hsuan Tung, on the throne.

On June 21 the Chinese Legation in this city announced receipt of advices from Peking that the Southern provinces had canceled their declaration of secession, following the negotiation of a modus vivendi with the Provisional Government at Tientsin under the dictatorship of Hsu Shih-ch'ang, although it was admitted that General Chang Hsun, Mi-

GREEK CONSCRIPTS CALLED TO COLORS

NEGROPONTES HEADS ARMY

Administrative Control of the Country's Utilities Being Turned Over by Allies.

ATHENS, June 30.—It is stated in reliable quarters that the classes of 1916 and 1917 have been called to the colors, as they normally would be, and probably will be sent to Saloniki for training. No other classes will be called out at present.

Administrative control by representatives of the Entente Allies of various services will be withdrawn within the next week, except in the cases of the telegraph and of the censorship, which will be continued with the co-operation of Greek officers.

Colonel Negropontes, who has been named Chief of the General Staff, is expected to arrive at Saloniki tomorrow.

VIENNA, July 2, (via London.)—The rupture of diplomatic relations between Greece and Austria-Hungary was preceded by a statement which the Greek Minister at Vienna handed the Foreign Office on Saturday. The statement reads:

"Now that unity has been restored between the two parties which have hitherto divided Greece into two camps, and the Greek troops are fighting on the Macedonian front, the Government of Greece sees itself obliged to break diplomatic relations with Austria-Hungary." The Minister then asked for his passports. He said the Greek interests would be entrusted to the Dutch Legation.

AMSTERDAM, July 2.—According to the North German Gazette, the Greek Chargé d'Affaires at Berlin has handed the German Government a statement similar to that delivered to the Austrian Government at Vienna, notifying the Foreign Office that Greece felt herself obliged to break diplomatic relations with Germany.

ST. MORITZ, Switzerland, July 1.—Former King Constantine of Greece and his family and suite arrived here today. Dowager Queen Sophia appeared still to be in poor health. The party was received at the station by the local authorities and escorted to a hotel where rooms had been reserved.

Official Account of Attack.

Following is the official statement concerning the operations against the Teutons, which extended in the form of raids and artillery actions northward from Galicia into Volhynia, along the Stokhod River:

Western (Russian) Front—In the direction of Kovel, (Volhynia,) in the region of Rudkasitovichskaya, our scouts, under command of four officers, after destroying the wire entanglements by mines, penetrated the enemy's trenches, killed some of their occupants, and captured a number of prisoners. According to the testimony of prisoners, the Austrians knew of our attack from two deserters—Senior Non-Commissioned Officer Karsokin and Private Kolotulnov. An investigation is being made by the authorities of the Governments to which the soldiers named belonged.

In the direction of Zloczow, after two days' artillery preparation, our troops attacked the Austro-German positions on the Koniuchy-Byshki front. After a severe engagement they occupied three lines of trenches and the fortified village of Koniuchy and advanced to the Koniuchy stream, to the south of the village of the same name.

As a result of the engagement on Sunday 164 officers and 8,400 soldiers have been counted so far as prisoners. We also took seven guns and seven machine guns. Prisoners continue to come in.

Southeast of Brzezany, after artillery preparation, our troops attacked the strongly fortified positions of the enemy, and after stubborn fighting occupied them at places. Germans and Turks made counterattacks, and formidable positions changed hands constantly.

On Sunday we captured on this front 9 officers and 1,700 Germans, Austrians, and Turks. Some of our detachments sustained severe losses, especially of officers.

Altogether on Sunday we took prisoners 173 officers and more than 10,000 soldiers. We also captured 7 guns and 7 machine guns.

Aviation—North of Postavy on Sunday a German airplane was brought down by a Russian aviator behind the enemy lines, and was destroyed by our artillery. As a result of one of the engagements between our own and German machines, our gallant aviator Sub-Lieutenant Orloff, attacked by two enemy battle planes, met his death. In the region of the town of Geneva a German airplane was brought down by our aviator Lieutenant Ivanoff.

The airship Ilya Murometz dropped about 650 pounds of bombs on the rear positions of the enemy. There were five aerial engagements, and in one of them, while battling with eight enemy airplanes, the commander of the aircraft, Balloon Lieutenant Captain Bambovitz, was seriously wounded, but the ship was brought back safely to our lines.

In regard to operations on the Caucasian front an official bulletin dated July 1 reads:

Caucasian Front.—In the direction of Panjwin (in Turkey near the Persian border) the Turks launched a series of attacks on our positions near Distan, Northwest of Sepne our advanced detachments, after energetic pursuit of the Turks, reached the region of Zeribar Lake and engaged in battle with the enemy, who was defending the road to Panjwin.

Subsequently the following communication under today's date was issued:

Under pressure of our detachments the Turks retreated toward Panjwin. Our cavalry continuing its pursuit occupied the village of Engidja, to the north of Lake Deribar. Our troops occupied the stronghold of Kalamirivan, to the southeast of Lake Deribar, and the villages of Abahen and Derehue.

Germans Admit Defeat.

BERLIN, July 2, (via London.)—The German official statement issued today says that the Galician village of Koniuchy was lost yesterday to the Russians, but that the Russian mass attack was "caught up in a barring position." A fresh Russian attack against this position, the statement adds, was frustrated. The text of the announcement follows:

Eastern Theatre: Army Group of Prince Leopold: The Russian attack Sunday between the Upper Stripa and the eastern bank of the Narayuvka led to heavy fighting. The pressure of the Russians was directed chiefly against the Koniuchy sector and the lines to the east and south of Brzezany.

An exceedingly strong artillery preparation which lasted two days turned our positions into a crater field against which enemy regiments stormed throughout the day. The village of Koniuchy was lost.

The Russian mass attack was caught up in a prepared barring position and a fresh attack against this barring position was frustrated. The fighting was especially bitter on both sides of Brzezany.

Sixteen Russian divisions, constantly employing fresh troops, assaulted our positions there, which were completely maintained or recaptured by counter-attacks by Saxon, Rhineland, and Ottoman divisions, their brave defense sweeping the battle. The Russian losses surpassed any measure hitherto known. Some units have been entirely dispersed.

To the north of the Kovel-Lutsk railway line an attack of the enemy broke down before the front of an Austro-Hungarian division.

On the fronts of both other armies there was nothing of importance to report.

The supplementary official statement from General Headquarters issued this evening says:

There is nothing new to report in the east. At Koniuchy the Russian attacks broke down.

Further north fresh battles have developed.

Official announcement is made that Field Marshal von Hindenburg and General von Ludendorff, Quartermaster General, have arrived at the headquarters of the Austro-Hungarian Army, thus returning the visit which the Austrian Field Marshal, Artur Arz von Straussenburg, made to the German headquarters on March 11. Conferences will be held at Vienna later.

VIENNA, July 2, (via London.)—The official communication from general headquarters issued today reads:

Between the Narayuvka and Stripa Rivers the enemy yesterday threw dense infantry masses into the battle in his usual reckless way, indifferent to the heavy losses which our artillery had already inflicted on him. He pushed his assaulting waves forward into hand-to-hand conflicts. At least twenty infantry divisions gradually came to grips with our troops.

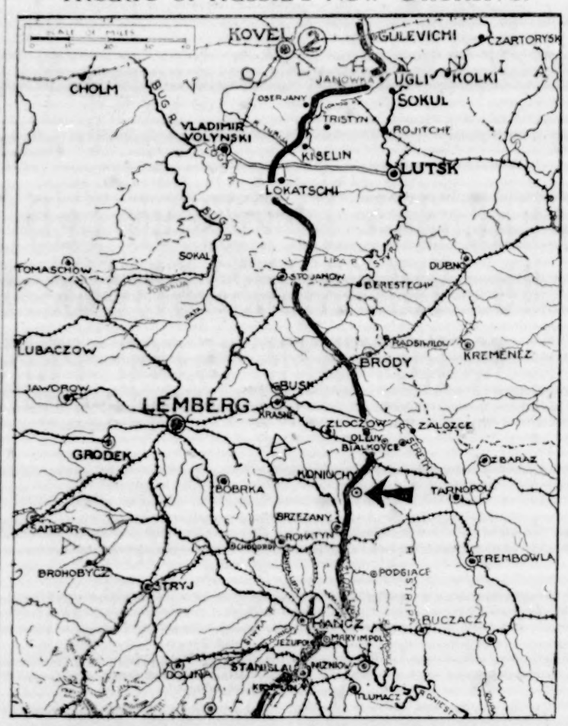
One the whole of a fifty-kilometer front an infantry battle raged with utmost violence and bitterness. During these engagements the enemy was for the greater part repulsed before our first line of trenches.

The heaviest massed attacks were directed against the region south of Brzezany and at Koniuchy, where the Russians were repulsed in our barring positions. All the enemy attacks were repelled, including those made today to push forward in these regions. The enemy suffered exceedingly heavy losses.

West of Zborow and in the Stokhod salient attacks started by the enemy failed before our artillery fire. A continuance of the battle may be expected.

On the other sectors of the front the artillery fire revived temporarily.

Theatre of Russia's New Offensive.



The heavy black line running from the Pripet River southward through Volhynia and Galicia marks the position of the fighting front in those regions. The arrow points to Koniuchy, which was captured Sunday by the Russians on resuming their new drive toward Lemberg, the capital of Galicia, which Brusiloff last Fall sought to reach by a concentric movement on Halicz, (1,) called by military strategists the key to Lemberg. In Volhynia the Russians have started raiding the Stokhod River positions of the Germans toward Kovel, (2,) which was the objective last year of some of the fiercest fighting of the war on the eastern front.

"REGIMENTS JULY FIRST."

Title and Red Flags for Those Which Participated in Attack.

PETROGRAD, July 2.—M. Kerensky telegraphed Premier Lvoff today that the Russian revolutionary army resumed the offensive on July 1. In his message the War Minister says:

"On July 1 the army of the revolutionary Russia took the offensive with great enthusiasm. The offensive proved to Russia and the entire world its fidelity to the revolution and its love for liberty and its country. Ignoring the small groups of cowardly souls, the free Russian soldiers are consolidating by their offensive a new discipline based on the sentiment of civic duty.

"Whatever may happen, this puts an end to all slanderous attacks against the democratic Russian army. I beg of you to authorize me to hand the regiments which participated in the fighting on July 1 red revolutionary flags and give them the name 'Regiments July First.'"

Premier Lvoff granted the requests.

M. Kerensky has issued an appeal to all the Russian armies to take the offensive. He says that Austria and Germany have replied to Russia's appeal to all democracies in favor of peace by the dishonorable proposal that Russia should conclude a separate peace which would enable them to crush Russia's western allies. On Russia's rejection of the proposal, the enemy, says the War Minister, threatened an offensive against Russia, and the freedom of the country and the revolution itself were in danger. The appeal concludes:

"Every day's delay strengthens the enemy. That is why we appeal to our armies to take the offensive. Let all the world know that it was not from weakness that we talked of peace. Let it be known that liberty increases our military strength. All Russia will bless your exploits in behalf of liberty, your country's future and an honorable and lasting peace."

REJOICING IN BRITAIN.

Public Was Unprepared for Such Prompt and Successful Results.

LONDON, Tuesday, July 3.—The resumption of the Russian offensive is the most cheerful news the British have had for some weeks. References in recent German official communications to the activity of the Russians had given hope that something really serious was about to occur, but the public was hardly prepared for such immediate and successful results, as it was thought it would take a few days for the artillery to destroy the Austro-German defenses which were under construction for so many months.

The capture of Lemberg would be of the greatest strategic and political importance. General Brusiloff apparently has resumed his concentric manoeuvre, which was interrupted by the Teuten drive in Rumania and then by the revolution

NEWS CHEERS WASHINGTON.

Government Had Advance Information of Russian Attack.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—There was joy in Washington today over the news of the renewal of the Russian offensive. It is felt in some circles that the military situation of the Allies will be greatly improved from now on, particularly in the effect of the Russian drive in removing pressure on the Italian and French fronts.

When the press dispatches brought the information that Russia's troops had begun to fight again, the State Department took satisfaction in letting it be known that for several weeks it had been in possession of confidential advices that the Russian offensive would be undertaken about July 1. The understanding here is that the Allies wished the beginning of the offensive to be postponed until after Greece had joined the allied cause. The depressing effect on Germany of the action of Greece and the consequent good effect in Russia were counted on. It was suggested today, to add to the effectiveness of the forward movement of the Russian troops.

While encouraged over the re-entry of Russia as a potent factor in the military situation, officials here contend that all the Allies must do a lot of hard fighting before victory is in sight. The most conservative judges hold that the Allies should be prepared to wage a three-year war. Some of them do not believe that hostilities will last nearly that long, but feel that it would be unwise for the United States to limit its efforts to preparation for a sustained offensive of any shorter period.

The part played by Elihu Root and the other members of the American High Mission to Russia is not fully known in Washington to furnish the foundation for apportioning credit for the decision of the Russians to resume the offensive, but it is being said here that if the movement of the Russian armies which was begun yesterday is the beginning of a general allied drive on all fronts that will be continued until Germany is defeated Mr. Root will share no small part of the credit for it.

PLOT STORY REACHES ITALY.

Rome Hears of Martial Law and Many Arrests in Russia.

ROME, July 2.—A far-reaching plot on the part of the Maximalist faction of the Russian Socialists to seize the members of the Provisional Government and the leaders of the Workmen's and Soldiers' Delegates, and then to recall all soldiers from the front and end the war is reported in press dispatches from Switzerland. According to these accounts, the plot was discovered just as it was about to be put into execution.

The Government, in agreement with the Workmen's and Soldiers' Delegates, has proclaimed martial law, it is added, and is proceeding to arrest large numbers of men. Among the persons apprehended, it is reported, are 220 German agents.

No word of the proclamation of martial law in Russia has been received, and so far as is known the censorship has not been restored.

BLESS OUR ENGINEERS IN KAZAN CATHEDRAL

PETROGRAD, July 2.—The American Railroad Commission, headed by John F. Stevens, and the embassy staff yesterday enjoyed the unique distinction of being welcomed and receiving benedictions in the Russian Orthodox Church in a special service in Kazan Cathedral. A ceremony for foreigners of another faith is without precedent in the annals of the Church.

Archbishop Platon, head of the Russian Church in America, conducted the mass partly in English, and Father Vladimir Alexandroff, a well-known Russian priest of San Francisco, preached a sermon in English.

At the close of the service Archbishop Platon called the American representatives and presented them to members of the congregation with a few words of introduction about practical democratic Christianity in America. A special prayer was then offered for the President of the United States and the Americans present.

BERNSTEIN HELD UP.

New Yorker's Name on Old Blacklist Delayed Petrograd Trip.

STOCKHOLM, July 2.—Because his name was on an old blacklist of the Russian Government, Herman Bernstein, New York editor and Jewish leader, who is on his way to Petrograd, was held up a week at Tornea, Finland, and received permission to enter only after the intervention of Ira Nelson Morris, United States Minister to Stockholm, and on the request of the State Department at Washington.

Mr. Bernstein, who left Stockholm ten days ago, telephoned the American Minister that he was being detained. Mr. Morris thereupon cabled Washington, and received a reply in twenty-three hours saying the department desired that Mr. Bernstein be permitted to enter Russia. This, by the way, is the quickest cable reply that the American Minister has received from the department since he has been stationed here. Ordinarily it takes days instead of hours. Mr. Bernstein, who had returned to Stockholm, leaves tonight for Petrograd.

EQUALITY FOR JEWS.

Those in Finland Now Free of All Discrimination.

The Jews in Finland have at last been completely emancipated, according to a dispatch from the Petrograd correspondent of the Jewish Warheit, who declares that the last trace of Jewish inequality has now been wiped out in Russia.

The Jewish Teachers' Congress, which is now meeting in Petrograd, has appointed a committee to prepare the Minister of Education in order to obtain the abolition of certain restrictions which still attach to the education of Jewish children. Proposals were made at the Congress that the Jewish secular schools should be separated from religious influence, that instruction in them should be made compulsory for Jewish children for a term of eight years, and that they should be supported by the State, while remaining under Jewish direction and under the supervision of the local communities.

FRENCH RECAPTURE TRENCHES ON AISNE

BRITISH SETBACK AT LENS

Advanced Posts West of City Forced to Retire After Very Hard Fighting.

PARIS, July 2.—In an energetic counterattack late yesterday on the Chemin des Dames front north of the Aisne, the French drove the Germans out of the trenches they had occupied. Heavy artillery fighting continues in this region. The French found the captured positions filled with bodies, testifying to the importance of the enemy's losses.

Elsewhere on the front outpost attacks were repulsed south of St. Quentin and near Filrey, in the Woevre.

South of St. Quentin we repulsed an enemy attack on outposts near Gauchy.

In the sector between Cerny and Ailles particularly heavy artillery fighting continues. Late in the day our troops made a counterattack on both sides of the Ailles-Paissy road. This action, conducted in a spirited manner, enabled us to eject the Germans from the line of trenches which they had occupied. The reconquered ground was covered with bodies, bearing witness to the importance of the losses suffered by the enemy in his offensive.

British Fall Back at Lens.

LONDON, July 2.—The British operating west of Lens received a setback today, their advanced posts being driven back a short distance after hard fighting. Berlin reports that 175 prisoners and 17 machine guns were captured in these engagements, in which the British penetrated the German line at some points but were subsequently driven out.

Elsewhere on the front there has been great activity on the part of the artillery.

The text of tonight's official statement follows:

As a result of hard fighting west of Lens yesterday and today our advanced posts have been driven back a short distance. There is nothing further to report except considerable artillery activity by both sides at numerous points along the front.

The early statement said:

We made a successful raid last night east of Hargicourt and captured seven prisoners. A number of Germans were killed.

The official statement issued tonight reads:

During the day the artillery of both sides maintained very great activity in the sectors to the west and east of Cerny. No infantry action took place.

Intermittent cannonading occurred north of St. Quentin and on the Californie Plateau. Everywhere else the day has been quiet.

Germans Take Many Belgians.

BERLIN, July 2, (via London.)—Army Headquarters made the following official announcement today:

Only in a few sectors between the sea and the Somme did the artillery battle increase. While reconnoitring advances of the British to the east of Nieuport, at Gavrelle and to the northwest of St. Quentin failed, some of our shock troops succeeded on the Yser lowlands, north of Dixmude, in inflicting considerable losses on the enemy by a surprise attack and captured a large number of Belgian prisoners.

Early this morning and again in the afternoon the British attacked to the west of Lens. At a few points they penetrated our line, but were repulsed everywhere by our Upper Silesian regiments in hand-to-hand engagements in which over 175 prisoners and 17 machine guns were captured by us.

Army Group of the German Crown Prince.—After strong artillery preparation the French delivered fresh attacks on the Chemin-des-Dames against the trenches they had lost south of Bovelle Farm. All the assaults of the enemy were defeated in engagements which were especially bitter on the eastern slope of the plateau.

A semi-official statement discussing the recent British attack says the aim evidently of enveloping the Lens salient by the capture of the Lens suburbs without fighting through the suburbs. Shot towers characteristic of the country have been shot to pieces, windlasses destroyed, and pits inundated. French national property worth millons, continues the statement, has been destroyed by the English.

VERDUN ATTACKS FRUITLESS.

Germans Have Lost Most of Ground Gained in First Smashing Blows.

By G. H. PERRIS.

Copyright, 1917, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WITH THE FRENCH ARMIES, July 2.—The powerful and partially successful German attacks of the last four days between Avocourt and Dead Man Hill on the west side of the Meuse and near Cerny at the centre of the Chemin des Dames, are in no respect comparable with the recent combined Allies' offensive or the subsequent partial French offensives or continuing British attacks in the north. But they break the long period in which the enemy has limited himself to an effort to ward off Franco-British blows and to recover a lost salient or observatory.

Falling in dimensions between these local actions and the Allies' larger operations it is not at all clear what military meaning they have. Special concentrations of artillery have been made, and considerable bodies of special troops of assault have been engaged. Several stretches of front trenches have been captured, part of them being soon lost. No advance in depth has yet been accomplished, and no important point has been seized. I have often explained that in either direction smashing and hammering operations may be prolonged, have become a comparatively simple and almost technical affair, and that the real test comes afterward. So we must wait and see. The distance between the two fields of attack does not suggest a single larger design. It may be asked, too, why the French front was chosen when the greater menace at present is on the British front. Is it merely to enliven the Crown Prince's inglorious record with a few inflated bulletins that would also distract attention in Germany from developments in the north and the arrival of the first American troops?

FEARS POWER OF BRITISH.

German Critic Says Fighting There Is of Serious Aspect.

AMSTERDAM, July 2.—Lieut. Gen. Baron von Ardenne, discussing in the Tageblatt of Berlin the operations on the western fighting front, after examining into various situations, said:

"Of a far more serious aspect has been the fighting on the British front. No lack of human material can be seen here. Moreover, more than ever before the British Army commanders are resorting to mass tactics.

"At any rate, the great British offensive is not yet at an end; it has only reached its turning point. That Generals Haig and Plumer will not attain their final aims is assured not only by the moral strength of our troops on the front fighting lines, but especially by the fact that behind them are strong German army reserves."

the talk of people here, one realizes with positive certainty that France knows that America now stands beside her in body as in heart, and that the two countries will march together to victory.

OUR TROOPS TO PARADE IN PARIS ON THE 4TH

By French Request a Battalion Will Take Part in the Celebration of Our Holiday.

PARIS, July 2.—It was decided this afternoon to parade one battalion of United States troops in Paris on July 4.

The American troops will arrive here on Tuesday morning, and will be quartered in the Grand Palais, while the officers will be entertained at the Military Club.

On the morning of the 4th a French band will serenade General Pershing, playing patriotic airs outside his mansion window. Afterward the General will be the central figure in a commemorative ceremony at the Invalides, where a pennant will be presented to him by the Society of the Cincinnati of France, and also a lace flag donated by the town of Le Puy, Haute-Loire.

The American troops, headed by an escort of thirty French soldiers, will afterward march to the Picpus Cemetery, where speeches will be made at the tomb of Lafayette.

GERMANS HELP MAKE CAMP.

Some Unable to Comprehend That Americans Had Arrived for War.

A FRENCH SEAPORT, Wednesday, June 27, (Delayed by Censor.)—Only a few hours after the arrival of the American expeditionary force at this port the men were established in their camp. By noon order had been brought out of chaos. The troops after mess began the work of putting their camp in order, a task which they accomplished with the aid of a few score of amazed German prisoners, most of whom refused to believe that Americans had actually arrived to fight their countrymen.

The first American transport to reach port arrived during the night, and because of the late hour they were seen by few.

In the gray of the early dawn other vessels could be seen nearly a mile down the harbor, preceded by a battleship and surrounded on every side by destroyers. As the wind suddenly shifted, the American flags, floating on the topmasts, whipped in the breeze and became visible, and a great cry of welcome surged from the waiting crowds.

As the vessels neared the quay, bugles sounded and the soldiers and sailors, who had been leaning along the rails in great numbers that the ships careened slightly, turned sharply toward the stern and saluted the flag. The crowd stood silent as if in awe for a moment. Hats were removed instinctively as the strains of "The Star-Spangled Banner" pealed out.

The people joined in a tremendous chorus of enthusiastic welcome as the morning salute to the colors was concluded.

There was an unusual sight in the harbor after the last American ship arrived. Boats flashed back and forth with officers from the flagship on visits to the smaller vessels. Signals were wigwagged from ship to ship. As rapidly as could be, the news was spread that not a single vessel had fallen victim to the submarines.

GERMAN PRESS HIDES FACTS

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, July 2.—The German newspapers apparently dare not tell the truth. For weeks the official and semi-official military critics have mocked America's efforts and assured their readers that years, if not decades, must pass before all unwillingly some few half-hearted American volunteers and doctors, escaping Germany's almighty submarines more by good luck than good judgment, would dribble into French harbors only to witness the Allies surrender. Now American troops have arrived and no newspaper in Germany dares report the facts as they are. The largest anti-American meeting that Berlin has yet seen packed Philharmonic Hall Saturday night to listen to the oratory of Justice Kahl, President of the so-called Free Patriotic Association, while he talked about the turning point of the world war. In part he said:

President Wilson's decision to join our enemies comes too late. True, America is an opponent that we must take seriously, but it is too late, and even if their 200,000 men safely reach the west front they will only arrive when the war is over, thanks to the policy of procrastination which prevented their joining the Allies a year ago.

"Russia's collapse is due exclusively to the fact that Wilson could not intervene a year ago. Fixed and defined intentions are undiscoverable in that witches' cauldron; but one thing is certain, no strong offensive need be feared from an overdemocratized Russian army. None the less, we must admit that a separate peace with Russia, thanks to the smooth-tongued flattery of Anglo-American agents, is no longer to be expected."

FRENCH FIGHTING HARD AS OUR TROOPS COME

Combats at Verdun Most Desperate, but the French Spirit Remains Unbroken.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, July 2.—The triumphant arrival in France of the American expeditionary force come sat a time when very heavy fighting has been in progress on the French front for the last fortnight. Although no grand offensive has been contrasted by the Germans on any particular sector, it is worth remembring that one so-called local attack generally uses up a larger number of troops than the total number of American soldiers now on French soil.

Moreover, it is no longer the French front that is being attacked, but "our" front, where American troops are soon to take their places, and any modification of that front not only may affect "our" war, but has a direct influence on the conditions that American soldiers are likely to meet.

By common agreement of the French soldiers and German prisoners nothing so desperate as the Foocourt Le Mort Homme battle of Friday and Saturday has been experienced since the terrible days of Verdun last year. To give one example, a French section held a blockhouse for twelve hours against no less than ten successive attacks, undertaken by large forces. The mitrailleuses were almost destroyed by bombardment, but the defenders stood firm, despite the gas and shells, bombs, and streams of flaming liquid. When at last by order from headquarters the survivors withdrew from the ruin that had been a fort, not one man was left unwounded or unhurt.

Such a picture gives point to the words in last night's communique, that "we retired from a strip of line, utterly destroyed by the enemy's fire." The spirit of the French troops is shown by the fact that even this temporary loss yesterday was repaired by a counterattack.

As regards the German intentions, it is suggested here that the Kaiser's Generals have been instructed to gain some success, however ephermal, to counteract the recrudescence of Russian activity, and produce a favorable moral effect in view of the coming interview between the German and Austrian Emperors which is likely to prove somewhat thorny to the former.

At the same time the Germans can not solace themselves for the loss of dominant positions north of Rheims and Scissons, and those recent attacks there are one proof of the advantages won by the French offensive in April, and their fear that the result may be decisive when the French strike again.

INQUIRY ON NEWS "LEAK."

American Officers Investigate 'Premature Publication' About Troops.

PARIS, Sunday, July 1.—An official statement, issued at the headquarters of the American Army late this afternoon, states that an investigation is in progress as to the premature publication in London papers of Thursday of the news of the arrival of the first American expeditionary forces.

The American correspondent who was allowed to go to the port of disembarkation, says the statement, complied with the understanding that nothing was to be published until a release was given. London papers published the report of the landing, however, while some of the transports were still passing through the danger zone. It is already known, continues the statement, that the fault does not lie with any correspondent, but with some one who permitted one of the scores of telegrams being held for release to go through to London before the release was given.

Correspondents of London newspapers and agencies who witnessed the disembarkation, when asked regarding the statement, said that they filed their dispatch in strict accordance with the rules prescribed by the American Press Bureau.

HAILS AMERICAN "ENERGY."

British War Secretary Not Surprised at Our Promptitude.

LONDON, July 2.—Lord Derby, Secretary of War, in a statement to The Associated Press today, said:

"The arrival in France of the troops of the United States to take their place by the side of the French, Belgian, and British troops, is an event of the first importance.

"The moral effect of this reinforcement will be far reaching, as the accession of a great army, of which this is the vanguard, enthusiastic for the restoration of peace and liberty throughout the world, will be welcomed to all fighting for the sacred cause on French and Belgian soil.

"The promptitude with which our kinsmen across the Atlantic have given effect to their pledges of co-operation is no surprise to me, who know their energy and resourcefulness. But it is an earnest of their determination to hasten the victory which will reward our united efforts, and, therefore, moves us deeply."

NOW QUAI DES ETATS-UNIS.

Nice Renames Famous Midi Boulevard After This Country.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—The State Department was notified today that one of the principal highways in Nice, France, had been named after the United States in honor of the entry of this country into the war against Germany. This street, a broad promenade, for years has been known as the Quai du Midi. Its name has now been changed to Quai des Etats-Unis. The promenade runs for a mile along the Mediterranean, from the River Paglione to the Castle Hill, a mass of limestone which rises 300 feet, and was formerly crowned by a strong castle, besieged, taken, and razed by the Duke of Berwick, General of Louis XIV.

Consul W. D. Hunter sent to the State Department the following letter to the Consul from the Mayor of Nice:

Sir: I have the honor to inclose herewith a copy of the minutes of the meeting of the City Council on April 30, in which it was decided to substitute the name of Quai du Midi, formerly given to one of the largest arteries of this city, to that of Quai des Etats-Unis in commemoration of the participation of the Republic of the United States in the world struggle side by side with the Allies.

The City Council, in accord with the citizens of this city, desired by this act to give a marked sign of their deep gratitude and warm sympathy to the American colony here, which you represent in such a distinguished and dignified manner. I may add that the municipality intends to place shortly in your presence a memorial tablet in commemoration of this event. I am, Sir, very respectfully yours,

F. GORAN, the Mayor.

GERMAN PRESS DIFFER ON LLOYD GEORGE TALK

One Paper Thinks England Needs Peace—Vorwaerts Wishes Germany's Position Was Clearer.

LONDON, July 2.—Commenting on Premier Lloyd George's Glasgow address on Friday, in which he said that the end of the war without the allied aims won and guaranteed would be the greatest disaster, the Rheinische Westfallsche Zeitung says, according to an Amsterdam dispatch, that although it contains nothing new, it is another indication that England needs peace.

"Our U-boats will give Lloyd George the best answer," continues the paper. "They stick fast in England's throat and no boasting or statistics will get rid of this fact."

The Cologne Volkszeitung says that the British Premier knows that Germany is ready for peace, and, therefore, the responsibility for continuance of the war rests with England. Her desire for annihilation is undiminished, the paper continues. Without her triumph there is no peace for Lloyd George. It continues:

"It is only necessary to bring these conditions to the knowledge of the German people. If there is anything which steels German courage, makes German hearts iron-hard, and rouses its strength of resistance to the highest degree, it is English peace conditions and England's continuance of the war to annihilate Germany. The Central Powers cannot accept his peace conditions unless they wish to sign their own death sentences."

The Cologne Gazette describes the proposed peace as a revelation of English deceit, and says that for the first time the English Premier admits that England is conducting a war of robbery and conquest. Time has made us hard, says the paper, and as our army has accomplished the unbelievable, so will our people endure suffering and privation rather than agree to a premature peace for Lloyd George's advantage.

The Berlin Vorwärts asserts that the Premier knows that the war spirit of England "will be broken when the people learn that Germany is ready to give the people of the occupied districts their full liberty on the day peace is declared.

"This will doubtless happen," continues the newspaper, "but if the German Government had clearly said that it would happen, the peace spirit would have been a far more in evidence in England a long time ago."

MAY INVESTIGATE HOLDUP OF NEWS

TROOPS' LANDING IN POINT

But Navy Joins in Denial of Any Orders to France to Withhold Dispatches.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—There are indications that the attention of Congress will soon be devoted to the attitude of the Government concerning the publication of news, this being in part due to the delay in the publication in American newspapers of accounts of the landing of Pershing's troops.

The Senate is now discussing the Food Administration bill to the exclusion of other business, but it is understood that at the first opportunity steps will be taken there to inquire into the activities of some officials who are brought in contact with the press to ascertain to what degree they are living up to the decision of Congress in its rejection of the press censorship section of the Spy bill that the freedom of the press shall not be curtailed. Action in the House may also be expected when that body resumes its regular sessions.

Many favorable comments were heard here today on the dispatches, sent from Paris to THE NEW YORK TIMES by Wythe Williams, describing the arrival of the first United States expeditionary force at a French port. It was remarked that the correspondents of THE TIMES had caught the atmosphere of the occasion and brought to their readers a picture of the debarkation of the "Sammees."

A member of the Cabinet aamitted that the accounts of the landing of the American forces would be a great incentive to enlistment. Williams and Mr. Grasty, it was conceded, had written some of the best recruiting literature that had been produced. Taking that estimate or the dispatches, the action of somebody in authority in holding them back so that publication was delayed until today makes, in the opinion of many persons here, the blunder of this somebody the more reprehensible.

The London Times printed on Thursday an account of the arrival of the American troops in France. Although that fact must have been as well known to the authorities in France, as London is to within a few hours' journey of Germany and at least seven days nearer Germany than is New York, the dispatches to THE NEW YORK TIMES from its correspondents, who witnessed the debarkation of the first troops landed, who left, were held up by the French censor. The censor's course is the more remarkable because THE TIMES dispatches had been passed by General Pershing's headquarters, which saw no objection to their publication.

Who was responsible for the blunder that held back from American newspapers accounts of the arrival of American soldiers could not be ascertained today. The State and War Departments have denied having had anything to do with application of the censorship to American press dispatches, and today the Navy Department added its denial.

The understanding previously obtained by THE TIMES correspondent was that the French ceisorship had been applied at the reques of the Washington Government. The original request was understood to be that the French and British censors should pass no dispatches to American newspapers concerning the American forces in Europe until they had been approved by the proper authority in Pershing's headquarters. In the case of Mr. Williams's dispatch to THE TIMES the French censor held it after it had been passed by Pershing's headquarters. It is to this method that objection is raised.

Last week was recruiting week for the regular army. President Wilson set it aside in a proclamation, calling for 70,000 volunteers to fill the ranks, but beyond the President's proclamation and the work of the recruiting officers there was in general throughout the country little effort made to induce young men to join the colors.

The opinion prevails here that if such dispatches as those to THE TIMES describing the landing of American soldiers had been published before the expiration of recruiting week, instead of having been held up by the censor, young men would have been stirred to offer their services to their country in the hope of being able to join the other "Sammees" on the other side of the Atlantic, and recruiting week would not have been a failure.

The Foreign Affairs News Service sends out the following this evening in regard to the situation created by the holding up of dispatches to American newspapers after the information contained in these dispatches had been published in England:

"While Secretary of War Baker stoutly refused today to make any statement respecting the propriety of the publication of information in England and France respecting the landing of American forces in Europe, Secretary of the Navy Daniels who had previously been surprised by the publication abroad of intelligence concerning the arrival of American naval forces in European waters, asserted that some arrangement must be devised so that America will be as quickly and efficiently informed as England and France.

"One military officer asserted today that it would be just as well for the Government to permit the publication of prospective troop movements as to undergo a repetition of what actually occurred, namely, the publication in England and France of the arrival of the first contingents of the American overseas expedition before all the units had arrived, thus making it possible for German submarines to be informed of the approximate location of the transports still on the water.

"No effort was made by this authority to explain the action of the War Department in clamping down the censorship upon details which had already been published in London, and which were easily accessible to Germany via both Switzerland and Holland. It was the belief of military men here that all the units of the first contingent had been landed in France, but it was impossible to obtain any explanation of the refusal of Secretary of War Baker to permit any authorized publicity concerning the movement.

"The Navy Department is understood to be awaiting a statement by the War Department before commenting upon its successful convoying of the transports and supply ships to France. The Navy and War Departments were said to be co-operating perfectly in the troop movement and in transporting supplies to the army in France.

FOOD FIGURES STIR NEUTRAL DIPLOMATS

COUNTRY IN BAD PLIGHT

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—With action by the newly created Exports Council imminent, the publication today of figures purporting to show the vast quantities of foodstuffs entering Germany through Holland and Scandinavian countries caused something of a stir in neutral diplomatic circles.

It has been reported here for several days that the diplomatic representatives of the neutral countries have been endeavoring to have President Wilson soften the terms of his first embargo decree, and that a thorough consideration of the facts they have presented has been one of the reasons for temporarily withholding the executive proclamation.

On the other hand, other interests have been urging upon the President that drastic steps should be taken to end the system by which German soldiers are being fed through procuring products from neutral countries dependent upon the imports from America.

Wires were busy today as a result of the prominence given in THE TIMES to the figures obtained from an official source showing that sufficient food was obtained from Holland and Scandinavia to supply the entire German Army at the front. It was taken as an indication that definite steps were contemplated by this Government to end such a practice, a step for which the neutrals might well adjust their affairs and prepare.

From an official high in the Netherlands Legation it was learned today that figures have been presented to President Wilson intending to show that Holland has sent but 25 per cent. of her exports to Germany. The other 75 per cent. is going to England. This 25 per cent. is virtually being forced by Germany, it was said, in order to permit Holland to gain an existence.

"You have already cut your normal shipments to us," is in effect the message sent from the Germans to Holland. "Is it the neutrality of which you talk to refuse further offers of business altogether? If you refuse us what we want you will get none of our coal."

M. Van Rappard, Netherlands Minister at Washington, would not discuss the details of the present situation. He consented, however, to tell of the difficulties of his country in preserving neutrality.

"My country," he said, "cannot be forced into the war by economic pressure. But let one soldier of either side set foot on Dutch soil, and it will be shown that Holland can fight again against overwhelming odds, can fight a whole century for her liberties as she has done before."

"Ours has been a most tremendous burden. Our people are living now on reduced rations. The Dutch workman gets but a pitiful allowance of bread. Besides we are feeding a million refugee Belgians. More, when the Belgian Commission ran short of grain a while ago Holland let them have 70,000 bushels of the grain she herself needed so badly.

"Yes, it is true that the imports of Holland from the United States have increased since the war. But our imports as a whole have been reduced almost to the vanishing point. We got our grain before the war from Rumania and from Russia. Both those sources are closed to us now. Of course, our imports from you have increased, but that has not meant an abnormal supply for us.

"It is ridiculous to talk of a huge illicit trade with Germany. Every newspaper that I get from home tells of one or two poor devils shot while trying to run the border lands. The border is so guarded that no considerable business could be done across it.

"Of course we do some trade with Germany, but it is only one-third of the export trade we had before the war.

"Once more I want to say," M. Van Rappard concluded, with emphasis, "Holland cannot be forced into this war by economic pressure. If we must suffer privation, well, we know how to do it. We will not fight unless we are attacked. It is all very well for some persons who say that. They are 3,000 miles from the war. It is at our very doors. We are bearing the burden of maintaining a half million men under arms, and millions of refugees in a country that is not self-supporting. But we will not be the first to make an attack at arms."

DUTCH PAPER RESENTS RESTRICTION PLANS

Assails Reported Washington Idea of Forcing Neutrals to Stop Trading with Germany.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, July 2.—The Nieuwe Courant, which usually represents the views of the Dutch Government, commented this morning on a Washington dispatch to THE NEW YORK TIMES regarding the rationing of neutrals.

The third point of the Washington dispatch comes in for special criticism, namely, the requirement that neutrals shall cease to argue that it is necesary to send foodstuffs to Germany in return for coal, and that they shall buy instead from the Allies. The Courant says:

"This proposition is so absurd that we find it difficult to believe that THE TIMES is accurately informed. For example, how can we buy coal from the Allies when they refuse to deliver it to us on the ground that they need it all themselves? It is also illogical, for coal transport would occupy a further portion of the all too scanty cargo space available."

The Courant says that it is absurd for American officials to demand that Germany's next-door neighbors shall cease to trade with her when the Americans have insisted all along on their right to send ammunition to the Allies.

The newspaper also fears that the United States may adopt what the Courant calls the "Northcliffe press argument," as, for example, that cotton imported into Holland from Bremen before the war, is not to be considered to have come from America. It goes on:

"We fear a repetition of the arguments of the British jingo press, which took no account of the fact that we can no longer obtain certain commodities from Germany and Russia, and that some of our overseas exports are substitutes for things that have disappeared from the market. We can only hope that although Lord Northcliffe is now an honored guest in the United States, this program adopted at the time by his papers will be rejected by the American Government, which cannot shut its ears to the arguments of neutral diplomats."

The statement was made in a special dispatch to THE TIMES from Washington, printed in Friday's issue, that the Entente Governments were aiming to prevent all trade between Germany and the contiguous neutral countries, and that while the policy of the United States had not been announced, it was expected that the administration of the export restriction authority, given to the President, would take these forms:

1. Exports of foodstuffs to Holland, Scandinavia, and Switzerland to be limited to absolute necessaries supplemental to their home production for the maintenance of those countries.
2. Denial to them of pig iron, sulphur, and other commodities in which or in whose derivatives those countries have been trading with Germany.
3. Restriction of trading privileges of the neutral countries with the Allies unless such neutral countries purchase all the supplies they need from the Allies, instead of urging the necessity of having to exchange foodstuffs with Germany for coal and other supplies.

population—will pass upon claims for exemption except those based upon industrial or agricultural occupation, subject to appeal to the district boards.

All cases involving agricultural or industrial exemptions will be passed upon by the district boards—one for each Federal judicial district—which also will decide appeals from decisions of the local boards.

Upon organizing the local boards will take over from the registration boards all registration cards, which they will number serially and list for posting to public view. Then, after having been advised of the method by which the order of liability for service shall be determined and of the quota to be drawn from its territory (minus credits for enlistments in the National Guard or regular army) each board will prepare a list of persons designated for service in the order of their liability, post the list, give it to the press, and within three days send notice to each designated person by mail.

As the men so notified appear, the boards first will make a physical examination in accordance with special regulations to be provided, bearing in mind that all persons accepted by them will be re-examined by army surgeons. If the physical examination is passed successfully, then comes the question of exemption.

Those Who Are Exempt.

Persons who must be exempted or discharged by the local board include:

Officers of the United States, of the States, territories, and the District of Columbia; ministers of religion, students of divinity, persons in the military or naval service of the United States, subjects of Germany, all other aliens who have not taken out first papers, county or municipal officers, Custom House clerks, workmen in Federal armories, arsenals and navy yards, actual employes in the Federal service designated by the President for exemption, pilots, merchant marine sailors, those with a status with respect to dependents which renders their exclusion or discharge desirable, married men with dependent wife or child, son of a dependent widow, son of a dependent aged or infirm parent, or brother of dependent orphan child less than 16 years old, if such man shall actually deficient, and any member of any well recognized religious sect existing May 18, 1917, whose creed forbids participation in war and whose religious convictions accord with the creed.

Claims for exemption because of dependents may be made by the man himself, his wife, or other dependents, or by a third party, who has personally investigated the case. A claim made by the husband must be accompanied by supporting affidavits signed by the wife and by the head of a family living in the same territory. A claim by the wife or a third party must be accompanied by two supporting affidavits signed by heads of families.

Similar rules govern claims on the grounds of other dependents, the dependents or third parties being authorized to file claims with supporting affidavits. In each case the board must be satisfied before it grants exemption or discharge that the dependent or dependents actually are supported mainly by the fruits of the man's mental or physical labor.

The text of the regulations regarding an exemption claim by a married man with dependent wife or child illustrates the method prescribed for similar cases, as follows:

"(b) Those in a status with respect to persons dependent upon them for support which renders their exclusion or discharge desirable.

"(1) Any married man whose wife or child is dependent upon his labor for support, upon presentation to such local board, at any time within ten days after the filing of a claim for exemption by such married man, of an affidavit signed by him giving his name, age, and place of residence; the name and place of residence of his child or children (if any;) stating that he is the husband of said wife, the father of her child or children; that such wife, child, or children is (are) dependent upon his labor for support as the term 'labor' is used in these rules and regulations; that his income was mainly the fruit of his mental or physical labor, and was not mainly derived from property or other sources, independent of his mental or physical labor.

Affidavit by a Wife.

"And upon presentation, within the time aforesaid, to such local board of a supporting affidavit signed by such wife giving her husband's name, age, and place of residence; her own name and place of residence; the name (s), age (s), and residence of their child or children (if any;) and stating that she is the wife of such person, the mother of such child or children, and that he is the father of her child or children; the approximate amount of the separate income and the independent income of such child or children during the last preceding year, exclusive of any sums received from her husband, and exclusive of any gifts to her or her child or children, the same being merely the income derived from the separate or independent property of, or property held in trust for her, the child or children; that she or her child or children is (are) dependent upon her husband's labor for support, as the term 'labor' is used in these rules and regulations; and that her husband's income was mainly the fruit of his mental or physical labor, and was not income mainly derived from property or other sources, independent of his mental or physical labor.

"And upon presentation, within the time aforesaid, to such local board of a supporting affidavit signed by a head of a family residing within the area in which such local board has jurisdiction, giving the name, age, and place of residence of the husband whose discharge is sought; the name (s), place of residence of his wife, child, or children, (if any,) the age (s) of such child or children; stating that said husband, wife, child, or children is (are) personally well known to him; and stating upon information and belief that the person sought to be discharged is the husband of such wife and the father of such child or children; the approximate amount of the separate or independent income, during the last preceding year, of such wife, child, or children, exclusive of any sums received from her husband, and exclusive of any gifts the same being merely the income derived from the separate or individual property of or property held in trust for such wife, child, or children; that such wife, child, or children is (are) dependent upon the husband's labor for support, as the term 'labor' is used in these rules and regulations; that the husband's income from which such support was received was mainly the fruit of his mental or physical labor and was not income mainly derived from property or other sources, independent of his mental or physical labor; all stating on oath the sources of affiant's information and grounds for belief concerning the income and dependency of the wife, child, or children.

"If the wife does not live within the jurisdiction of the local board the affidavits required by heads of families may be made by such persons residing outside of the area of such local board.

"If a claim for discharge is not filed by the husband or his wife, but by another person in respect of such husband, then upon presentation to such local board, at any time within ten days after the filing of such claim, of an affidavit signed by such married man, the husband of said wife, the father of her child or children; that such wife, child, or children is (are) dependent upon his labor for support as the term 'labor' is used in these rules and regulations; that his income was mainly the fruit of his mental or physical labor, and was not mainly derived from property or other sources, independent of his mental or physical labor.

Affidavit by a Wife.

"And upon presentation, within the time aforesaid, to such local board of a supporting affidavit signed by such wife giving her husband's name, age, and place of residence; her own name and place of residence; the name (s), age (s), and residence of their child or children (if any;) and stating that she is the wife of such person, the mother of such child or children, and that he is the father of her child or children; the approximate amount of the separate income and the independent income of such child or children during the last preceding year, exclusive of any sums received from her husband, and exclusive of any gifts to her or her child or children, the same being merely the income derived from the separate or independent property of, or property held in trust for, the child or children; that she or her child or children is (are) dependent upon her husband's labor for support, as the term 'labor' is used in these rules and regulations; and that her husband's income was mainly the fruit of his mental or physical labor, and was not income mainly derived from property or other sources, independent of his mental or physical labor.

"And upon presentation, within the time aforesaid, to such local board of a supporting affidavit signed by a head of a family residing within the area in which such local board has jurisdiction, giving the name, age, and place of residence of the husband whose discharge is sought; the name (s), place of residence of his wife, child, or children, (if any,) the age (s) of such child or children; stating that said husband, wife, child, or children is (are) personally well known to him; and stating upon information and belief that the person sought to be discharged is the husband of such wife and the father of such child or children; the approximate amount of the separate or independent income, during the last preceding year, of such wife, child, or children, exclusive of any sums received from her husband, and exclusive of any gifts the same being merely the income derived from the separate or independent property of, or property held in trust for such wife, child, or children; that such wife, child, or children is (are) dependent upon the husband's labor for support, as the term 'labor' is used in these rules and regulations; that the husband's income from which such support was received was mainly the fruit of his mental or physical labor and was not income mainly derived from property or other sources, independent of his mental or physical labor; all stating on oath the sources of affiant's information and grounds for belief concerning the income and dependency of the wife, child, or children.

"If the wife does not live within the jurisdiction of the local board the affidavits required by heads of families may be made by such persons residing outside of the area of such local board.

"If a claim for discharge is not filed by the husband or his wife, but by another person in respect of such husband, then upon presentation to such local board, at any time within ten days after the filing of such claim, of an affidavit signed by such married man, the husband of said wife, the father of her child or children; that such wife, child, or children is (are) dependent upon his labor for support as the term 'labor' is used in these rules and regulations; that his income was mainly the fruit of his mental or physical labor, and was not mainly derived from property or other sources, independent of his mental or physical labor.

Affidavit by a Wife.

"And upon presentation, within the time aforesaid, to such local board of a supporting affidavit signed by such wife giving her husband's name, age, and place of residence; her own name and place of residence; the name (s), age (s), and residence of their child or children (if any;) and stating that she is the wife of such person, the mother of such child or children, and that he is the father of her child or children; the approximate amount of the separate income and the independent income of such child or children during the last preceding year, exclusive of any sums received from her husband, and exclusive of any gifts to her or her child or children, the same being merely the income derived from the separate or independent property of, or property held in trust for, the child or children; that she or her child or children is (are) dependent upon her husband's labor for support, as the term 'labor' is used in these rules and regulations; and that her husband's income was mainly the fruit of his mental or physical labor, and was not income mainly derived from property or other sources, independent of his mental or physical labor.

Certificate of Marriage.

"The person filing such claim, and the affidavit above specified, shall present therewith the marriage certificate (or a certified copy) of the husband and wife mentioned in his affidavit. In default thereof the affidavits of two persons must be presented, stating that they were present at the marriage ceremony of such person and his wife; or, if not so present, that such person and his wife live together as man and wife and have lived together as such (giving the residence of such married persons) for the period of —— years or months.

"And upon presentation, within the time aforesaid, to such local board of two supporting affidavits signed by heads of families, residing within the area in which such local board has jurisdiction, giving the name, age, and place of residence of the husband whose discharge is sought; the name and place of residence of his wife, the name(s), the age(s) of the child or children, (if any;) stating that they are personally well known to him; and stating upon information and belief that the person sought to be discharged is the husband of such wife and the father of such child or children; the approximate amount of the separate or independent income, during the last preceding year, of such wife, child, or children, exclusive of any sums received from her husband, exclusive of any gifts to her, her child, or children, the same being the income derived from the separate or independent property of, or property held in trust for, such wife, child, or children; that such wife, child, or children is (are) dependent upon the husband's labor for support, as the term 'labor' is used in these rules and regulations; that the husband's income from which such support was received was mainly the fruit of his mental or physical labor, and was not income mainly derived from property or other sources, independent of his mental or physical labor; all stating on oath the sources of affiant's information and grounds for belief concerning the income and dependency of the wife, child, or children.

"If the wife does not live within the jurisdiction of the local board the affidavits required by heads of families may be made by such persons residing outside of the area of such local board.

"If a claim for discharge is not filed by the husband or his wife, but by another person in respect of such husband, then upon presentation to such local board, at any time within ten days after the filing of such claim, of an affidavit signed by such married man, the husband of said wife, the father of her child or children; that such wife, child, or children is (are) dependent upon his labor for support as the term 'labor' is used in these rules and regulations; that his income was mainly the fruit of his mental or physical labor, and was not income mainly derived from property or other sources, independent of his mental or physical labor; all stating on oath the sources of affiant's information and grounds for belief concerning the income and dependency of the wife, child, or children.

"If the wife does not live within the area of such local board the affidavit of the head of a family may also be made by such a person residing outside the area of such local board.

"If the claim for discharge is filed in respect of such husband by his wife, then upon presentation, within the time aforesaid, to such local board of an affidavit signed by such wife giving her husband's name, age, and place of residence; her own name and place of residence; the name (s), age (s), and residence of their child or children, (if any,) and stating that she is the wife of such person and the mother of such child or children, and that he is the father of her child or children; the approximate amount of her separate income and independent income of such child or children during the last preceding year, exclusive of any sums received from her husband, and exclusive of any gifts to her, her child or children, the same being merely the income derived from

President Urges Draft Boards to be Impartial In Adjudicating Sacred Rights of Individual

The regulations which I am today causing to be promulgated, pursuant to the direction of the selective service law, cover the remaining steps of the plan for calling into the service of the United States qualified men from those who have registered; those selected as the result of this process to constitute, with the regular army, the National Guard, and the navy, the fighting forces of the nation, all of which forces are, under the terms of the law, placed in a position of equal right, dignity, and responsibility with the members of all other military forces.

The regulations have been drawn with a view to the needs and circumstances of the whole country, and provide a system which it is expected will work with the least inequality and personal hardship. Any system of selecting men for military service, whether voluntary or involuntary in its operation, necessarily selects some men to bear the burden of danger and sacrifice for the whole nation. The system here provided places all men of military age upon an even plane, and then, by a selection which neither favors the one nor penalizes the other, calls out the requisite number for service.

The successful operation of this law and of these regulations depends necessarily upon the loyalty, patriotism, and justice of the members of the boards to whom its operation is committed, and I admonish every member of every local board and of every district board of review that their duty to their country requires an impartial and fearless performance of the delicate and difficult duties intrusted to them. They should remember as to each individual case presented to them that they are called upon to adjudicate the most sacred rights of the individual and to preserve untarnished the honor of the nation.

Our armies at the front will be strengthened and sustained if they be composed of men free from any sense of injustice in their mode of selection, and they will be inspired to loftier efforts in behalf of a country in which the citizens called upon to perform high public functions perform them with justice, fearlessness, and impartiality.

on, "why the President, when he appealed to gentlemen outside the chamber on patriotic grounds not to urge the passage of liquor legislation in this bill, did not at the same time go to the breweries and ask them to withdraw their men who have been filling the lobbies of Congress."

New Liquor Amendment.

The liquor problem as embraced in the Food bill still seemed remote from solution today. Early in the day it looked as though Senator Chamberlain's amendment prohibiting the manufacture of whisky, but allowing beer and wine, might be reported out by the Committee on Agriculture and rushed through to a vote in the Senate, but when the committee got to work it quickly voted down the Chamberlain amendment. Later on the committee adopted by a vote of 5 to 3, an amendment following the line of that defeated last week in the Senate, by which the manufacture of whiskey is barred, but the making of wines and beer permitted, with discretionary power given to the President to put the ban on the latter if he should consider it necessary, as a means of conserving the food supply. This discretionary feature is exactly what the President informed the Democratic conferees at the White House last night he considered legislation, so he would not be called upon to act.

The substitute amendment, which was reported to the Senate late in the day, follows:

Section 12. That it shall be unlawful for any person, firm, or corporation to use of any foods, food materials, or feeds in the manufacture of distilled spirits for beverage purposes.

(b) Whenever the President shall find that limitation, regulation, or prohibition of the use of foods, food materials, or feeds in the production of vinous, malt, or fermented liquors, or that reduction of the alcoholic content of any such liquors is essential to assure an adequate and continuous supply of food or feed, he is authorized from time to time to prescribe and give public notice of the extent of the limitation, regulation, prohibition, or reduction so necessitated. Whenever such notice shall have been given and shall remain unrevoked, no person shall after the expiration of such period as shall be prescribed in such notice use any foods, food materials, or feeds in the production of such vinous, malt, or fermented liquors, except in accordance with the limitations, regulations, and prohibitions prescribed in such notice, or produce any such liquors having an alcoholic content in excess of the amount prescribed thereafter in such notice. When the question arises as to whether any particular product is suitable for food or feed, the question shall be determined by the President, and his determination shall be conclusive for the purposes of this section.

(c) Except as otherwise herein provided, the Commissioner of Internal Revenue shall be charged with the administration of this section, and he is authorized, with the approval of the President, to require the taking out of such permits, the keeping of such records, the execution of such bonds, and the observance of such rules and regulations as are necessary and proper for the execution of the same.

(d) Any person who willfully violates this section shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and shall, upon conviction thereof, be punished by a fine not exceeding $5,000 or imprisonment for not more than two years, or both.

Control Over Cotton.

The Senate succeeded in reaching a vote on two amendments to Section 1, by which cotton, its by-products, and aluminium were added to the list of articles to be put under control. In a sharp crossfire of debate all the Southern Senators, excepting Senator Underwood and Senator Bankhead, arrayed themselves against putting cotton on the list. The vote to include cotton was 43 to 24.

Leaders of both "wet" and "dry" factions tonight were predicting victory in the prospective open, clean-cut fight in the Senate over empowering the President to deal with light beverages. Although there was some change of sentiment in favor of the Gore substitute, the general belief was that a substitute drawn today by Senator Martin, Democratic leader, similar to the Chamberlain amendment prohibiting only beverage distillation, would be adopted.

The closure motion, if presented tomorrow, will, under the rules, lie over until Thursday, and then be subject to a vote without debate. The motion does not declare that the signers believe a filibuster is in progress, but merely proposes to close debate after each Senator who so desires has an hour to discuss the bill and all amendments. At the request of Senator Chamberlain, Senator Hollis of New Hampshire circulated a petition and got the required sixteen signatures for the closure motion.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—During the debate in the Senate today on the Food Administration bill, Senator Reed of Missouri assailed Arthur V. Davis of Pittsburgh, President of the Aluminium Company of America, for acting, in his capacity as a member of the Advisory Commission of the Council of National Defense, upon a contract to supply the Government with this company's aluminium for army canteens. Senator Reed characterized as "not only anomalous but little short of scandalous" a system that would permit the President of a concern, as a member of the Advisory Board, to pass upon his own contract to sell anything to the Government.

The Missouri Senator pointed out that Mr. Davis, as a manufacturer, had fixed a price of 74 cents apiece for 1,000,000 canteens, the actual cost of the aluminium entering into the manufacture being 27½ cents for each canteen. As a member of the Advisory Board, he said, Mr. Davis, while not actually fixing the price for the Government, was in position to recommend the acceptance of the figure he wanted. He bypassed the fact, Mr. Reed said, that company controlled the entire output of aluminium in the country.

Senator Reed offered an amendment to the Food bill to include aluminium under Government control. It was accepted.

Secretary Daniels Surprised.

When Secretary Daniels heard late today of Senator Reed's revelation as expressed in the Senate, he expressed surprise that such a system had been allowed to operate. The Secretary obtained figures to show that the navy had been paying as high as 65 cents a pound for aluminium, as against the manufacturer price of 27½ cents a pound.

"I wish I had known it, I wouldn't have paid it," said the Secretary. He added that those were last year's market prices, however, and that at the time he did not have authority to fix prices for materials for the navy's needs. He insisted that he would inquire into the production cost and fix a just price, allowing a reasonable profit.

The market prices at which the navy has bought aluminium since 1911 have been: In 1911, 20 cents a pound; 1912, 22 cents; 1913, 23½ cents; 1914, 18½ cents; 1915, 34 cents, and 1916, 60 cents.

In his attack Senator Reed delved into evidence given by Mr. Davis recently at a hearing before the House Committee on Foreign Affairs upon a petition of manufacturers to utilize the power of Niagara Falls in making war materials. Mr. Reed observed that it was apparent that one concern and one man control the aluminium business of this country." The capital stock of Mr. Davis's concern, he said, is listed at $18,000,000, but in reality it is $20,000,000, while last year its profits were $20,000,000.

"I would like to ask," interposed Senator Borah, "whether this instance in relation to Mr. Davis is typical of the Advisory Board and its pending contracts with the Government, or is it unique?"

"It is indisputable," replied Mr. Reed, "that practically all of the big trust monopolies have mobilized in the Munsey Building."

This allusion obviously was intended for the Council of National Defense, which is quartered in that building in Washington.

Senator Newlands took Senator Reed to task for what he regarded as an intimation that men acting as Mr. Davis had done were not acting honestly.

"I have not charged anybody with robbing the Government," retorted Senator Reed. "These men claim they have been perfectly fair in their dealings with the Government. What I say is that an impossible arrangement exists that is bound to end disastrously for all."

FOOD PRICES JUGGLED, GRAND JURY REPORTS

Middlemen Criticised in Chicago Federal Presentment, but Matter of Indictments Postponed.

CHICAGO, July 2.—Exploitation of war conditions to raise food prices to consumers "for the benefit of the few who are handling food products" was reported by the Federal Grand Jury today after an investigation of several weeks. The Elgin Board of Trade, where are fixed butter prices taken as standard throughout the country, received especial attention from the Grand Jury, which pointed out that the board holds only one fifteen-minute session each week.

"It is a question whether the Elgin Board is a real and bona fide market for the purchase and sale of butter," comments the report.

Trading in canned foods, the Grand Jury found, is carried on under a system which compels the consumer to deal with middlemen and prevents trading directly with the canner. One result of this was given in the price of canned corn, which sold from canner to wholesaler in 1916 at 65 cents a dozen, and is now selling to the retailer at $1.75 a dozen and to the consumer at a still higher price.

The report urged legislation to prohibit cold storage companies from lending large amounts on perishable food products in warehouses, which the Grand Jury said leads to speculation and higher prices. "Reports under oath to the Government on the amounts of foods in cold storage are recommended.

Because of the short time which the Grand Jury had for its work a thorough examination was not possible which would have warranted indictments against individuals. Robert W. Childs, Special Assistant Attorney General, asked another jury would be called soon to continue the investigation.

Among documents obtained by the Grand Jury were circulars sent by two wholesale grocers to jobbers and salesmen. One of these said:

"Raise your prices now on everything we have advised you will advance. You can get the extra price this week as well as next."

WANTS CANNED SALMON.

Britain Rescinds Prohibition and Will Take a Limited Supply.

LONDON, July 2.—Robert P. Skinner, the American Consul General, was informed today that Great Britain had rescinded the order prohibiting the importation of canned salmon from the United States and Canada.

Fifty per cent. of the amount imported in 1916 of this commodity will be permitted to come in.

DEATH THREAT FOR COCCHI'S PURSUER

TRAILED ABOUT STREETS

Black Hand Writers Urge Commissioner Woods's Representative to Abandon the Case.

JUDGE PREDICTS DELAYS

Insists on the Secrecy of Inquisition and Believes It Will Continue "Several Months."

BOLOGNA, Saturday, June 30, (Delayed.)—Joseph W. Grigg, a New York City police agent, who came here in connection with the case of Alfredo Cocchi, the confessed murderer of Ruth Cruger, the Wadleigh High School girl, has been warned that he will meet the fate of Lieutenant Petrosino. Grigg, who represents Police Commissioner Woods of New York, presented his credentials yesterday to the police and the Royal Prosecutor and asked to be informed of the results of the examination of Cocchi. Grigg, who had called previously on Judge Zucconi, conferred at length with Signor Venturini, Cocchi's attorney.

The threats received by Grigg are believed to have been caused by a conviction that he is in Bologna in an effort to obtain the extradition of the prisoner.

Since receiving the first of these threats Grigg has been cautious in his movements. In addition to being shadowed on the streets, he has received letters of a Black Hand nature urging him to abandon the case.

It is probable that Grigg soon will leave for Rome to attend to another phase of his mission.

Although today is a holiday, Judge Zucconi was at the prison from 7 A. M. until noon, interrogating Cocchi. The prisoner's appearance on his return to his cell indicated that the questioning was severe.

Signor Venturini, notwithstanding indisposition, went to court this afternoon and made another protest against the secret manner in which the investigation was being conducted as a result of which he is not allowed to confer with his client. The lawyer referred to articles in the Italian penal code which he said not only did not admit the possibility of Cocchi's extradition, but prevented the Italian Government from trying the prisoner for a crime committed abroad. He said previous exceptions in similar cases were contrary to the spirit of the law, such exceptions having been made in deference to the wishes of the United States.

"This cannot go on," he said. "The law exists, and cannot be violated. It is a matter of honor with me, to see that the prisoner gets a fair trial, as I have undertaken in my old age to defend all poor Italians whom I can serve."

Judge Explains Court Procedure.

In discussing Cocchi's case yesterday Judge Zucconi said:

"I understand how great is the interest in America to find out if possible, through the Cocchi case, whether any connivance existed between the American police and the series of so-called elopements of girls under age that have occurred frequently, without, as a rule, the men culprits being discovered.

"This is in reality what Detective Grigg has as his mission in investigating the affair. He has offered to assist me and the Italian police in unearthing all the details of the crime now under investigation, but, fortunately or unfortunately, our law admits of no exception on this point. As you see placarded in all our law courts, 'The law is equal for all.' Thus as long as the investigation lasts no one can be allowed to interfere with it, directly or indirectly. I hope America will not take offense if, while we are not allowing even the accused's lawyer to see the papers in the case or interrogate the prisoner, we also forbid the representative of the American police having any such privilege.

"However, our laws are not without their accommodations. What Detective Grigg cannot do personally and directly he can obtain in an indirect way by having the interrogations, which he would like to put to the prisoner, addressed to the imprisoned man through the Magistrate. Naturally this process takes longer because, although we have no doubt about the detective's standing and his mission being officially intrusted to him, still we cannot recognize him. He must submit his questions through the medium of the American embassy in Rome, which will pass them on to the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, this department turning them over to the Ministry of Justice, which finally forwards them to the Magistrate.

"Once these relations are established we will undertake the investigation desired by the American police, transmitting them through the same channels to Detective Grigg.

Investigation to Remain Secret.

"What must be put clearly before the American public and its authorities is that so long as the investigation lasts absolutely no one can have official information regarding the developments in the case, nor be allowed to communicate directly or indirectly with the prisoner. This prohibition extends even to the members of his family. His old father, whom I understand is heartbroken for what is occurring, cannot visit him, and his wife, if she were here, would not be allowed to see him.

"As I have said, these restrictions last as long as the investigation by the prosecution continues, and I can foresee that it will last several months. In fact, while awaiting with keen interest the American newspapers containing the descriptions of how the body was found we cannot conduct the examinations on such unofficial reports, but must wait until we receive the official, legal evidence from the American authorities. This means a long delay.

"Thus, at the present moment we are expecting to receive news from the American representative rather than give it to him. The confession of Cocchi was relatively unimportant, as it was evidently made from a desire to defend himself, while it is most important to compare his statement and his assertions with what was discovered in New York at the finding of Ruth Cruger's body.

"In conclusion," said Judge Zucconi with a smile, "although the presence of Detective Grigg and so many American correspondents here is most pleasant I believe that at present, and for some time to come, all might be better employed elsewhere."

Father Prospero Perpicari, Chaplain of the Prison of San Giovanni in Monte, visited Cocchi this morning for the first time. The priest, who has dedicated his life to reform work among criminals, seemed much moved when he returned from the cell.

Father Perpicari said he had given the authorities a pledge which would prevent him repeating the substance of his conversation with the prisoner. Cocchi had asked to see him, he explained, and the King's Procurator had permitted the visit, even during this investigation period. The priest thought the interview had been beneficial to the prisoner, as he seemed in better spirits when they parted.

Cocchi, who originally was placed in Cell 5, has now been removed to No. 68, which is safer. Signor Liocioli, the Director of the prison, said today that in the fifty years since the Monastery of San Giovanni in Monte was turned into a prison only one escape had occurred. Three years ago a single prisoner succeeded in twisting free the iron bars in a window, from which he reached the prison roof, and thence the nearby tower of the Church of San Giovanni, where he concealed himself in the confine.

Each prisoner is known by a number instead of a name. Cocchi's number is 15,372. The prison books have an entry showing Cocchi to have been taken there on June 17.

COCCHI SHAMES BOLOGNA.

Mayor Proposes to Send Deputation Here to Disown Slayer.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BOLOGNA, July 2.—The Mayor of Bologna recently proposed that the city should send a deputation to America to express deep regret that Alfredo Cocchi, a native of this town, had disgraced himself by committing a terrible crime, which the whole population condemned, repudiating its author as a fellow-citizen. Having expressed this idea to the American newspapermen now here, and also to townsmen who had lived in America, the Mayor was told that the Americans were too broad-minded to blame the City of Bologna for the fault of her son.

Judge Zucconi said today that while he was ready to facilitate in every way possible the work of the American correspondents, whose interest in the case he considered quite understandable, he could not allow the Italian law to be disregarded, which prescribes secrecy in the investigation of criminal cases. He concluded by saying that while he was glad to speak with any one who was familiar with the details of the case, he could not under any circumstances allow anything in possession of the court about the case to become known. He wished to warn the American public that whatever was reported as coming from him should not be considered true if it contained any details of the investigation.

Since Renaissance days, when Bologna was the frequent meeting place of Popes, Emperors, and Kings, and since the time when the sister of Napoleon I. was married to General Baciochi and held a minture court and gave splendid entertainments in the stately sixteenth century palace where Cocchi's examination is now taking place, the people of the city have never been so moved as they are today. They resent deeply the discredit which they consider he has brought upon the city. The spacious square fronting the palace where the trial will be held is constantly filled with a moving crowd, discussing every detail of the family history of Cocchi, talking with witnesses likely to testify at the coming trial, and commenting on the character and qualifications of the numerous citizens who are being called in order to select ten jurors who eventually will determine Cocchi's fate.

Although no definite information as to Cocchi's confession or behavior is obtainable, it is reported that the prisoner now maintains silence, and is determined to give no details regarding the death of his victim. His motive for withholding information now is difficult to explain, as he definitely admitted his crime. The authorities are watchful, fearing the prisoner possibly harbors thoughts of rescue on the part of his friends, which obviously is impossible, or plans suicide.

JURY INQUIRY LIKELY.

Judge McIntyre Suggests Investigation of 'Seeming Police Indifference.'

A Grand Jury investigation of the negligence of the police in the Ruth Cruger case is expected to start at once, as the result of a charge made yesterday by Judge McIntyre of General Sessions in swearing in the members of the Additional July Grand Jury, of which Russell Griswold Colt, a broker, is Foreman. Judge McIntyre instructed the members of the jury that it was within their province "to inquire into the seeming indifference" of the police, and added that if it should develop that there had been failure to perform a duty they should return indictments. Judge McIntyre in his charge said:

"You may inquire into the seeming indifference of certain police officials in relation to the case of Ruth Cruger, who was deliberately and cruelly murdered in this city several months ago. By this observation I do not want to be understood as reflecting upon the Police Department of the City of New York. I think it is generally conceded that an atrocious murder was committed.

"In one of the papers published in the city it is openly charged that upward of 700 girls have been reported missing from their homes since Jan. 1, 1917. I would suggest that you also inquire concerning this.

"If you determine to make an inquiry into accusations appearing in the press every day intimating that certain police officials have failed to do their duty as the law directs. I will ask you not to do so entirely on your own account, but that you proceed, as far as possible, in connection with Commissioner Wallstein, who was appointed by his Honor the Mayor to investigate the department in respect to the circumstances surrounding the death of Ruth Cruger. If such an investigation should satisfy you that there has been a failure to perform a duty as the law directs, it will become your duty to indict. A crime is an act forbidden by law or omission of an act required by law."

As soon as District Attorney Swann learned of Judge McIntyre's charge he announced that he would place the entire facilities of his office at the disposal of the members of the Grand Jury whenever they indicated a desire to conduct an inquiry in the Cruger case.

"I won't take the initiative in the matter," he said, "but if the Grand Jurors make a request I shall aid them in every way possible."

Assistant District Attorney Edwin P. Kilroe of the Bureau of Perjury said yesterday that he would go before the Grand Jury on Thursday with the evidence against Lieutenant William Brown, whom Commissioner Wallstein accused of giving false testimony before him last week. Mr. Kilroe said that he examined three witnesses yesterday, all of whom swore that they had never had the conversations which Lieutenant Brown attributed to them while on the witness stand. Lieutenant Brown was also a witness, Mr. Kilroe said, and reiterated that he had told the truth at the hearing.

A conference attended by District Attorney Swann, Assistant District Attorney Dooling and a Mr. Johann, representing Commissioner Wallstein, was held yesterday following the examination of Mrs. Mary McDonough, janitress of a house at 227 West Eighty-third Street, where Alfredo Cocchi formerly had a machine shop. Mr. Dooling characterized Mrs. McDonough as one of the most important witnesses against Cocchi he had questioned thus far in his investigation. He declined, however, to reveal Mrs. McDonough's testimony.

From a trustworthy source it was learned that Mrs. McDonough testified that soon after Cocchi's disappearance from the city she was approached by two members of the motor cycle squad, who asked her, as they expressed it, "to cover up" on Cocchi. They told her, it was learned, that she should be especially careful not to speak to any one about Cocchi's friendships to the police. Mrs. McDonough was warned, according to her statements, that she would "suffer" if she told anything detrimental to the police.

The witness could not recall the date when she was visited by the two men, but she said it was a day or so after she had read in the papers of Mr. Cruger's visit to the District Attorney's office, when he became dissatisfied with the way the police were conducting the search for his daughter.

From other sources Mr. Dooling has learned that on the day he left New York Cocchi telephoned to two patrolmen who were close friends. These same two he had informed were very active in attempting to thwart the efforts of the detectives of the Fourth Branch in their investigation of the case. Mr. Dooling, in view of Mrs. McDonough's story, will try to ascertain whether the visitors were not the same two patrolmen.

Assistant District Attorney James E. Smith, in charge of the vice crusade growing out of developments in the Cruger case, yesterday received from the Committee of Twelve, organized last year to fight the white slave traffic, fifty alleged white slave cases which they said had been previously reported to the police. Mr. Smith held a conference with two of the members of the committee and Mrs. Grace R. Humiston, at which these cases were discussed.

While Mary Provash, the 15-year-old girl, who was returned to her parents last week after being missing for four months, was telling the Grand Jury of her enforced white slavery, Mrs. Rose Dannenberg, alleged to be the keeper of a disorderly house on East Fifteenth Street, where the girl was found, forfeited her bail in the Yorkville Court, and up until a late hour last night had not been found. The Grand Jury indicted John Roth, Mrs. Dannenberg's alleged partner, on Mary Provash's testimony. Roth is already under arrest, and will be arraigned today.

According to Mr. Smith several of the jurymen wept at the child's story, which, he said, was one of the most pitiful he had ever heard in his experience as a prosecutor. Mr. Smith said that he had thwarted a plan to send six girls to Bridgeport, Conn., and hoped to be able to make several arrests today.

Greek Destroyer Blows Up; 29 French Sailors Drowned

PARIS, July 2.—The Greek destroyer Doxa, manned by French officers and crew, has been blown up in the Mediterranean. Twenty-nine men, including all the officers, were lost.

The official announcement of the loss of the Doxa says that the destroyer sank as the result of a double explosion on June 28. The Doxa was then within a hundred yards of a merchant vessel which she was convoying.

NAMES NEW GUNMEN AS BAFF MURDERERS

REPUDIATES FORMER STORY

Witness Testifies He Accused Arichiello and Reno Through Fear of Detectives.

Frank Ferrara, the chauffeur who drove the Baff murder car, took the stand before Justice Tompkins in the Criminal Branch of the Supreme Court yesterday and disclosed for the first time the names of two gunmen whom he accused of firing the shots which killed Barnet Baff in the West Washington Market on Nov. 24, 1914. Neither of these men, Charles Dragnia, now under arrest, and a man referred to as "Tita," had ever before been mentioned in connection with the case, Ferrara at his own trial having named as the gunmen in the conspiracy Giuseppe Arichiello and Tony Reno.

Reno was never caught, but Arichiello, principally on Ferrara's testimony, was convicted of murder in the first degree and sentenced to die in the electric chair. His execution was stayed on a motion for a new trial. Yesterday Ferrara declared that all of the testimony he gave implicating Arichiello and Reno was perjured and manufactured under duress and compulsion to suit the theories of the detectives working on the case. Repudiating all of this testimony, he insisted that Arichiello and Reno were not in the murder party and that the real gunmen were Charles Dragnia, alias Jack Ressotti, and "Tita."

Dragnia, a young Italian about 25 years old, was produced in court, and Ferrara from the witness stand identified him as one of the assassins. Both Dragnia and Tita were in the Tombs on a blackmailing charge when Ferrara was arrested in February, 1916, in connection with the Baff murder. Ferrara did not say a word at the time of their alleged complicity in the crime under the grueling examination of the police and District Attorney's office. About a month ago, after Ferrara had made several efforts through his attorneys to get a new trial, he decided, he said, to disclose the names of the real gunmen, and he did so. Dragnia and Tita were traced to San Francisco. Dragnia was arrested, but Tita escaped by a hair's breadth. He was actually in the hands of a detective, when he suddenly slipped off his coat, dashed into a side street, followed by a fusillade of shots, and disappeared. He is still at large.

Denies Confession Was Bought.

Ferrara, facing death in the electric chair himself for his complicity in the Baff murder, denied that the prosecution had purchased the confession he made yesterday with a promise that his sentence would be commuted. He was merely determined, he said, to tell the truth and "leave the rest to Almighty God." His implication in the crime of men whom he knew to be innocent, he said, was due entirely to his fear of the detectives, who coerced him into building up a story that would square with their own conclusions. They had used him as a "human football," he testified, and for the time being he was willing to implicate any one they suggested, hoping that he would have an opportunity in the future to repudiate his entire story.

Most of his testimony on the stand yesterday, when he was called as a witness by the prosecution in the trial of the four poultry dealers, Joseph Cohen, Jacob Cohen, David Jacobs, and Abraham Graff, who are charged with plotting and procuring the Baff murder, consisted of a complete repudiation of almost everything that Ferrara had previously sworn to in connection with the case. Exonerating Arichiello and Reno, and naming as the gunmen in their stead Dragnia and Tita, the witness gave the following account of the shooting:

"It was early in November, 1914, when Charlie Dragnia came to me in Little Italy and said, 'I want a poultry dealer downtown killed. There's $500 in it, and a closed car must be used.' He introduced me to Tita, and we drove downtown to look over the ground. I had a chauffeur with me named Dopey John, and I told Charlie that I intended to use him when the trick was pulled. But Charlie said, 'Don't do that. We have you on the job, and we don't want it advertised all over Harlem.' He told me to get the fastest car I could.

Says Fast Automobile Was Used.

"I worked in Patsy Garafola's garage, so on Nov. 24, the day of the shooting, I told my boss that I had a hospital call for that afternoon. I took the biggest and speediest car we had, and met Charlie and Tita at 103d Street and First Avenue. They had a rifle with a Maxim silencer, which they put together. We went down to West Washington Market, stopping at Fifteenth Street and Tenth Avenue. There they got out and walked west on Fourteenth Street. After they were gone twenty minutes they came back and ordered me to drive into the market.

"We went into the market, but there were a lot of people there, and a man on horseback. I said, 'There are too many people around; wait till dark, and I'll take a chance.' He said, 'All right,' and he and Tita went away for about an hour. Dragnia came back about 6 o'clock and said, 'Drive in now. There are not many people about.' I drove into the market and was ordered to stop at Gansevoort Street and Thirteenth Avenue, on the northeast. He told me to back up, and I took a diagonal position facing southeast. I was smoking a cigarette at the wheel, and an officer passed swinging his club. Dragnia, after he left me, went on Thirteenth Avenue.

"I stayed on the corner for ten minutes and heard two shots from the north. I tried to look around to see what happened, and I saw Tita and Dragnia running toward the car. Dragnia had told me to keep the motor running when he left. Tita got in and Dragnia hopped on the running board. I heard people shouting, 'Stop them! Stop them!' But I put on speed and hurried south on West Street just missing an auto truck and a team. Then I drove to 104th Street and First Avenue. I got $12 for the use of the car."

While driving away with the car Ferrara said he heard Tita and Dragnia arguing about the gun which the latter had apparently thrown away.

"They were fighting over the gun," the witness testified. "I heard Tita say Dragnia, 'You fool, what'd you throw that gun away for? It was worth $25. Now, they'll have some evidence on us.' And Dragnia answered, 'Well, it's done now. What are you going to do about it?'"

Tells of Receipt of Money.

Two days later, Ferrara said, he met Dragnia in a moving picture show at Third Avenue and 104th Street, where the gunman gave him $200, $150 for himself and the remaining $50 for Patsy Garafola to pay for painting the car so that it could not be identified by witnesses as the automobile which they saw in the market on the day of the shooting.

"I didn't tell Garafola," continued the witness, "because I didn't want to arouse his suspicions. Later I told Dragnia that Patsy wouldn't paint the car, and he said, 'All right. Keep the $50 for yourself, sit tight and be careful.'"

In order that the presence of so much money around him might not arouse suspicion, Ferrara said he had a friend deposit it for him in the Harlem Savings Bank in 125th Street.

"The next time I saw Dragnia," the witness testified, "he was in front of Garafola's shop and he nodded his head for me to follow him. I went with him to a doorway, where he gave me $50 more and said, 'Be a good fellow. Stick to us and we'll stick to you.' Another time he motioned me out of a tailor shop and gave me $50 more. 'This is all I can get you,' he said. 'You are getting more than we are. The papers are full of the shooting. Be careful.'"

Under cross-examination, Ferrara said he would have told the truth about the murder from the very start if he had not been maltreated and kicked around by the detectives who were put on the case. He named William Quain, Harry Butts, and Felix Di Martino as the detectives who intimidated him and forced him to implicate innocent men in the crime. He stated that neither District Attorney Swann nor Assistant District Attorney O'Malley had used any violence, but when he was asked by Frank Moss, for the defense, why he did not tell them the truth, he answered:

"I was afraid, I was afraid, I tell you, of the detectives. I had to tell the same story that they wanted me to tell. They wouldn't have anything else."

Ferrara also testified that he had lied when he implicated Ippolito Greco, the Harlem saloon keeper, in the killing. Greco's name was forced upon him by the detectives.

"But Greco was dead, and so I knew nothing I said would harm him."

Ferrara also insisted that Tony Saffarone, whom he had put in the murder car in his previous testimony, and who had actually pleaded guilty to attempted murder without coming to trial, was not in the murder party on the day of the shooting.

The trial will continue Thursday.

PIRATES CAUGHT IN GULF.

Had Been Preying on Small Vessels Off the Mexican Coast.

MEXICO CITY, July 2.—The power schooner Mariscal, which has been preying on small vessels in the Gulf of Mexico, has been captured in the Tonala River, according to dispatches received here.

The pirate was pursued by the dispatch boat Ligera and surrendered only after an hour's fight. The Mariscal was taken to Vera Cruz.

BURNS MEN EXAMINED.

Former Employes Testify in Suit to Revoke Detective's License.

The hearing on the question of the revocation of the license of the Burns International Detective Agency sought by Edward W. Edwards, Secretary of the Allied Printing Trades Council, was continued yesterday before William Boardman, Deputy State Controller, in the Woolworth Building. Charles Delmonte, a former Burns agent, testified that while working on a burglary case for the agency another Burns agent named McMahon told him that they were supposed to rifle the mail of a suspected person. He said that neither he nor McMahon touched the mail.

On cross-examination Job E. Hedges, representing the agency, brought out that Delmonte had not received instructions to touch mail from an officer of the agency and that he was discharged after he had been what he considered the victim of "a raw deal," his failure to return $15 advanced to him as money for traveling expenses and his claim to a right to keep the money and work for it being the points at issue.

Joseph E. Rocke, who was with the Sixty-ninth Regiment at the border and was a Burns agent in the Carmen case, testified that Burns had told him "to get something" on Dr. Carmen. He said he had always been treated fairly while working for the agency.

The hearing will be continued Friday morning.

"Gieve" Life-saving Waistcoats

for insuring safety at sea

This should especially interest Americans preparing for a trip to Europe, inasmuch as the "Gieve" Waistcoat is conceded to be the most practical and effective life-saving device yet invented, and is in general use among the officers of the Royal Navy. Made on the same lines as an ordinary waistcoat, it is worn in similar fashion, while its mechanism—simple but ingenious—is readily available for immediate use.

The "Gieve" Life-saving Waistcoat is restricted in the United States to B. Altman & Co.

KENTUCKIAN COMES TO GET SLACKER SON

Mountaineer Tells Judge That John Calhoun Allen Must Enlist or Be Shot.

TAKES HIM BACK HOME

Father "Plumb Mad" Over Boy's Actions Because the "Allens Ain't Going to Have No Quitters."

The trial of Emma Goldman and Alexander Berkman, the anarchists, before Judge Julius M. Mayer, in the Federal Court, for conspiracy to obstruct the operation of the national military law was halted for a few moments yesterday morning when John Allen of Ammie, a hamlet of 100 inhabitants in Clay County, Ky., told Judge Mayer what he thought of "slackers." The proceeding was entirely unexpected and was the result of the arrest in New York a few weeks ago of John Calhoun Allen, the eldest son of the old mountaineer. The son is of conscript age, but refused to register as required by the provisions of the selective draft law.

"If I had a thousand sons and my country needed them my country would get every blessed one of 'em," said the old mountaineer with positiveness as he addressed the Judge.

In order to fully appreciate the patriotism of old John Allen it is necessary to go back about three weeks, when late one afternoon a good-looking youngster was brought before Judge Mayer charged with refusing to obey the military laws. He was John Calhoun Allen, and, after looking him over, Judge Mayer said that the only reason he could think for a man like John Calhoun refusing to register was that he must be demented.

So Judge Mayer sent the prisoner to Bellevue for observation, and when the physician reported that he appeared to have a touch of "dementia praecox" Judge Mayer decided to communicate with the Allen family in the mountains of East Kentucky. So a letter was written to old John Allen in which the facts were placed before him, and he was asked to communicate with the authorities in New York, and was told that pending an answer his son would be detained in the custody of United States Marshal Thomas D. McCarthy.

Every Inch a Mountaineer.

The answer to Judge Mayer's letter arrived yesterday in the form of the 6 feet 2 inches of John Allen himself. The mountaineer, accompanied by Assistant United States District Attorney John C. Knox, came into court just before the noon hour. He wore the boots and the corduroy trousers of the Kentucky hills. His shirt was blue and collarless and home made. His coat was old-fashioned, and in his hand he carried the big black sombrero.

"May it please your honor," said Mr. Knox, "we have with us the father of John Calhoun Allen, a young man arraigned before you some weeks ago charged with failure to register.

The mountaineer looked the Judge squarely in the eye and bowed. Tall and erect he towered above every other man in the courtroom and he was not in the least embarrassed.

"Judge," he said, "I got your letter and I thank you for it, and I started to answer it in writin', but I just decided that maybe it was better that I come here myself and see what's the matter with that boy of mine. It ain't like our folks to act as that youngster has acted, and I assure you that I am plumb mad about it. I have five boys, and this one who is in trouble here is the oldest. Two of my lads are already in the army and the two youngest will be there soon as they are old enough.

"And so I have come all the way from Kentucky to get this one who I hear is a back slider. All I ask is for you to let me take my boy back to Kentucky with me and I will see to it that he comes to time when his country calls. There ain't going to be no quitters in the Allen family. My boys that are already in the army ain't 21 yet. This one is my oldest and he's the first to miss the trail, but he'll find the trail again or I'll know the reason why.

"I have the utmost confidence in you," said Judge Mayer after the old man finished, "and I shall release your son in your custody, confident that you will see to it that he obeys the law and registers."

"He'll register all right, Judge," replied the old man, "and I tell you that if he don't, something will happen in the public square back home, and all the folks will have a chance to see with their own eyes that the Allens don't stand for no quitters at a time when Wilson needs all the men he can get."

While Mr. Allen was winning his son's freedom in court, Marshal McCarthy sent to the Tombs for John Calhoun Allen. John Calhoun was in the Marshal's office when the father and Marshal McCarthy entered.

No Use for Quitters.

"Son," the parent said as he placed his hand on the boy's shoulder, "don't you know what it means to do what you tried to do? Don't you know that you don't come from no such stock as these slackers and quitters, or whatever else you call such cattle? Don't you know that, boy? Well, if you don't, it's time you started learnin'. Now you ain't crazy, for our folks don't go crazy, and you are goin' to register and you are goin' to fight, and fight your darndest, too, if your country calls you. Now just put that in your head and let it stay there. I don't want to hurt you, and I ain't if you do right, but I just want to say that if you don't do right, when I get you back home I will take you into the public square and shoot you myself in the presence of all the folks."

The boy with tears in his eyes said he would registed just as quick as he could. "And I'll fight too if they want me," the boy added.

"Of course you will, for if you didn't you wouldn't be my son," the old man replied.

And that was the end of the Allen incident.

"That old fellow is one of the kind that makes the country great. He is a real American," said Judge Mayer when he recalled the unusual incident after court adjourned yesterday afternoon.

Just before he left the Federal Building John Allen asked one of the Deputy Marshals what case was being tried before Judge Mayer.

"I noticed that man and the woman and I wondered who they were. What did they do?" he asked.

"They are anarchists and they are on trial for urging men not to register for the war," the Marshal replied.

"Those are the kind'er folks who are responsible for boys like this one of mine gettin' in trouble," John Allen observed.

"We don't have folks like that out our way," he added.

RESUME ANARCHISTS' TRIAL.

Emma Goldman and Berkman Act as Their Own Lawyers.

The case of Emma Goldman and Alexander Berkman, the anarchists on trial for conspiracy to obstruct the operation of the selective draft, was resumed before Judge Julius M. Mayer in the Federal Court yesterday morning. The defendants, who are acting as their own lawyers, made a motion to have the indictment dismissed on various formal grounds, which was denied. Assistant United States District Attorney Harold A. Content then briefly outlined the case as the Government will try to prove it before the jury.

Mary Eleanor Fitzgerald, Secretary and Treasurer of the Anti-Conscription League, was the first witness. She admitted that both Berkman and Miss Goldman were officers of the league, and in answer to questions by Mr. Content said that the two anarchist publications, Mother Earth and The Blast, the first edited by Miss Goldman and the other by Berkman, were entirely independent of each other. It was because of signed articles printed by the defendants in these pamphlets that they are now on trial.

Other questions asked the witness referred to the arrangements which were made for the various anti-conscription demonstrations staged by the anarchists prior to registration day, June 5, all of which she admitted had been arranged by committees working personally with or with the knowledge and approval of Miss Goldman and Berkman.

Just before the afternoon session of the court began a band in City Hall Park started playing "The Star-Spangled Banner." Everybody in the courtroom stood up but two women and one young man, the latter said to be a nephew of Miss Goldman. The Deputy Marshals made the women stand up and ordered the man to leave the room. The defendants were not then in court.

The trial will be resumed at 10:30 o'clock this morning.

TO WELCOME RUSSIANS.

Mayor's Committee Makes Plans for Reception to Mission.

The Executive Committee of the Reception Committee appointed by Mayor Mitchel to welcome the Russian Commission when it reaches the city on Friday met at the City Hall yesterday and adopted a tentative program of entertainment. On Friday the visitors will be met at the Battery and escorted in automobiles to the City Hall, where they will be received by the Mayor in the Aldermanic Chamber. Addresses will be made by the Mayor and Martin W. Littleton, Chairman of the Executive Committee. The Russian Ambassador will respond. From the City Hall the members of the commission will be taken directly to their residence. At 8 P. M. there will be a mass meeting at Carnegie Hall, at which the Mayor will preside. Speeches will be made by Colonel Roosevelt, Mr. Littleton, the Russian Ambassador, and others.

On Saturday morning the mission will drive through Central Park and be greeted by school children and the general public at a point to be decided upon later. At 2:30 P. M. there will be exercises and a public reception at the stadium of City College in conjunction with the exhibition drills of the New York Fire Department.

MISS WILSON URGES COMMUNITY CENTRES

Organizing for War Work Best Done There, Says President's Daughter.

"COMMITTEES LIKE FORDS"

One Is Now Formed Every 15 Minutes, She Tells School Children at "Americanization" Meeting.

Miss Margaret Wilson, daughter of the President, participated in two "Americanization" meetings in New York City yesterday. In the afternoon she addressed about 1,000 school children, including the boys of the Junior Police and the American Junior Naval and Marine Scouts at the City Hall. Last night she and Mayor Mitchel urged a large audience at the Washington Irving High School, many of them working people of foreign origin, to help the Government at Washington in its efforts to make the world safe for democracy.

"Wordsworth said of the French Revolution that it was bliss in that day to be alive, but that to be young was very heaven," she said. "Well, it is bliss to be alive now, and now to be young is very heaven, for we are seeing the beginning of a triumph of democracy. We shall see the dawn of a new day, when a great light shall burst over the horizon, and we shall know that the day of democracy has come to the world.

"The problem before the American people today is how we can best mobilize all our resources and all of our power in the service of the world. We must show the world that the people of a democracy can act together swiftly and effectually. The Government is organizing all its resources; it is mobilizing the resources which we, the people, have intrusted to it. The question is, Are we mobilizing? Are we organizing as a people? Are we getting ready to work swiftly and effectually? We are trying to do it. There is not a person that I meet that doesn't seem to be trying to do his or her bit. They are all very eager, and there are thousands of committees—it makes your head reel to think of the number of them. I think they get formed as quickly as Ford automobiles. They say it takes fifteen minutes to make a Ford automobile, and I think a new committee or a new relief organization is formed every fifteen minutes these days."

Notwithstanding this very great eagerness to help, Miss Wilson said the people generally found it difficult to assist because they were not properly organized. She suggested that community organizations were the ideal vehicle through which this could be done. As it is, the Government at Washington does not know where to find the American people. When it wants to get information to them it has to depend on the press. Mayor Mitchel indorsed what Miss Wilson said of the need of community organizations, saying that they were an assistance to co-ordinated citizenship. President Willcox of the Board of Education also spoke. At the afternoon meeting, Miss Wilson was accompanied by Police Commissioner Woods, Park Commissioner Ward, and Theodore Rousseau, the Mayor's Secretary. She was introduced as "the most democratic girl in America," and said in part:

"It makes me very happy to be here, and I feel that I know you all, each and every one of you, and that I have known you all your lives. We are all working for the same purpose—for the common cause. We all love our country, we are all serving our country, and our country is serving all the world. I thank you so much. God be with you till we meet again."

Police Commissioner Woods urged the children to develop backbone while the schools were developing their brains and the playgrounds their bodies.

"This splendid movement of Americanism is a great step toward solidifying the nation for a common cause," he continued. "But take this home with you: study hard in school, even if you don't like to. Many of us don't; I know I never liked it, but we must. We've got to be a nation with a big, strong backbone. We must protect the weak and stand up as strong men. You can cultivate backbone by making yourselves do do, no matter how great the temptation not to do it. In this way you will be doing your part toward making us a strong nation."

Park Commissioner Ward said in part: "We must make a tremendous effort to get together for the common purpose of our country. We are at war, and we want to go to the war as one nation. We must get together behind our President. We welcome this opportunity to know each other better, and we are particularly grateful that we have with us the daughter of our great President, who is one of the greatest standard bearers for democracy in all history."

Paul Breen, a fourteen-year-old Naval Scout, presented Miss Wilson with a bouquet of roses on behalf of the American Junior Naval and Marine Scouts, numbering about 40,000, and told her how much they all appreciated her work. The Catholic Protectory Band furnished patriotic music, while a girls' chorus sang "Columbia." Many of the school children were in costumes representing the allied nations.

NAVY CLUB FOR SAILORS OPENS IN FIFTH AVENUE

Enlisted Men of All the Allied Fleets Will Be Made Welcome in Home of Their Own.

The Navy Club for United States and Allied Sailors and Marines, which occupies the entire fifth floor of the new office building at 509 Fifth Avenue, just south of Forty-third Street, was opened to the marines and bluejackets of the allied navies last night. It is the first club of the kind in New York City, and is intended, as Rear Admiral Nathaniel R Usher, U. S. N., Commandant of the New York Navy Yard, says, to provide an attractive place where sailors and marines can find a good home during their hours ashore. The club will be open every day from 2 o'clock in the afternoon to midnight.

Admiral Usher, accompanied by his staff, came over from the Navy Yard to give the club its official start. There were about 300 bluejackets and marines present, and the Admiral gave them a heart to heart talk, in which he urged them to visit the club whenever they had a chance and to spread the news that such a club existed.

The club has writing rooms, billiard tables, a boxing ring, and last of all, and perhaps most important of all, a canteen where from 5 to 7 P. M., which are called the 'canteen hours," a sailor can get all the sandwiches and soft drinks he wants at cost price.

The club will be run by a house committee the members of which will be petty officers of the navy and non-commissioned officers of the marine corps.

Among the women who have made the club possible are Mrs. William H. Hamilton, Mrs. McDougall Hawkes, and Mrs. William McAdoo. Ira Barrows is the Treasurer of the organization.

FRIEND SAVES HIS BRIDE.

Young Woman from Brazil Rescued from Detention by Ship Captain.

Miss Marthe Bonne Vie, an attractive young Frenchwoman, who arrived yesterday on a Swedish steamship from Brazil to marry Captain Marcus Toftdal of the Norwegian steamship Wascana, was detained by the immigration officials, and would have been sent to Ellis Island if the bridegroom-elect had not sent his chief officer from Philadelphia to explain matters.

The officer told the Inspector how the Captain had fallen in love with the young Frenchwoman at Rio de Janeiro, where she was a governess in a wealthy Brazilian family. He said the young woman's parents had been killed in the war, and their home destroyed. He promised that the Captain would arrive later to claim her.

Captain Toftdal reached New York in the afternoon, and the wedding followed at the Norwegian Church, Brooklyn.

BUREAU TO DEFEND LOVERS OF PEACE

HILLQUIT AS A VOLUNTEER

Will Serve Unpaid with Other Lawyers—Amos Pinchot and the Rev. John Haynes Holmes in It, Too.

The National Civil Liberties Bureau, which has for its purpose, among other things, the defense of men who refuse to fight on the ground that they are "conscientious objectors," has come into existence, and announces that it has obtained the services, without pay, of a large number of lawyers in all parts of the country, who will render legal aid to the organization. Among the lawyers named are several who are members of the so-called People's Council of America, which is agitating for a world peace.

"The Civil Liberties Bureau," the statement issued yesterday says, "is formed to meet the increased demand all over the country for an agency to protect the rights of free speech, free press, free assembly, and liberty of conscience. Its chief purpose will be to give legal aid and advice through attorneys and committees of citizens in all parts of the United States to persons whose rights are invaded under pressure of war. The work in behalf of 'conscientious objectors' recently undertaken by the American Union Against Militarism will become a part of this larger bureau."

The office of the American Union Against Militarism, in the name of which organization yesterday's announcement was made, is at 70 Fifth Avenue. That is also the address of the People's Council of America. L. Hollingsworth Wood is announced as the director of the bureau, other members being the Rev. Dr. John Haynes Holmes, Amos Pinchot, Roger H. Baldwin, and John Lovejoy Elliott. Among the lawyers who will render their services free to the bureau are Morris Hillquit, Job Harriman, D. J. Meserole, Gilbert E. Roe, Eustace Seligman, and Alfred Jaretski, Jr., Miss Crystal Eastman, who is prominent in the People's Council, said yesterday:

"It is high time that all honest liberals in this country, whether for or against war, realize that all that is real in American democracy is in danger today. Yesterday's outrage in Boston is the most extreme example of what we mean by the danger of militarism." The breaking up of the Socialist Peace Parade in Boston was what she referred to. Miss Eastman added that the bureau would not oppose the "competent prosecution" of the war, and added: "We are not obstructionists or troublemakers."

Describing the activities of the new bureau, Roger Baldwin, one of the directors, said: "It will be the object of the Civil Liberties Bureau to act as a clearing house for complaints of injustice. Correspondents and newspaper clippings from all over the country will keep us informed of each case as it arises. We have already the names of lawyers in Chicago, Cincinnati, St. Louis, Pittsburgh, Boston, Philadelphia, Seattle, San Francisco, and thirty other large cities who have agreed to give their services free in investigating and defending cases we turn over to them. In addition to acting directly in the people's interest as a national clearing house, we are rapidly establishing legal complaint bureaus, with attorneys in charge, in all the large cities, to whom local complaints can be made direct and from whom immediate legal aid can be obtained."

William E. Williams, publicity director of the People's Council of America, denied yesterday that his organization had gone on record as approving a German peace. As Mr. Williams explained it, the council's goal is:

"An early, general, and democratic peace, to be obtained through negotiation in harmony with the principles outlined by the President and by revolutionary Russia, and accepted substantially by the progressive and democratic forces of France, England, Italy, Germany, Austria, and other countries, namely, no forcible annexation of territory, no punitive indemnities, and free development of all nationalities." He declared that no member of the organization had authority to vary that platform.

City Brevities.

The National Amateur Press Association is meeting in convention here during July 3, 4, and 5. For tonight, at the Educational Alliance, Stuyvesant and Ninth Streets, east of Third Avenue, there has been arranged a program including literary offerings by the members, with Max Gegna, 'cellist, and Edward Potjes, the Belgian pianist, also appearing. The public is invited.

The First Branch Detective Bureau at Police Headquarters received a telegram from the Chief of Police of Baltimore yesterday announcing that a man believed to be John F. White of Brooklyn was assaulted in Baltimore on Saturday night and died later of his injuries. The police were unable to find any one who knew a person of that name in Brooklyn.

AUSTRIAN OFFENSIVE AWAITED BY ITALY

RUSSIAN FRONT DEPLETED

Only One Division to 14-Mile Stretch in Certain Sectors in the East.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, July 2.—The array of Austrian big calibre artillery in the Trentino has assumed the aspect of preparation for an offensive. The Italian supreme command has been able to ascertain that Germany has considerably contributed to this greater quantity of artillery, sending her ally hundreds of trains carrying munitions.

The Italian troops on the Cucco, Vodice, and the Carso made their recent advance under a barrage fire of exceptional intensity. More than a thousand Austrian big calibre guns are arranged on the short expanse from the Vipacco to the sea. The intensity and number of the enemy's bombardments shows the great amount of their munitions. Every day Italian airplanes are able to verify new emplacements for artillery and the arrival of guns and ammunitions.

Austria has left most of her old artillery on the Russian front, but her reserves of men are not sufficient to allow her to withdraw more than eight or nine divisions from the Russian to the Italian front. The addition of these divisions to those already on the Italian front is sufficient to organize a local counteroffensive, but insufficient for an offensive on a grand scale.

On certain parts of the Russian front the Austro-Germans only keep one division in a stretch fourteen miles long, while on certain parts of the Italian front Austria crowds one division on each mile. These numbers denote more than any reasoning a different warlike potentiality between the Italian and Russian fronts and the enormous weight which has fallen on the shoulders of the Italian Army.

ROME, July 2.—Austrian troops last night made unsuccessful assaults against the Italian positions between Lake Garda and the Ledro Valley, in the southwestern Trentino, according to the official statement issued by the War Office today. The statement reads:

During the night the enemy was particularly active between Lake Garda and the Ledro Valley. After violent artillery preparation an enemy detachment numbering not less than two companies, attacked the line of our outposts between San Giovanni and Biacesa, (south of Riva,) but were stopped and driven back with considerable loss. At the same time other hostile parties attacked our outposts in the same sector north of Malga Giumella and northeast of Mezzolago, but they were stopped by the vigilance of our troops before reaching our lines. The artillery struggle continued active yesterday in the area between Lake Garda and the Adige.

At several other points on the front, and particularly at the head of the Seebach and in the neighborhood of San Lucia Tolmino, we repeatedly and successfully shelled enemy troops assembled and in movement. On the Mrzli a big enemy mine was exploded without altering our position, and causing only slight damage.

Greece, but wishing to serve the other son of his King as long as possible he waited until Venizelos actually took over the Government.

"Half an hour after being officially acquainted with this fact," he said, "I sent in my resignation by wire. I immediately turned the business of the legation over to the secretary of the legation, Polychroniadis, who will now notify the German Government of the breach in relations."

Theotoky explained at length why it was impossible for him to support M. Venizelos's foreign policy since his own convictions fully coincided with those of King Constantine, purporting a strict neutrality toward the belligerents and the cleaning up of domestic affairs.

"Venizelos has failed in both directions and badly injured Greek interests in order to play the Entente's game," he explained. "I can't follow him there and that is why I prefer to efface myself."

Theotoky then went over the whole history of recent years to prove that Venizelos was wrong. He intimated, however, that if before Venizelos left Athens for Salonika with the openly avowed intention of establishing his own Greek Government, if at that time the Athens Government had been above certain scruples and acted vigorously the Venizelos intrigues might have been paralyzed.

"Venizelos bided his time," he said, "and now is back in power, but not because the people love him or because the Entente is convinced of the security and stability of the new régime. On the contrary, they know its weaknesses only too well, or Athens would not have swarmed with Entente soldiers when Venizelos returned home. News from the Peloponesus, where the largest part of the Greek Army is interned, is anything but encouraging for Venizelos. At the same time, I do not deceive myself respecting the possibility of Venizelos confirming his position if he succeeds in remaining in authority long enough to make himself master of the situation by the unscrupulous usurpation of power. Already he is taking drastic action in that direction by demanding from the Legislature the revocation of irremovableness of Justices and administrative officials."

FIND PLOT TO WRECK GREAT LAKES' SHIPS

American and Canadian Governments to Co-operate in Running Down Conspirators.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Secret investigation by Government agents has disclosed the existence of a great conspiracy to destroy or hinder shipping on the Great Lakes and thereby delay organization of American armies and check the flow of food and munitions material from the Western States to the Atlantic Coast.

No conspirators have been captured, and the identity of none has been made public, but it was learned today that the State, Navy, and Justice Departments are co-operating to bring the offenders to punishment, and that the Canadian Government probably will be called upon to help.

This plot, engineered by Germans, assisted by sympathizing American citizens, is believed to have been responsible for the succession of "accidents" to lake shipping, especially in the neighborhood of the Sault Ste. Marie Canal, which began about a month ago. The steamers Saxonia and Pentecost Mitchell were sunk at the mouth of the Soo River, with evident intention of blocking the channel. Then there was the sinking of the steamer Venetian Maid, in the Detroit River, with the loss of one life, and later came an attempt to dynamite the steamer Mackinac. The Kasaga II. was blown up and burned, and the Jay Dee III. and the Niagara had their machinery wrecked.

All of these vessels had been or were about to be taken over by the Navy Department, and the investigations of the Department of Justice and the Navy Department have tended to the conclusion that what were believed to have been accidents were the acts of conspirators seeking to hamper the Government in the prosecution of the war.

Just how much the Government agents have learned is not revealed, but officials have concluded that the public should know of the situation in a general way, believing that publicity may make the operations of the Germans more difficult or impossible.

Co-operation of the Canadian authorities is needed to run down the criminals, because the scene of their activities for the most part lies within the northern boundary waters, where fugitives from justice often can escape arrest by crossing the line. To avoid the delays incident to the employment of the usual means of laying hold of fugitives from justice by the tedious process of extradition, it is probable that by agreement between the American and Canadian Governments, law officers on either side will be authorized to follow their quarry across the international line.

The official investigation has made it certain that some of the acts of sabotage committed upon American shipping and misplacement of channel buoys and tampering with canal locks have been done by persons who found refuge when pursued behind the numerous islands and in the narrow waterways on the Canadian side of the boundary.

England Cuts In Half a Increased Levy Proposed In Budget.

LONDON, July 2.—Discussing the Finance bill in the House of Commons today, Andrew Bonar Law, Chancellor of the Exchequer, announced that from July 16 the increased tax on tobacco, instead of 22 pence, as proposed in the budget, would be only 11 pence.

RIOTERS KILL MANY NEGROES, FIRE HOMES

Soldiers Ordered to Shoot.

All street railway traffic was suspended at 7 P. M., and theatres and saloons were ordered closed. At that hour, the militiamen were given instructions to shoot to kill in suppressing the white mobs. They at once started a tour of the city, rounding up the blood-mad men, who were out to avenge the death of Policeman Coppedge and William Kayser, a hardware merchant, two of the white men killed.

The third white man killed was Thomas Moore of Granite City. He was standing beside a soldier when a bullet struck him. The shot apparently was intended for the soldier.

Thirty-five houses in Black Valley were in flames within half an hour after the fire started. The blaze spread fast toward the centre of the business district. All fire apparatus in the city was assembled at Third Street and Broadway, where the firemen began a battle to save the town. When the flames reached Broadway a second general alarm was sounded, and apparatus from the St. Louis side of the river was rushed to East St. Louis.

It is estimated that 50,000 men and women were in the streets and that more than two-thirds of this number were armed. Small boys carried revolvers and were shooting at the blacks. Two hundred militiamen were on duty in the zone affected by the fire, but despite fixed bayonets they were unable to control the mob.

Every hospital on the east side is filled with blacks who are so severely injured that many will probably die. Police headquarters is packed with negroes badly beaten and shot. It is estimated that eighty negroes and ten white men have been injured.

One section of the mob gathered around a lone negro on Fourth Street, near Broadway. A rope was thrown around his neck and he was hoisted up a telephone pole, but the rope broke. Men and women in the mob shouted gleefully as the negro fell into the gutter, while half a dozen men riddled his body with bullets. Negroes are lying in the gutters every few feet in some places.

Girls Join the Mob.

Seized with the mob spirit, two young white girls climbed on a car at Broadway and Main Street about 4 P. M. and dragged a negro woman from her seat. As they pulled her through the door of the car to the street, there was a great cheer from men standing on the sidewalk. The negro woman attempted to break away from her assailants, and one of the girls pulled off her shoe and started to beat the victim over the head. The woman flinched under the blows, and was bleeding profusely when rescued by militiamen. The girls were not arrested, and walked away from the scene. There were blood stains on their clothes, and as they passed their friends they told about the part they had played in the riot.

Whenever a white man attempted to drag a negro from the street, intending to give him medical attention, the mob, with drawn pistols, forced him to desist. Several negroes who were killed were thrown into Cahokia Creek.

A mob of more than 100 men, led by ten or fifteen young girls about 18 years old, chased a negro woman at the Relay Depot about 5 o'clock. The girls were brandishing clubs and calling upon the men to kill the woman.

The negro man appeared in the railroad yards. The mob immediately gave up the chase of the woman and turned upon the man. He was shot to death.

Militiamen Fire a Volley.

About 8:30 o'clock a mob of more than 500 men, all heavily armed, charged into the negro district on Third Street and set fire to a number of houses. Before these men could start other fires two companies of militiamen, numbering more than 200, charged with fixed bayonets. A volley was fired over the heads of the mob, which then dispersed.

Charles Beach, an ambulance driver for the Deaconess Hospital, was shot and seriously wounded at Tenth and Bond Streets. He was accompanied on the ambulance by John Cange, who was not hit. Negroes congregated at Tenth and Duncan Streets and fired a fusillade into the ambulance. But for Cange's quick action it is likely the automobile would have crashed into a house and turned over. As Beach fell limp from the seat Cange took the wheel and drove with him to the hospital.

While straggling groups of soldiers and police looked on, a large crowd of white men gathered at Fourth Street and Broadway at 7:30 o'clock and captured two negroes who ran from the rear of a burning building. Placing a rope around their necks, the mob attempted to hang them to a telephone pole. The police and soldiers did not offer any interference. Finding the rope inadequate for the weight of the men, they were dragged screaming, to an alley, where many shots were fired into their bodies.

One of the negroes was dragged back to the pole and a new rope was tied around his neck. As two white men attempted to pull him into the air, the rope broke, throwing the white men on their backs, to the amusement of the mob. The negro fell to the ground, dead.

Three more negroes were seen by the mob as the terrorized blacks were trying to escape from a burning building. One of them was strung up to a telephone pole and the other two were shot. The bodies were left in the street.

Colonel Tripp early in the evening figured in the rescue of a negro who was being dragged down Broadway by a rope attached to his neck. The automobile bearing the Colonel and City Attorney Fekete appeared when a mob was in the act of stringing the negro to a telephone pole. Colonel Tripp leaped from the automobile and persuaded the white attackers to desist from their plan to kill the negro.

City Attorney Fekete later in the night saved the life of another young negro who was running from a crowd which had fired a number of shots at him while he was visible in the glare of burning buildings. Fekete placed the negro in his automobile, and, after arguing for ten minutes with the group of men, succeeded in gaining their consent to allow him to take the negro to the City Hall for protection.

Negroes Seized on Street Cars.

The whites began their attacks on street cars shortly before noon, and several negroes were taken from the cars and beaten or pelted with bricks. Eight negroes were injured in this manner before 1 o'clock.

At 1:30 o'clock a crowd of whites pulled the trolley from an Edwardsville car. A mob entered the car and dragged out all the negro passengers. One of them was kicked and beaten by the crowd and then shot. He died in an ambulance on the way to a hospital.

A Bellevue car appeared next. White women as well as men entered the car and pulled out the negroes. Women and girls seized terrified negro women, kicked and clubbed them, and sent them screaming down the street.

Shortly after 2 o'clock the mob pursued a negro down Collinsville Avenue. He was caught and severely beaten. A militiaman stood guard over him and tried to keep the crowd back, but was hustled aside. Fifteen other militiamen who ran to his aid were disarmed. Men in the mob fired the rifles and returned them to the soldiers.

One hundred white men met at Labor Temple Hall, 408 Collinsville Avenue, marched down the avenue, and at Broadway, the most important transfer point in the city, they encountered a negro on a street car. He attempted to run out the front end of the car, but was seized, knocked down, and repeatedly kicked. As he lay on the ground a white man in the mob standing over him fired six bullets into his body.

The mob then turned back down the street, at the mouth of Black Valley, where fifty negroes had assembled. The white men turned again, and in front of the Illino Hotel came upon a lone negro. He ran, and the white mob hurled bricks at him. Some one fired two shots at the fleeing black, but he managed to escape.

At least 6,000 white men and women paraded through the downtown streets shortly after noon demanding that the authorities force every negro to leave town. Riot calls swept into Police Headquarters, and patrol wagons dashed about the city in what appeared to be a futile effort to stop the growing disregard of the mobs for law and order. In many instances the patrol wagons were bombarded with bricks and other missiles, and policemen were openly jeered.

Negroes Fire on Police.

The disorder began when a mob of 200 negroes fired on an automobile load of policemen last night, killing one. For several days there had been evidences of bad blood, and on Saturday night minor clashes between whites and blacks had occurred. These clashes apparently alarmed the negro quarter of the city, or at least gave agitators a chance to organize the blacks for fighting. When word was telephoned to Police Headquarters that the ringing of a church bell had called armed negroes together, an automobile loaded with police left for the scene to disperse the crowd. The police were met with a volley. Detective Sergeant Coppedge was killed and three policemen were wounded.

C. W. Wallace, editor of a negro religious publication, said the firing on the police was due to a misunderstanding. According to Wallace's account, a negro minister, a negro physician, and himself were returning from St. Louis last night when they saw white "joy riders" ride down a block in Market Street inhabited by negroes and fire into the houses. The neighborhood was aroused and the negroes armed themselves. Wallace did not see the negro mob fire on an automobile filled with policemen, but he said a witness told him that the negroes thought when the police automobile stopped it was the joy riders returning. The shooting began, he was told, before this misunderstanding was removed. It was said that the policemen were in plain clothes.

Race troubles here began late in May as a result of the heavy influx of negro labor. Labor leaders then expressed a fear that the negro labor was being imported to break anticipated strikes during the Summer.

On May 28 a crowd of white men demanded of the City Council that the negro immigration be stopped. Mayor Mollman tried to calm the crowd, saying that an investigation would be ordered. After the meeting had adjourned, white mobs stopped street cars and dragged negroes off and beat them.

The next day State troops arrived. There was considerable disturbance the night of May 29, two white men and three negroes being shot. Within a day or two order was restored, and a few days later the troops were withdrawn.

An investigation by the State Council of Defense was made, and it reported that labor agents had induced negroes to come here from the South. This report was made public last Saturday. Up to that time there had been no serious indications of a renewal of the rioting.

itary Governor of Anhwei Province, was the real power in the Provisional Government, and that he controlled the situation.

The Chinese Legation announced on June 25 the reorganization of the Government with Li Ching-hsi, son of the late Li Hung-chang, as Premier. It was believed then that a composition of China's internal difficulties had been reached. The legation and the Japanese Embassy, as well as the State Department, indicated that dispatches received from Peking showed that the situation there had improved.

Clashed on Joining Allies.

The crisis in China's internal affairs was brought about after China had severed relations with Germany. The militarists and political elements favoring a strongly centralized government advocated war as the second step, but President Li Yuan-hung, the Parliament and Republicans generally were represented as being opposed to war. Parliament was declared to be not so much against war in itself as against permitting the former Premier, Tuan Chi-jui, to control the Government in wartime. Liberal Republicans, favoring a decentralized administration, composed a majority of the members of the Parliament, and prevented the passage of the war resolution when presented to that body by Premier Tuan. A governmental impasse was reached, and President Li Yuan-hung dismissed the Premier from office.

The dismissal of Tuan was the signal for a gathering of the Military Governors of the north at Tientsin shortly after they had met at Peking and voted in favor of war. The Military Governors were strongly suspected of being favorable to the cause of the Manchus, and an agitation in favor of the restoration was known to have been conducted in China ever since the establishment of the republic, having grown considerably stronger since the death of Yuan Shih-kai.

Since the dismissal of Tuan Chi-jui the contest in China has been triangular. The parties are the Imperialists, the Liberal Republicans, and the Conservative Republicans, the last named aligned with the Imperialists. Instead of reinstating Tuan in power, the Military Governors, composed of both Imperialists and Conservative Republicans, abandoned him, and decided upon the restoration of the Manchu dynasty. They were unable to agree upon any man among themselves to exercise the supreme power after deciding upon the complete overthrow of President Li Yuan-hung, who was obstructing their efforts.

Powerful Revolt Predicted.

The worst civil war in the modern history of China was predicted here today by officials as certain to follow the coup d'état. The southern provinces are Republican to the core, and are controlled by both civil and military authorities who have shown their intention to preserve the republic. Many of the southern leaders were educated in the United States or in Europe, and have been supported by efficient military men.

This Government will not immediately act in the matter, it being stated on very high authority that "it is none of our business what they do." This comment caused some surprise in view of the American note to China, in which that country was advised by the United States to compose its internal differences.

There is concern in Washington respecting the course Japan will pursue toward China should the coup be productive of civil war. It was recently stated by a Japanese official that Japan would intervene in China, if necessary, to protect Japanese interests and the identical interests of other countries. It is known, too, that Japan would not seek or desire military assistance from any other country in whatever military action she might take in China.

Recent military movements of Japan have been veiled in the greatest secrecy, but Chinese papers here reported that Japan was landing troops in Shantang Province, captured by Japan from Germany, and there has recently been an agitation in Japan in favor of dispatching additional divisions of soldiers to Manchuria.

Believe Foreigners Safe.

Officials here indicated their belief that, whatever violence might take place in China as a result of the restoration and the opposition of the south, foreigners would not be molested. They said there were no indications of any trouble such as the Boxer rebellion. Whether the State Department will recognize the belligerency of the southern provinces if they take up arms is problematical.

It was intimated that there would be no necessity for giving de jure recognition immediately to the new Imperial Government at Peking, although de facto recognition will be extended until such time as any question regarding the Government's permanency may disappear.

Generally, the news of the coup was a disappointment to Government officials here. There was no intimation anywhere of a suspicion that it had been influenced by foreign machinations, although there have been suspicions respecting the work of German agents in China. China's entry into the war against Germany is believed here now to be practically out of the question.

Velvet

THE SMOOTHEST SMOKING TOBACCO

Don't try to beat a fellow at his own game. Tobacco curin' is Nature's game, an' Nature made all the rules. Velvet Joe.

Real Mellowness in Tobacco Must Be the Work of Time and Nature

A chemical process may make tobacco look mellow or even smell mellow. But when it comes to tasting mellow, that is Nature's job and it takes time. No getting around that.

VELVET is cured in Nature's way.

WE ask you to make the comparison yourself. Because Velvet's mild taste in your pipe is the strongest argument we can make in favor of the Velvet way of curing tobacco—two years natural ageing in the original wooden hogshead.

UNITED SYNAGOGUES CLASH OVER ZIONISM

Dr. Adler Resigns as President When Delegate to Jewish Congress Is Chosen.

REFUSES TO RECONSIDER IT

Says the Congress Is Not Representative of Judaism and Is Untimely.

Leading delegates to the annual convention of the United Synagogues of America, at the session yesterday in the Jewish Theological Seminary in West 123d Street, clashed on the question of giving official support to the Zionist plan and on the election of a delegate to represent the organization at the American Jewish Congress, which is to take place in Washington on Sept. 2. After a resolution had been adopted according approval to the Zionist movement and the election of a delegate to the Congress promised to be carried by a small majority, despite the protests of Dr. Cyrus Adler, President of the United Synagogues of America, and other conservative members, Dr. Adler announced his resignation and left the platform.

Members who supported the election of a representative sought to have Dr. Adler reconsider his resignation, but he declined. The resignation had not been accepted, however, when the convention closed. In an interview, after the election of Professor Israel Friedlander, of the Jewish Theological Seminary, as the delegate to the Congress, Dr. Adler gave these reasons for his opposition to the objects of the Congress:

"I object to it because I do not believe any good will come of it, and it may do some harm. I believe it may have the tendency to produce the impression that the Jews of the United States are organizing themselves into a nationalistic group. I regard the question as being of such great importance that I want to indicate clearly that I have no part or connection in any form in the Congress."

As to the Zionist movement, and the support of the United Synagogues, which was also carried by a small majority, Dr. Adler dismissed with this comment:

"I will not discuss the Zionist question or the question of the future of Palestine, so long as political conditions there continue to be under the sway of the Ottoman Empire."

Dr. Adler, who was Associate Professor of Semitic Languages at Johns Hopkins University and was Special Commissioner for the Chicago Exposition to Turkey, Egypt, Tunis, Algiers and Morocco, is the President of the Board of Directors of the Jewish Theological Seminary. He is a well known authority and writer on American Jewish history, bibliography, and comparative religion.

When the committee presented the request for the election of a delegate, Dr. Adler spoke against it from the platform, saying:

"The American Jewish Congress is not representative of Judaism, and it and its purpose are untimely."

In offering his resignation he declared he could no longer remain at the head of an organization in which the sentiment was so in conflict with his judgment of what he considered a fundamental issue. Not more than fifty of the eighty delegates were present at the time the vote was taken. The result was twenty-two votes for the election of a delegate and eleven against it. The others refrained from voting.

The resolution on Zionism was sent back to the committee for modification. When first presented it read, in part:

"Resolved, That we join with the Zionists throughout the world and voice acclaim to the right of a legally recognized and internationally secured homeland for the Jewish people in Palestine."

The resolution when modified read:

"Whereas, The present world crisis opens a new vista for the realization of the ever cherished hope of the Jewish people for the rehabilitation of the land of our forefathers; be it

"Resolved, That the United Synagogues of America reaffirm its faith in the fulfillment of our ancient Zionist hope and in the early restoration of Palestine as the Jewish home land and as the means for the consummation of the religious ideals of Judaism."

Louis Edward Levy, member of the Committee on Science and Arts and the Board of Managers of the Franklin Institute, Philadelphia, presented the resolution. After it was read Dr. Adler spoke against it on the ground that it was not in keeping with the constitution of the synagogues.

Dr. Jacob Solis Cohen, who is well known as a specialist and professor emeritus of the Polyclinic and College for Graduates in Medicine in Philadelphia, offered an amendment to the resolution, which provided that the organization reaffirm the language of its charter, and that instead of indorsing Zionism he advised that it continue to cling to the hope expressed in the ritual for the restoration of Israel.

Dr. Cohen, who was an assistant surgeon with Dupont's expedition to Fort Royal and was with the Atlantic blockading squadron during the civil war, said:

"The Zionist movement as it exists in America today is corrupt, atheistic, and anti-Jewish."

Before he could proceed further he was interrupted by several of the delegates. Finally he was permitted to continue:

"I am a Zionist, and I am committed to the Zionist program," said Dr. Cohen. "No one would rejoice more than I in the accomplishment of the objects for which Zionism stands, but I cannot see that Zionism in this country is moving that way."

Chairman Levy insisted that the amendment was offered merely to defeat the resolution, which he declared must be accepted or rejected altogether.

"I, too, object to the mission and the personnel of the Zionists," said Mr. Levy. "But the movement is bigger than the man."

The convention pledged support to the Government by unanimous vote on this resolution:

The convention realizes that our country has been drawn into the world war through the necessity of defending our national rights and of making the world safe for democracy and conveys to the Government of the United States full assurance of the unwavering support of its constituent organizations in the prosecution of the war and of the readiness of all its members to make whatever sacrifices may be necessary for the attainment of a just and lasting peace.

The members of the United Synagogues of America represent influential, conservative thought on Jewish religious affairs in America.

TARGET PRACTICE AT CAMP.

Fort Myer Students Also Try Bomb Throwing from Trenches.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Target practice on the rifle range for the infantry companies and in galleries for the cavalry is adding a spice of variety and competition to the training of candidates for commissions as reserve officers at the Fort Myer camp this week.

The First Company of Infantry is now at the range, twelve miles west of the post, and is to hike back tomorrow night. This work is under the direction of the regular army officer instructing the company, Captain Edmund S. Tompkins. Captain J. K. Powell of New Jersey is the student officer.

Among the men from this unit who are reported to have shown up particularly well on the range are Donald D. Hand of Keyport, N. J.; William Anderson, Roselle Park, N. J.; Ralph N. Baldwin, East Orange, N. J.; Thompson M. Barker, Morristown, N. J., and Herbert A. Payne, Sudbrook, N. J.

Under the direction of Captain Sidney Haight, the regular army instructor, the members of the First Troop of cavalry are getting target practice by squads in galleries in Washington. Among the crack shots are Cecil C. Agate, Newark, N. J.; James D. Bebaut, Pittsburgh, Penn.; David S. Bingham, East Orange, N. J.; E. H. Winter, Orange, N. J., and Harold E. Orr, Buffalo, N. Y., and Kenneth O. Spinning, Newark, N. J.

The Fourth Company of Infantry is to like with shelter tents to the rifle range next Sunday.

The infantry companies are engaged this week in practicing bomb throwing from the trenches which they have dug near Hatfield Junction. This practice is principally to give them good judgment on range and direction, after which they will have more realistic work with smoke bombs.

WILL FLY FOR BRITAIN.

Brooklyn Man Enlists, Assailing Delay and Red Tape Here.

Harvey Senior of 68 Montague Street, Brooklyn, a son of Coroner Frank S. Senior, has enlisted in the Royal British Aviation Service, and within a few days expects to be in a training camp in Canada. Senior is 22 years old and is in the automobile business. He enlisted in the British service, he said, because he wanted some assurance that he would not have to wait for weeks before he would know what he was to do.

"I wanted to get into a branch of the service for which I felt I was best equipped, and besides I wanted to do my bit as soon as possible," he said yesterday. "I tried to get into the service of my country, encountered nothing but red tape and delay. My name was taken and that was all. I had not even the assurance of being tested, or trained in the near future. I got tired of being turned down by recruiting officers."

Roy Senior, a brother of Harvey, said last night that many other Americans who desired to enter the American aerial service had encountered delay, and he understood that thirty men from the aviation station intended to enter the British service.

CITY CENSUS EXCEEDS ESTIMATE BY 300,000

Grand Total for Five Boroughs in Military Registration Expected to Reach 3,200,000.

NOT ONE DEFIES THE LAW

All of the 103 for Whom Subpoenas Were Issued Clear Themselves, Including a Woman Teacher.

New York City registration in the State Military Census exceeded estimates by 300,000, according to the report of Director Goodrich made yesterday to the Mayor's Committee on National Defense. There were more than 3,100,000 persons registered and there still are to be added many residents of New York who are out of the city. The Director believes that these names will swell the grand total to 3,200,000.

"This showing is remarkable," said Mr. Goodrich. "It exceeds all expectations and is due to the public spirit of the people of the city who met their civic obligation with patience and good nature. It is due also to the army of volunteer workers, men and women, who performed difficult tasks well."

With the exception of two negro porters who were hired to assist in handling heavy cases of printed matter, the 50,000 volunteer workers gave their services gratuitously. The entire cost to the municipality of taking the census will not exceed $20,000, the Director reports, and this expense was solely for printing, postage, telephone, and telegraphic service and for transportation.

The delay and confusion in the first days of registration, Mr. Goodrich said, were caused by the crowds passing up the school stations where they had been expected and flocking to the places where they were not expected. Another cause was the shortage of blanks.

The complete returns from all boroughs and institutions will not be ready until next week. Registrations are still coming in from out of town by mail, and many sailors and traveling men who are coming into New York every day are still being registered at 57 Chambers Street and at 248 Duffield Street, Brooklyn, the only remaining registration places.

In a letter to Miss Mary Garrett Hay, Chairman of the New York City Woman Suffrage Party, Ernest P. Goodrich congratulates her on the manner in which the 11,700 members of the city party took the census in 400 election districts where they had entire charge of the work. Mr. Goodrich says in part:

"From the four assistant directors of the census, who gave such unstinted time and energy, to the thousands of registrars who were obtained for the work through your party, there has run the same spirit of devotion to duty and to the public service. The initiative, resourcefulness, and intelligence of your workers have earned the gratitude of the city and State. I congratulate you on the strength of your organization and on the ability of its members."

Not one of the 103 persons who have been subpoenaed to appear before Mr. Goodrich to answer questions, has refused to comply with the law when brought to headquarters. One woman, a teacher in a public school, who was summoned to appear last Saturday, objected very strongly at first, and Mr. Goodrich told her to go home and talk it over with her friends. She professed to be willing to go to jail, but returned yesterday morning, and answered all the questions and signed the form in due course.

2,369 JOINED THE ARMY DURING THE WEEK-END

Best Results in Drive Made on Saturday and Sunday—Nebraska Joins the Honor Roll.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—The final days of last week, when the army tried to make its big drive for enlisted men, were the best of the week. On Saturday and Sunday 2,369 men were obtained, bringing the total recruits for the week to 9,043. The total recruited since April 1 now is 133,992, leaving 49,-990 men yet to be recruited to bring the army to maximum war strength.

One result of the drive was to bring Nebraska into the list of States that have filled their quotas. With the 66 recruits obtained Saurday and Sunday, that State has furnished 2,404 men to the army, while her quota called for 2,384. This makes her the tenth State in the honor roll. The daily statement on regular army recruiting issued by Adjt. Gen. McCain follows:

RECRUITS POUR IN, STIRRED BY PERSHING

Safe Arrival of American Troops in France Causes Heavy Enlistments in New York District.

Army recruiting stations in and around New York had an unusually good day yesterday. Men began to come into the local headquarters at 280 Broadway early in the morning, and more than 100 enlistments had been reported before noon. The increased number of volunteers was attributed by Colonel R. D. Walsh, in charge of recruiting in the metropolitan district, partly to the belated results of the energetic work which marked "Regular Army Week" last week, and partly to the psychological effect of the published stories of the landing of General Pershing's first division in France. The total number of enlistments for the day in New York was 213 even.

It was announced yesterday that the Quartermasters' Enlisted Reserve Corps, which has recruiting headquarters at 55 Hudson Street and 630 Sixth Avenue, is still much in need of butchers and teamsters, having vacancies for 100 of the latter. Carpenters and electricians are also needed.

BRITISH WILL EXTEND RECRUITING HERE

Lord Aberdeen Says Missionary Work Is Needed Also Among American Pacifists.

About 150 representatives of various British and Canadian patriotic, benevolent, and social organizations in and around New York met last night at the Hotel Vanderbilt to organize a complete recruiting system for British subjects in the metropolitan district, under the auspices of Brig. Gen. W. A. White, the head of the British recruiting mission in the United States. Gen. White himself presided at the meeting, which was attended by Lord Aberdeen, formerly Governor General of Canada; Colonel Walter Scott, head and organizer of the New York Scottish, and others.

It was revealed that the chief obstacle to recruiting in this country has been the small separation allowance made by the British and Canadian Governments to the wives and families of those who enlist, which does not meet living costs in this country.

Lord Aberdeen said a much more important duty than recruiting devolved upon British subjects in the United States, that of doing missionary work among the people of this country.

General White announced that the arrangement had been made to make the week beginning July 16 "British and Canadian Recruiting Week" in New York.

OUR MILITARY SYSTEM.

The formal statement by the President, published today, of the regulations for enforcing the selective draft law may be taken as the last step in the formation of a new military policy for the United States. The President lays emphasis upon the provisions for an equal and just selection. There will be no favoritism, there will be no exemptions because of wealth or social standing. It is worth while to compare our new system with that which Major Gen. UPTON so strongly condemned in his book on "The Military Policy of the United States," a policy which persisted in peace and through all our many wars until a wholesome change was begun in the establishment of a General Staff of the army when ELIHU ROOT was Secretary of War. The causes of our military weakness set forth by General UPTON in 1881 were ten in number:

First—The employment of militia and undisciplined troops commanded by Generals and officers utterly ignorant of the military art.

This has been partly changed by a complete federalization of the State troops in time of war. The new order is far from perfect. The National Guard is still under State influences, but trained officers of the regular army are assigned to assist in its development and to hold commands in militia regiments under Federal control.

Second—Short enlistments, from three months to three years, instead of for or during the war.

All enlistments in the regular army and the National Guard are now for the period of the war. All drafted men will serve until the war is finished.

Third—Reliance upon voluntary enlistments, instead of voluntary enlistments coupled with conscription.

The fate of the nation in this war does not depend upon the volunteer system, which has proved a broken reed. The larger part of our war army will eventually be made up of drafted men, not conscripts in the old sense, but citizens of a nation which as a whole has volunteered. There will be no class distinctions, men of all conditions of life will serve side by side, after scientific training in the art of modern warfare.

Fourth—The intrusion of the States in military affairs and the consequent waging of all our wars on the theory that we are a confederacy instead of a nation.

This evil has not been altogether corrected. The National Guard organizations belong to the States, and, in spite of the strong efforts of the Militia Bureau of the War Department to give them the training Federal troops should have, they still are afflicted with political officers. But there has been great improvement, and there will be greater.

Fifth—Confusing volunteers with militia and surrendering to the States the right to commission officers of volunteers, the same as officers of militia.

This has been reformed altogether. The volunteers are taken into the regular army. The drafted men are provided with trained officers under the direction of the War Department. The old bad system of making any man who had the political "pull" or the social popularity to raise a company a commissioned officer has been done away with forever.

The sixth, seventh, eighth, and ninth of General UPTON'S "causes" relate to the enticement of men to military service by bounties, the lack of territorial recruitment and regimental depots, the failure to appreciate military education and to distribute trained officers as battalion and higher commanders in volunteer organizations, and the lack of post-graduate schools for officers. These causes of military weakness no longer exist in this country. As for the tenth cause, the assumption of command in war by the Secretary of War, necessarily a civilian, if that is an evil we must still endure it. Secretary ROOT said of General UPTON'S treatise, when it was finally published in 1904 by order of Congress, that it "was written from a purely military point of view, and in some parts shows a failure to appreciate difficulties arising from our form of Government and the habits and opinions of our people, with which civil government has necessarily to deal in its direction of the military arm."

There is no general disposition to change our form of government, but there is a very common belief that when a nation is at war its military affairs should be administered by competent military authorities. With the right man as Secretary, there is no reason why there should be complications. We have been making progress toward the formation of a military system. We have had a General Staff for fourteen years. It still lacks the full authority over the various army bureaus it should possess, and the hampering restrictions of the present national defense law must in time be removed. The lessons of this war should serve to make our military system both stronger and more flexible. They should move the American people also to compel an abandonment of the double-headed National Guard system, and the permanent establishment of a system of universal military training which will provide us with an ample reserve army always ready for duty.

WE MUST NOT FEED THE ENEMY.

The importance of promptly exercising our Government's power to control exports is emphasized by the British Government's statement about supplies imported by Germany from Holland and the Scandinavian countries, by the record of recent shipments of wheat, and by new evidence that Germany is in great need of imported food. This statement, sent to Washington from London, shows that the neutrals sold 1,410,100 tons of food to Germany last year. They were enabled to do this by the wheat, fodder grain, and other products which they imported from the United States. When the nutritive value of what Germany received is measured, it appears that the fats were sufficient for the requirements of the entire German Army's rations, and that in calories the imports were equal to the full rations of the 2,500,000 German soldiers on the west front.

It is known that neutrals made large purchases of American grain when it was foreseen that power to control would be granted. Weekly exports of wheat from this country and Canada, which had averaged less than 5,500,000 bushels in May, advanced quickly to more than 8,000,000, the average in June having been 8,497,000, with 8,894,000 for the month's closing week. The German Government has given notice that, on account of coming crop shortage, there will be no barley or potatoes for live stock, and it is taking the pigs which farmers were intending to fatten. Berlin newspapers say that a search of private houses for foodstuffs added only 4 per cent. to the existing controlled stock. They print an appeal to the public from the Minister of Agriculture, urging the people to endure privation because "victory will be won, not by the last bullet, but by the last crust."

These European neutral countries are now striving to convince our Government that their imports from the United States have not been used to Germany's advantage. Their own admissions, their official trade reports, and this statement from the British Government prove that this is not true. Some of them are selling food to Germany now. They say they must do this in order to get coal and other products in return. Holland asks for American fodder grain in addition to that which has increased her supply of cattle by 15 per cent., so that her exports of meat, milk, butter, and cheese to Germany may continue. It is said that our Government is anxious to avoid injustice in its treatment of the neutrals. We are taking part in a great war, the result of which may be determined by the enemy's supply of food. It would be unjust to ourselves and to our allies to permit that supply to be increased, directly or indirectly, by shipments from our ports.

We have power to compel use of neutral ships now lying idle in the harbors of belligerents or elsewhere, and some propose that exports to neutral countries shall be conditioned upon the use of these carriers. But how can we be sure that foodstuffs so transported will not eventually, in some form, go into Germany? And would it be safe to give the neutrals only what they say they need? For the benefit of our enemy, they have been taking much more than was needed by their own people. They should have no grain or supplies of any kind from the United States unless they bind themselves to withhold from Germany food or any other product that will help our enemy to prolong the war. The record and the present situation would justify us in preventing exports to them even under such conditions. This would be the safest course.

PROGRESSIVE TAMMANY.

There is no mystery about Tammany's sudden conversion to municipal ownership and operation of everything, passenger transportation, light, heat, power, telephones, and markets. Ownership by the city and operation by its Government of all the industries listed in Tammany's plan would give the old and now hard-beset organization perhaps 100,000 well-paid places for the faithful, sure to be filled by Tammany men whenever Tammany was in power. If Tammany could once get possession of the City Government and by colossal "dickering" at Albany could procure the necessary legislation to carry its socialistic program into effect, the City Hall would be its Hindenburg line. With 100,000 places at its disposal, in addition to the present city payroll, its dislodgment would be well-nigh impossible.

Like Germany's unrestricted submarine warfare, this venture in socialism is Tammany's last throw. As the city has grown in population, Tammany has diminished. It must secure an immense increment in numbers or it can have no future. It is a desperate venture. As our neighbor The Evening Post points out, in going over to socialism Tammany sacrifices its last shred of reputation. No man can say how many upright and steady-going business men in this city have given their votes and money to support Tammany because they believed it to be unshakably conservative. It had small liking for BRYAN, none for HENRY GEORGE. Of its principles and its practices in local administration, very little good could be said, but Tammany Hall has been considered to be dependable in its steadfast opposition to socialistic lunacies. Now it plunges head first into the waters of socialism.

The debt limit, of course, stands in the way of carrying out any such monstrous program of municipal ownership and operation. We assume that Tammany proposes to buy and pay for the properties it hopes to operate—at least thus far it has said nothing about confiscation. Under the Constitution as it now stands, and it cannot be amended in time for the Mayoralty election, the money for Tammany's purposes cannot be found. That may make no difference with its campaign. It will tell the voters to whom it appeals that it is going to take over the street railways, lighting plants, and markets, and persons simple-minded enough to approve such a policy will, of course, believe anything.

We hope Tammany will persist in its intention to fight the present City Administration as a protector and champion of "special privilege." On that issue it will be met, and it can have all the fighting it wants.

WHAT WAS DONE IN RUSSIA.

A Washington dispatch says that "three weeks ago" Minister KERENSKY informed this Government that "a "big Russian offensive would take "place in the early part of July," (it began on July 1;) and Secretary LANSING says that the initial success indicates that KERENSKY has "succeeded "in his big task of reorganizing the "Russian Army."

"Big" is the word; for the Russian offensive, though the infantry fighting has been on an eighteen-mile front, is altogether on a 200-mile front. For 200 miles the Russians are engaged in pounding the Germans with artillery, the immediate purpose of which, it may be suspected, is to force the Germans to use up their ammunition. Whether the objective of the infantry attack is Lemberg or not, its main purpose is to change the state of things by which the Germans were enabled to pile up heavy masses taken from the Russian front to stop the advance of the British and the Italians. In other words, within three weeks and a half after the army was seemingly paralyzed by the revolution, Russia has come again to the rescue of her allies in the west. The thing would be incredible if it had not been done. Despite the German announcements that a Russian offensive was feared, no offensive on such a large scale had been expected for months.

Something of what has been done, and some idea of its gigantic size, can be gleaned from this news of KERENSKY'S having notified us three weeks ago that a great offensive would be undertaken by July. That notification must have come to us somewhere about June 10. KERENSKY had just returned from his tour of the battle front. It was on May 29, at the beginning of his tour, that his new orders restoring discipline—his "iron hand" orders—went into effect. Between those dates he had addressed thousands of soldiers, awaking an enthusiasm without parallel. On the same day that these orders went into effect the Peasants' Congress, representing the class from whom the bulk of the soldiers are drawn, issued a resolution calling on them to cease "fraternization."

General ALEXIEFF resigned as Commander in Chief on June 4, and General BRUSILOFF was appointed to succeed him. On June 8 the Peasants' Congress, undoubtedly at KERENSKY'S instance, adopted this resolution, which came to the soldiers with the voice of parental authority:

The Congress considers that it is its duty energetically to defend its country, recoiling before no sacrifices in order to sustain the fighting strength of the army and the patrimony of the Russian people. The Congress summons the army to submit itself to discipline and defend revolutionary Russia, of peasants and workers. It grants its benediction to this war, and will not forget the blood which has been shed.

KERENSKY immediately ordered that the resolution be read to all ranks of the army and navy; and, returning from his revival trip along the front, he said:

After touring the whole of Russia and the battle front, I can affirm that what hitherto was regarded as the dying agony of our army was nothing else than the laborious travail of the new Russian State. I can affirm that, notwithstanding the destruction of the old discipline, the power of the Russian Army is increasing daily, based as it is on a new and intelligent discipline. I can affirm once for all that fraternization with the enemy has completely ceased.

The army had a chance to show whether these words were justified on June 11. Three pacifist regiments under an anarchistic leader refused to obey orders, whereupon their comrades marched upon them, opened fire, and took them prisoners.

It was at this time that KERENSKY informed Washington that the great Russian offensive would begin "early in July." The whole chain of events took only about two weeks. The ground had been prepared for KERENSKY by the urgent and incessant labors of the Generals, but it was his work which brought about this miracle in so short a time. It is evident that within a few days after BRUSILOFF took command he must have made his plans for the offensive and been assured of his ability to carry it out, for he took command on June 4, which was four weeks ago.

The reconstruction of the fighting force had been hoped for in months; it has been done in a month; the success of it was assured within ten days after KERENSKY started along the front. As the climax of the whole record comes the amazing report that KERENSKY led the attack in person. The story is among the most wonderful of all the wonderful stories of this wonderful war; and what KERENSKY has done, in the time in which he did it, must go on record as one of the most amazing historic feats of all time. The crucial part of it was done in one week. If the army is saved, Russia is saved; and the army is not only saved but striking.

UNLAWFUL CENSORSHIP.

The dispatch from our Paris correspondent published in THE TIMES yesterday, telling of the landing of American troops in France and of the joy and enthusiasm manifested by Frenchmen at their coming, was filed in Paris for transmission to this newspaper on Thursday. It was a dispatch which Americans have read with pride and pleasure. It told of the splendid appearance of our men, erect, soldierly, in the best of condition and of spirits; it told of the admiration for these American soldiers openly and heartily expressed by Frenchmen and Englishmen. It would have been helpful and inspiring reading in this country during the recruiting week appointed by the President, and the results of the recruiting "drive" show plainly enough that some inspiration of that kind was needed.

This dispatch should have been published in THE TIMES Friday morning. With others of like nature, it was delayed by the French censor, evidently because of a request made from some American source. The London Times duly received and published its report of the same event in its first issue after the landing of the troops. London is only a day's journey from Germany, New York is ten days' distant. Moreover, German newspapers containing comment upon the landing of our troops in France were received at The Hague before the dispatches to American newspapers were released in Paris.

The American Congress, after many days of debate, in which its determination not to give the Administration the power of general censorship over the American press was plainly manifested, refused to enact a repressive project legislation prepared by certain members of the Administration. The withholding from delivery of THE TIMES'S Paris dispatches for a period of three days, or requesting that they be held, was an unlawful exercise of authority. It was an infringement of the liberty of the press, which is guaranteed by the Constitution; it was a defiance of Congress, which expressly refused to grant the authority in this case exercised.

It was more than unlawful, it was stupid. Germany was already informed of the landing of American troops in France before these dispatches could have been published here. But the censorship activities of certain members of the Administration have another aspect. While dispatches to American newspapers, from which it would be impossible for the enemy to learn anything not already known to him, are being held up in this arbitrary manner, other dispatches from this country telling of riots against the draft and grossly and maliciously misrepresenting the spirit of the American people toward the war go forth from American cities unchallenged to South American and neutral European countries. It is evidently upon these false reports, spread abroad by persons in sympathy with the enemy, that the German newspapers base their stories of opposition to the war in this country. Yet it appears that the censors representing the Government have no authority to stop dispatches of this harmful and seditious nature.

If censorship is to be applied, the regulations should take some cognizance of matter going out from the United States. There is something the matter with a censorship that withholds from publication perfectly innocent news dispatches, dispatches that even would be most salutary if published here, while permitting injurious and treasonable falsehoods to be sent out from the country all over the world.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Justification Lies in Explanation.

From pacifist, anarchist, pro-German, and Socialist circles there confidently can be expected to come comment that ranges from sorrowful scolding to bitter denunciation, directed against the soldiers and sailors who took upon themselves the task of breaking up the "peace demonstration" in Boston on Sunday. And it can be contended with some color of plausibility, of course, that it was not the business of these soldiers and sailors to determine the permissible limits of free speech, and still less to enforce their determination by assaults on the demonstrators of whose sentiments they disapproved.

There is, however, another and a sounder argument to be made, based on facts less dubitable than is the present line between liberty and license. The men who stopped the Boston parade realized, with the seriousness natural to men who have offered their lives at their country's call, that, while they were on the eve of departing for a great war waged in defense of the very rights and privileges for which these paraders were clamoring, the paraders themselves, most of them immigrants or sons of immigrants from lands still subject to the iron rules of autocratic oppression, were remaining here at home, an army of enemies in their rear. Their irritation, therefore, was entirely natural, and, being such, its manifestation was not in the slightest degree surprising.

More than that, their conduct was by no means as illegal as its critics will charge. The law distinctly reprehends and penalizes acts calculated to provoke breaches of the peace, and it views with a lenient eye always, and a forgiving one usually, the expressions of resentment that follow when the provocation has been such as is sure to move normal men to instant physical action. Sunday's riots—if that harsh name must be applied to the conduct of Americans who have given the culminant proof of self-sacrificing devotion—constitute an unmistakable notice to the authorities in all our towns that at this time their usual tolerance of seditious utterance in regard to the Government's carefully formulated plans and policies cannot safely be continued.

Forewarned, But Not Forearmed.

In the days when the killing of individuals attracted more of public attention and filled more space in the newspapers than it does now, we used to read with mingled horror and indignation, every few weeks or months, of a murder committed by a man who had passed for harmless, though known by his relatives and acquaintances to be of a brooding or violent temper. The horror was excited by the peculiar atrocity of the crimes resulting from such states of mind, and the indignation was due to the feeling that, as the natural course of these forms of insanity is well known to all alienists, society should be protected from their victims, not after, but before, the access of murderous rage that was to be expected had taken place.

In other words, there is a larger responsibility in cases like these than can be met by the punishment or incarceration of a madman left too long at liberty.

In something the same way, and for similar reasons, the civilized nations of the world should consider carefully whether they can properly put on Germany all responsibility for the war. Directly, of course, the whole blame is hers, but for years past the other nations had sufficient warning of the dark and dangerous illusions into which she was falling. The writings of the Pan-Germans, unofficial, but permitted and therefore approved by her Government, were a sufficient hint of what was coming. They openly preached the doctrine that might is right—when they did not repudiate the idea of right altogether in treating of international affairs—while the most eminent of her living historians did not hesitate to extol the cruelties and rapacities of a barbarous past as marking the path to be followed in the future.

All this, of course, was indicative of homicidal mania, founded on imaginary persecutions, but nobody did more than smile, just as we too often do at the eccentricities of the so-called harmless lunatic or "crank," and still less did anybody think of taking serious measures to guard against the outbreak which it required no special powers of prophecy to foretell as bound to come sooner or later.

Yet experience was not lacking. Whole nations have gone mad before, with consequences differing from those now visible only in being on a smaller scale.

And Harden Isn't Imprisoned!

Again it is MAXIMILIAN HARDEN who, in the exercise of his mysterious immunity from the restrictions to which the other German editors submit, proves that there is in Germany at least one man who knows the facts of the existing situation and dares to print them and to draw from them logical deductions.

His latest utterances are even more remarkable for their accuracy and boldness than any of their predecessors, and those are qualities which their predecessors have often shown. HARDEN writes: "The goal of our enemies is democracy and independence for every nation ripe for freedom." Again, he says of those same enemies: "They aim at a condition which will give weapons to right against the arrogance of force, a state of affairs which will threaten with peril any enterprise of attack."

These statements might be made by WOODROW WILSON, by LLOYD GEORGE, in defining the purposes of the Allies, and they would agree perfectly with HARDEN in proclaiming that, as Germany can gain peace through victory only by a miracle, she must gain it only by such a change in the nature of her Government as will put her people on the level of democracy occupied by all civilized nations.

How different is all this from the protestations of HARDEN'S colleagues—from their obstinate lingering in the assumption that resistance to Germany is the most vicious of crimes, and that whatever Germany does must be right because she does it!

Red Cross Workers Discouraged.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Our surgeons and trained nurses are puzzled. Women with skillful hands and earnest desire to serve in the Red Cross are being discouraged and quietly settling back into inactivity.

It is not local, but women in other States are puzzled and troubled. The Red Cross has the money and the women want to work. When we hear that the wounds of the suffering are being dressed with newspapers and the need is great, why is this work so paralyzed?

We are ready to continue to make and remake and do over work if it is a necessity, but we want to know. SUBSCRIBER.

THE SMALL NEUTRALS.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

As a Hollander I follow with great interest what is being said, both in your own articles and in reported speeches, about the small neutral nations.

Senator Knox of Pennsylvania referred to them in your Senate as those "who sit by mute and cold when liberty and civilization are at stake." Surely many of your own compatriots who were over in Holland during the war must be indignant at such a misleading statement. That Holland is neither "mute nor cold" she has amply proved, both by her repeated protests against all violations of international law; for instance, against the Belgian deportations when the Netherlands Government took such a decided stand against mighty Germany, and also by what she has done, hard pressed though she is herself, to alleviate the sufferings of the war.

Few people over here realize what it meant to get all at once over a million panic stricken, utterly destitute refugees when our own population is not yet six millions. But the houses, the pocket-books and the very hearts of the Holland people flew wide open, and people stinted themselves and are stinting themselves to be able to give and help. As long as we had any supplies to spare large quantities were sent into Belgium, and thousands of relief parcels were daily sent from Holland as gifts of sympathy to allied prisoners starving in Germany. After great trouble and endless negotiations with the German authorities, little underfed Belgian and French children were finally brought to Holland to be saved from a certain death from tuberculosis. The heavily British wounded, exchanged against heavily German wounded, fetched at the German border and taken to England (and vice versa) were the guests of the Holland nation and tenderly cared for, until even these transports on Holland steamers were no longer safe from the ruthless U-boats. Do your readers know that even at this time Hollanders are running hospitals in France, Serbia, and Russia? Do they know how we try to make life as bearable as possible to the thousands of Belgians, British, French, and Germans we had to intern according to international law? Surely these are not the acts of a nation that sits "mute and cold when liberty and civilization are at stake"!

A new proposition is the German deserters who come in increasing numbers into Holland. To turn these miserable people back would be to give them up to certain death, and true to her century-old tradition of being a place of refuge, Holland is keeping and feeding these people, too, together with allied prisoners who managed to escape to Holland.

Work there is none for them. The utter lack of coal and raw material has increased unemployment to an alarming extent, notwithstanding the fact that 372,000 men are mobilized since July 31, 1914. This mobilization not only means a ruinous daily cost but also necessitates more food supplies, more coal, more support for the families at home. Without coal, grain, wool, &c., with the German ports to the south and the east and the deep ocean to the north and the west surely the outlook for Holland in the next Winter is gloomy indeed.

The allied nations are fighting because treaties have been violated and international law has been trampled under foot; why, then, utter hard and untrue statements about a small neutral nation which, thanks to her splendid Government, has rigorously kept to the pledged word and international law, and in all her own distress yet manages to do so much to alleviate the sufferings of others? Why one coming to Holland can see with his own eyes that, anyway, Holland sits not "mute and cold" when liberty and civilization are at stake."

Russia Ripe for a Republic.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Russian revolution was but a series of great surprises; the all-powerful Rasputin's sudden tragical disappearance; the Duma's bold defiance of the Czar's prorogation of its sessions; Professor Milukoff's daring denunciation of traitors in the highest quarters; the autocracy's sudden crumbling down like that of a cardboard house; the Czar's pitiful abdication and the Czarina's dignified prohibition of bloodshedding; the Russian Church's abrupt relinquishing of the anointed one after having daily prayed for him during twenty-three years; the Russian Army's ominous silence at the forcible removal of its imperial chief commander; Moscow, "the heart of Russia," quietly removing the imperial emblems, shedding no tears nor a drop of blood. But the greatest surprise of all, as a distinguished member of the Russian commission told me yesterday, was a sudden and peaceful substitution of a new democratic order instead of the imperial regime centuries old.

On receipt of the news of the Czar's abdication (midst of the new and villages of Russia there were formed Executive Committees made up of representatives of lawyers, physicians, farmers, workmen and soldiers, and took charge of all branches of the local administration, replacing and sometimes arresting functionaries of the old regime. Everywhere national guards were substituted for the much-hated police. Thus the people of Russia have at once taken government in their own hands. Are they not ripe for a republic? Certainly they are, and they want no other form of government, as my old friend of the Russian commission has assured me. PETER J. POPOFF.

THE VOLUNTEER'S MOTHER.

He was so beautiful—my baby son!
His deep blue eyes looked trustingly in mine.
I did my best to keep his beauty fair
And fresh and clean and dainty, for I knew
I never could be satisfied with less.

He was so strong and well, my little son!
I gave my days and nights to keep him so—
Called in fresh air and sunlight to my aid,
Good food and play, all healthful things of life.
I wanted physical perfection, for
I never could be satisfied with less.

He was so bright and clever, my big son!
I sent him to the very best of schools,
Denying self that he might know no lack
Of opportunity to do his best,
Or feel no door of progress closed to him.
I never could be satisfied with less.

And yet—but now—my well-beloved son,
For your perfection can I pay the price?
Or would I have you play the coward's part
With selfish, shriveled soul too small to dwell
Within so fair a frame? Is that my choice?
I sought the best! Shall I be satisfied with less?

Nay, I would have you honorable, my son—
Just, loyal, brave and truthful, scorning fear
And lies and meanness—ready to defend
Your home, your mother and your country's flag.
He's gone! Dear God! With bleeding heart I know

NEW TAX LAW IN EFFECT.

State Assessment of Two Mills on Securities.

A new investment tax covering a large amount of personal property went into effect yesterday, the act having been passed by the last Legislature. The tax is 2 mills, or one-fifth of 1 per cent. per annum, equivalent to $2 per thousand of the face value of the investment. The law permits the taxpayer to pay 1 per cent. for a period of five years at one time, eliminating annual payments for that period.

The securities subject to the tax are bonds, note, debt, debentures, equipment bond or note, or written or printed obligation, forming part of a series of similar bonds, debts debentures or printed obligation which by their terms are payable one year or more from their date of issue and which are either secured by a mortgage, pledge, deposit, or deed of trust, of real or personal property or both, or which are not secured at all.

The new law exempts New York State bonds of any civil division, and bonds or obligations secured by deeds of trust or mortgage on real property, situated within the State of New York and duly recorded. It also exempts all bonds and notes, held as collateral to secure the payment of investments. United States bonds are also exempt.

M. Morgenthau, Jr., who advocated this tax law two years ago, when President of the Real Estate Association of the State of New York, said yesterday that this is the first constructive step which has been taken to distribute the burden of taxation which now falls so heavily upon real estate.

AID FOR KITCHENER FUND.

Committee Seeks American Contributions to Memorial.

The American Committee of the Kitchener Memorial issued an appeal yesterday for American contributions to the fund of $5,000,000 which is to provide a permanent home in England for disabled officers and men of "Kitchener's Army." The fund in England is in charge of a council, of which the Lord Mayor of London is an official, and it was at the suggestion of the Lord Mayor that an American committee to co-operate in raising the needed funds has been appointed. F. Cunliffe Owen is the Chairman, George F. Wilson the Vice Chairman, William C. Demorest the Treasurer, and J. P. Morgan & Co. the depository of the part of the fund which is to be raised here.

Among the members of the American committee are Major Gen. Leonard Wood, U. S. A., who was Kitchener's friend; Clarence H. Mackay, the Rev. Dr. William T. Manning, James M. Beck, the Rev. Dr. Charles A. Eaton, Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, Joseph H. Choate, Jr., Henry Clews, Paul D. Cravath, Chauncey M. Depew, Samuel W. Fairchild, Daniel Frohman, William Fellowes Morgan, Cornelius Vanderbilt, Charles H. Sabin, Alton B. Parker, E. H. Outerbridge, Oscar S. Straus, William Sloane, A. Barton Hepburn, and Thomas E. Neelands.

Subscriptions to the American fund should be addressed to W. C. Demorest at 120 Broadway.

HOLDS LANDLORD LIABLE.

Tenant Withheld Rent Because Apartment Employe Robbed Him.

The Appellate Term of the Supreme Court ruled yesterday that if a landlord, without investigating his character, hires an employe to whom he intends to give access to the apartments in his building, the landlord will be held responsible if the employe robs a tenant. The decision is the first of the kind in this State.

Philip Livingston, owner of the Clifton apartments, Riverside Drive and Ninety-ninth Street, brought suit against William O. Gennert, a lawyer, for rent due. In his answer Mr. Gennert denied that he owed any rent, on the ground that an assistant janitor who had gone to his apartment to repair the heating apparatus had stolen jewelry worth $3,000 from Mrs. Gennert.

Justice Lehman said in the decision:

"A tenant in an apartment house has no means of choosing the servants of the house. In so far as such servants are given the opportunity through their employment of entering the apartments of the tenants the landlord should use the care of a prudent man before employing persons who would have the opportunity for theft."

CATHOLICS TELL PEACE AIM.

International Justice and the Rightful Aspirations of Peoples.

ROME, July 2.—The Directing Committee of Catholic Action has addressed a sort of catechism to all organizations of the Catholic Church recalling, as it says, the principles that ought to inspire the attitude of Catholics. Part of the catechism takes up certain accusations, saying:

"First—Italian Catholics before the war were opposed to Italian participation in the conflict. Consequently it is not true that they were the instigators of the war.

"Second—After the declaration of war they did, and continue loyally to do, their duty without reserve. Consequently, it is false that they have been undermining the national energies.

"Third—As concerns peace, they aim to direct souls and consciences toward triumph and toward peace, in conformity with the principles of international Christian justice and the rightful aspirations of peoples. Consequently, it is false that they are partisans of war and are madly imperialist."

ASSAILS DUMBA'S VIEWS.

Berlin Paper Dissents from Talk of a Compromise Peace.

AMSTERDAM, July 2.—The Berliner Tageszeitung sharply criticises an article in the Vienna Neue Freie Presse by Dr. Constantin Dumba, in which the former Ambassador to the United States said that it was gradually being recognized in Austria-Hungary that peace could only issue from a compromise and could be dictated by neither side. These remarks, says the newspaper, have created an unpleasant sensation in Germany.

The utterances of von Hindenburg and Ludendorff to the effect that peace, when it comes, must correspond to the sacrifices of the German people, says the newspaper, express the sentiments of the majority of the German people.

It urges Dr. Dumba to observe more reserve and refrain from rendering more difficult the tasks of his colleagues in office and the military leaders.

MUST EXPLAIN SUNDAY GAME

Exhibition Call for Red Cross Violated Law, It Is Charged.

Charles H. Ebbets and Wilbert Robinson, owner and manager of the Brooklyn Baseball Club, received summonses yesterday to answer to a charge that the baseball game and "sacred concert" given on Sunday at Ebbets Field were in violation of the Sunday law. The charge was made by Inspector McElroy of the law and order department of the New York Civic League.

The exhibition was billed as a benefit for the Red Cross, the Militia of Mercy, and other relief organizations, and, according to McElroy, while patrons' tickets read "free exhibition," they contained another paragraph stating that they constituted admission to the concert. McElroy admitted, however, that when the concert was over the gates of the park were opened and all who wished entered to witness the baseball game.

WILSON GIVES UP VACATION.

Will Stay in Washington All Summer Whether Congress Adjourns or Not.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Announcement was made today at the White House that President Wilson did not expect to take a vacation this Summer, but planned to remain in Washington, whether Congress adjourned or not.

The President may take short trips down the Potomac River week-ends on the Mayflower.

COMMITTEE FAVORS UNLIMITED FUSION

TAMMANY LEADERS REJOICE

F. D. Roosevelt's Agreement to Speak In Wigwam Hailed as Support by Wilson Administration.

The Committee on Nominations of the Fusion Committee of 1917 held a meeting yesterday at the office of George W. Wickersham, 40 Wall Street, and discussed the question of bringing about fusion on all city, county, and judicial offices this year. A number of the main committee are in favor of limiting fusion to the officials who make up the Board of Estimate—the Mayor, Controller, President of the Board of Aldermen, and Borough Presidents. Four years ago there was fusion on both county and judicial offices.

Several of those present at the meeting thought the committee should extend its influence to take in the offices of District Attorney and County Register. Four years ago the committee nominated John J. Hopper for Register, and Mr. Hopper is again a candidate. His friends said yesterday that he deserved a renomination on his record, and that the committee should not desert him this year. The same members argued that it would increase Tammany's chances of electing a District Attorney this year if the Fusion Committee should leave the nomination of a candidate for that office entirely with the Republicans.

At the present time the Nominating Committee has not the authority to go beyond the Board of Estimate nominations, but full authority will be extended later by the Executive Committee. When this is done it was said that the Nominating Committee would probably recommend that fusion be made on all offices. Besides the city offices a full county ticket is to be elected in all the five Boroughs, and Aldermen and Assemblymen in every district. There also will be elected an Associate Judge of the Court of Appeals, two Supreme Court Justices from the First Judicial District, one to succeed Justice John W. Goff, who will retire this year under the age limit, and one to succeed Samuel H. Ordway, who was appointed by Governor Whitman; two Supreme Court Justices from the Second Department, which includes Brooklyn and Queens, and five Judges of the City Court. Although the Nominating Committee conferred for more than an hour, no decision was reached. Mr. Wickersham was made temporary Chairman, and will be made permanent Chairman to succeed Senator Ogden L. Mills, should the latter receive a commission in the army.

The Fusion Committee, it was learned, is much concerned over the situation in Brooklyn, where a wing of the Republican organization, headed by County Leader Jacob A. Livingston, is trying to keep alive a boom for Supreme Court Justice James W. Cropsey for Mayor. The anti-Cropsey element is headed by United States Senator Calder and F. J. H. Kracke, Commissioner of Plant and Structures. The Livingston element will try to keep the movement for Justice Cropsey active so that, should Mayor Mitchel lose the nomination, it could go to the Brooklyn jurist.

Speculation in the Mayoralty situation switched strongly to Tammany yesterday upon the announcement from Fourteenth Street that the principal orator at the Fourth of July celebration at the wigwam this year is to be Franklin D. Roosevelt, Assistant Secretary of the Navy. Mr. Roosevelt, an independent Democrat, has been a bitter foe of Tammany and Charles F. Murphy. He has never been in Tammany Hall, and while in the fight against Tammany's candidate for United States Senator, William F. Sheehan.

There was jubilation among Tammany leaders when it became known that Mr. Roosevelt had agreed to speak for Tammany in its wigwam. It meant, said the leaders, that the Wilson Administration was giving its support to the local Democratic organization in the Mayoralty contest.

Tammany leaders were so gratified over the Roosevelt matter that they even began to lay plans for launching a Gubernatorial boom for Mr. Roosevelt for next year. Tammany, it was said, would be willing to accept Mr. Roosevelt as its candidate for Governor if the latter satisfied the leaders that his sympathy was with the organization in its Mayoralty contest.

JUDGE HYLAN ATTACKS MAYOR

A meeting of the Platform Committee of the Business Men's League last night at 50 East Forty-second Street was made the occasion of a bitter attack upon Mayor Mitchel and the present city administration by County Judge John F. Hylan of Brooklyn. It appeared from the general trend of the meeting that municipal ownership of public utilities would form the principal plank in the platform of the league, which has for its object the nomination of "a business man for Mayor."

"The question to be settled in the coming Mayoralty campaign," said Judge Hylan, "is a question between the people of all parties against the most daring combination of clever manipulators and special privilege seekers, and the keenest and most powerful and astute political bosses that have ever dared to assert themselves in the administration of a municipality in the world. This same powerful coterie, composed of those connected with the Rockefeller Foundation, Society and other Standard Oil subsidiaries, that have exerted such phenomenal influence over the Mayor and other Fusion officials, is practically the same combination that has been instrumental in raising the price of coal, foodstuffs and other necessities of life.

"Every few days you will see a headline that the Mayor has appointed another committee, and faithful Perkins is one of its members. Poor Perkins is easy. He is after honor and the Fusion crowd is after his money. The Mayor confers the honor and Perkins contributes liberally. The report is current that there are more foodstuffs in cold storage right here in the City of New York than ever before, but the Mayor knows that he can depend on his friend Perkins, and that there will be no interference with this privileged combination so long as Perkins is in charge. I would suggest that the nominee of this league pledge that the Police Commissioner appointed by him will conduct the Police Department as was intended—to keep order and detect crime."

TAMMANY INVITES ORATORS.

Even a Republican Is Asked to Speak at Fourth Celebration.

Tammany Hall is planning to hold tomorrow the biggest Fourth of July celebration, in point of oratory, at least, in its history. It will be the society's 128th annual celebration of the event. The principal speaker will be Franklin D. Roosevelt, Assist

KINGDON GOULD WEDS MISS LUCCI, ARTIST

BROTHER GEORGE ATTENDS

Other Members of Family Not Present, but Father Takes Breakfast with Bridegroom.

Kingdon Gould, eldest son of George Jay Gould, and Miss Annunziatta Camilla Maria Lucci, formerly tutor to Miss Vivien Gould, the bridegroom's sister, were married yesterday afternoon in the rectory of St. Patrick's Cathedral. Members of the Gould family, excepting George Gould, Jr., who was his brother's witness, did not attend the wedding. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Gould motored to the bride's apartments at 27 East Sixty-second Street, where a reception was held.

"We are going to receive a few of our friends who wish to congratulate us," said Mr. Gould. "I do not expect my family will be present. We are not going to leave the city, at least not for a few days, and tomorrow I will be at the office with father as usual. Later, possibly in a week, we will go away for a long trip."

When they return to the city the Goulds will live in the apartment which Mr. Gould has just leased at Park Avenue and Seventy-sixth Street.

The ceremony took place at 4 o'clock, after a day of rumors which had the couple married in the morning, had the ceremony declared off at the last moment, and postponed for several days until the Goulds could arrange to be present in a body to welcome the newest member of the family.

All Rumors Go Awry.

The rumors started yesterday morning when Kingdon Gould and his brother had breakfast with their father at the Gould house. Soon afterward the young men entered a red touring car and drove to Miss Lucci's home, while Mr. Gould, Sr., went down to his office. About 10 o'clock, accompanied by her fiancé and George Gould, Jr., the bride-to-be motored to the Cathedral College, at Madison Avenue and Fifty-first Street, to call upon Mgr. Gherardo Ferrante, Vicar General for Italians in New York, who was to perform the ceremony. The visit was to obtain a dispensation, as Miss Lucci is a Catholic and Mr. Gould an Episcopalian.

The greatest efforts were made by the party to avoid photographers lurking outside the home of Miss Lucci. The guide even made use of an underground passage leading from the house at East Sixty-second Street to the Leonora apartments, in East Sixty-third Street, where George Gould, Jr., was waiting with an automobile. When reporters met him outside of the Cathedral College, however, Kingdon Gould courteously answered several questions put to him.

"No, there was no disagreement in my family," he said. "But it was surely a surprise. We wished it to be a surprise, for we wanted to have a quiet wedding."

The ceremony was to have been performed at 4 o'clock, and long before that hour a crowd had gathered outside the rectory. Only a few persons were permitted to enter the rectory for the ceremony, and these were mostly personal friends of the bride, who knew her as an art student. They were admitted on the presentation of a slip of white note paper on which was written: "I want you to come to my wedding. It is private."

After a wait of an hour or so outside the rectory the crowd, which numbered nearly a hundred, was startled by a shout of "Here they come!" and the couple appeared, accompanied by George Gould, Jr., in a black limousine.

Bride Shuns Gaze of Crowd.

Miss Lucci was sitting as far back in the corner of the big machine as she could, and her large black eyes peered shyly forth under the brim of a big white picture hat. She was clad in white georgette crepe, and carried an enormous bunch of lilies of the valley. On her hat were orange blossom sprays.

The two men with her eyed the crowd coolly as the automobile drew up to the curb and the photographers began to click their cameras. They were dressed as for business. George Gould appeared a low turned down collar and tan shoes that plainly showed he had been hurrying about a good deal during the day. Kingdon Gould wore a gray business suit, and just before he got out of the automobile he took a little bunch of lilies of the valley from his fiancée and pinned them on his coat.

He declined to answer questions, but ran into the rectory, calling out that he would pose after the wedding.

The big front room of the rectory where the ceremony was performed was a bower of Killarney roses and lilies of the valley. Standing before Mgr. Ferrante, who made them man and wife, Miss Lucci, who had appeared nervous as she entered the rectory, became more calm, and after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Gould went through the back door of the rectory and on through the cathedral. Out on Fifth Avenue, where the automobile had come to wait for them, they posed for several pictures.

Bride an Artist and a Linguist.

"I was present simply as King's witness," said George Gould. "There was no best man. Miss Octavia Gerardina, who has known Miss Lucci ever since she came to this country was Mrs. Gould's witness.

Kingdon Gould first met his bride when she was a tutor in the Gould household. After being with the Goulds more than a year she left them and took up the study of art, which she is now engaged on. She says she is not going to let her marriage interrupt her studies.

According to Mrs. Gould's friends, she is a "very good artist," but beyond that description, nothing definite may be learned of her work. It is said that she is a talented musician, and that she can sing as well as paint. She can speak several foreign languages, including French and Italian. She is two years older than Mr. Gould, who is just 20.

The bride was born in Pisa, Italy. She is an orphan and has no brothers and sisters.

MISS HELEN PORTER TO WED.

Junior League Member Engaged to Richard L. Davisson, Lawyer.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Porter of 56 East Sixty-seventh Street, this city, and Glen Cove, L. I., announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Helen James Porter, to Richard L. Davisson, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar F. Davisson of Dayton, Ohio. Miss Porter was introduced to society a little more than a year ago, and is a member of the Junior League. James J. Porter is her brother.

Mr. Davisson was graduated from Yale in the class of 1913 and from the Columbia Law School with the class of 1916, and is practicing law in New York. He lives at the Yale Club. No date has been mentioned for the wedding.

MRS. WALSH MARRIES AGAIN.

Divorcee Wed to Forrest P. Lindley, Broker, Also a Divorce.

Mrs. Jessie Kehlor Walsh, daughter of Mrs. J. B. M. Kehlor of St. Louis, and former wife of C. K. Dickson Walsh of this city, was married to Forrest P. Lindley, last Saturday, in Hoboken, N. J. The announcement of their marriage will come as a surprise to their many friends.

Mrs. Walsh divorced her former husband about two years ago. Mr. Lindley, who married the widow of James C. Converse in 1907, was divorced by her in 1915.

For the last two years Mrs. Walsh has made her home at the Hotel Plaza. She is said to have received several millions by the will of her father, who controlled the largest flour milling interests in the Middle West.

Mr. Lindley is a broker. With offices in the Equitable Building. Since his divorce two years ago he has lived most of the time at the Calumet Club.

The couple plan to leave for a two-months' stay in California after spending a few days at the Ritz-Carlton.

WAR'S EFFECT ON SOCIETY.

Summer Register Just Out Shows Many Men in U. S. Service.

The Social Register for the Summer of 1917, just issued, contains some interesting social statistics, the salient feature being an increase of 25 per cent. in the number of marriages, as compared with last year, during the three months from April 1. This is no doubt due to the war, as scores of weddings in New York were hastened and similar conditions existed in the twenty other cities represented by the register.

The effect of war is also shown by the notation of men in training camps, in the United States service, and in the service of the American Ambulance. Of the yachts, twenty-two are registered as having been offered and accepted as auxiliaries for the United States service. More than 200 persons are at the resorts in Canada.

In spite of dire predictions to the contrary, there seems to be no falling off in the number of residents by the seaside. There are 3,830 at the resorts. This compared to 6,573 at Inland and shore, as compared with practically the same comparison is practically the same last year. The departures for Europe have dwindled to 52, and the sailings are negligible for well-known reasons. There are more summering on their yachts this year, the number of yachts in commission being 156.

The marriages noted in the three months up to the end of June total 956 persons. The mortality rate is higher, the death of 211 men and 182 women being noted, as compared to 183 men and 177 women during the same period last year.

Miss Flagg to Wed G. F. Kunhardt.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis F. Flagg of this city announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Katharine Flagg, to George Farnham Kunhardt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry R. Kunhardt of 124 West Seventy-fourth Street. Mr. Kunhardt is a brother of H. Rudolph Kunhardt, who married Miss Louise R. Chappell. He is a member of the Sons of the Revolution and Squadron A. Owing to the fact that he expects soon to go to into training with the squadron no plans have been made for the wedding.

De Noyelles-Kennedy.

The marriage of Miss Madeleine Christine Kennedy, daughter of Mrs. Edwin Francis Kennedy of 71 East 127th Street, and Marshal Ney de Novelles, took place last evening at the home of the bride. The Rev. Chester V. Marshall officiated. After a honeymoon trip to Lake Champlain Mr. and Mrs. de Noyelles will reside in New York.

Sachs-Nahm Wedding Next Tuesday

The wedding of Walter E. Sachs and Miss Emanie Nahm will take place at 10 o'clock next Tuesday morning at the Hotel Plaza. Only members of the immediate families will be present. Mr. Sachs is a partner in the banking house of Goldman, Sachs & Co. Miss Nahm's home is in Bowling Green, Ky., but she has spent the last few Winters in this city.

Third Son in W. H. Marshall's Home

Mr. and Mrs. Walton H. Marshall are being congratulated upon the birth of a son at their Summer home at Cape Cod, Mass. This is their third son, and he is to be called John Marshall, after his great-great-grandfather, the Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court. Mrs. Marshall was Miss Vira Stowe before their marriage in 1912.

Commissioner Edwards Theatre Host

William H. Edwards, Commissioner of Internal Revenue for the Second, or Wall Street, district, entertained his office force at the Winter Garden last night. Mr. Edwards acted as host to show his employes his appreciation of their efficient work in the Government's fiscal year ended June 30, when the district's income tax collections were the largest in the history of the office, exceeding total returns in thirty States of the Union.

SIR HERBERT TREE IS DEAD IN LONDON

HIS ROLES OF FORTY YEARS

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Tuesday, July 3.—Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree died suddenly last night of heart disease at a nursing home. A few days after his return from America he slipped on a stairs, hurting his knee and necessitating an operation, which was entirely successful, but entailed a period of rest which he was undergoing. His death was quite unexpected.

He had received many interviewers during the last few days to whom he outlined his theatrical plans. Friends who saw him yesterday say that he seemed to be "quite as well as ever." On Sunday he wrote a cheery letter to the editor of The Chronicle, which had been publishing a series of articles from him, giving his impressions on his American trip, expressing the hope he would soon be about again. During last evening, however, he had a heart attack and all was over within a very short time.

The papers in paying tribute to Tree for the work he had done for the English stage do not forget the great service he rendered to the allied cause in the capacity of "informal ambassador to America" as one paper describes it.

Of the many notable rôles he played on the stage his Svengali in "Trilby" is regarded here as his most memorable creation. His productions were staged with a lavishness that made His Majesty's Theatre the home of spectacle.

Sir Herbert Tree left New York only a few weeks ago. He appeared here last Winter in an adaptation of Thackeray's "Colonel Newcome" and a Shakespearean répertoire, and after a brief tour of the country returned to London late in May. He became ill while here and had to be treated in Chicago for a throat affection which incapacitated him for performances and it is said to have hastened his return to England.

Herbert Beerbohm Tree was born in London on Dec. 17, 1853, the son of Julius Beerbohm, a grain merchant.

Makes His Debut in London.

As his father had destined him for the grain business, Herbert was employed as a clerk in the office of the firm. He, however, was interested in amateur theatricals, and soon decided to adopt the stage as a profession, assuming the additional name of Tree. He made his first appearance at the Folkestone Town Hall in 1878. Later in the same year he appeared in London at the Globe Theatre in an amateur performance.

Before the footlights of the Prince of Wales's Theatre he made his first metropolitan début as Monte Prade in Genevieve Ward's production of L'Aventurière. He appeared favorable notice when he appeared as Scandal, Surface in "The School for Scandal," and soon after as the Rev. Robert Spalding in "The Private Secretary." He scored a substantial success. His reputation was increased by his portrayal of Prince Malleconi in "Forget Me Not." It was from then on that he was regarded as a leading figure on the London stage.

In July, 1890, he appeared at an afternoon matinée as Sir Andrew Aguecheek in "Twelfth Night," showing a novel conception of Shakespearean humor. His progress now was rapid, and in 1891 he made his hit as Lauderdale Streyke in "The Colonel." The following year found him in a character which gave him ample scope for his peculiar abilities—Count Czernoschi in the drama, "Time Will Tell." This was followed by a humorous creation of Solen Tripperton in James Albery's "Miss Muffet" at the Criterion Theatre, a performance which stamped him as a comedian of a high order.

His Talents of Wide Range.

Two months later he figured as the poverty-stricken French Marquis in Arthur Matheson's "Brave Hearts." In March, 1883, he created the rôle of Jabez Green in Robert Buchanan's "Storm Beaten," and in the same month another, Lord Boodle, the typical aristocrat in Hamilton Aide's comedy, "A Great Catch." His first great performance of the polished rascal, with which he became identified on the English stage, was at the Globe Theatre in Sept., 1883, when he "created" the part of Prince Borowski in Sydney Grundy's "The Glass of Fashion."

His claim to fame as an artist perhaps dates from his performance of Mamon Baron in "Called Back," and of the German Baron in "The Dancing Girl." He displayed his remarkable versatility in one rôle that was realistically and another which was fantastic in Teutenkamp. As Sir Merwyn Ferrand, in "Dark Days," produced in 1885, Mr. Tree added another remarkable type to his gallery of aristocratic scoundrels, and followed it by the equally powerful rascal to the life as Naleska, in Maurice Barrymore's "Nadeska."

Challenges Irving with "Hamlet."

In February of the same year the actor successfully created two parts—Herr Slowitz in "A Woman of the World" and Chaviot Hill in Gilbert's "Engaged." On April 28, 1887, Sir Herbert first appeared as manager at the comedy Theatre with Outram Tristam's play, "The Red Lamp," in which he took the part of Demetrius. His ambitions, gratified by the success of his first venture as manager, led to his leasing Haymarket Theatre. Here he found himself in connection with a company and house with associations was steeped in the traditions of famous days. By his presentation of "Hamlet," Tree threw out a direct challenge to Sir Henry Irving, who was then recognized as the leading exponent of Shakespearean dramatic art.

A story is told of a young Australian who met Mr. Tree one day in a Turkish bath and insisted upon reading, then and there, a play which he had written. Mr. Tree allowed the young man to do this, and he shortly afterward produced the play at the Haymarket. Its title was "Captain Swift," and the author, Haddon Chambers.

"Surely Mr. Tree should have built himself a larger theatre than that!" exclaimed the late King Edward VII. when he learned at the opening of His Majesty's Theatre that the seating capacity was only 1,200. Tree obtained very little pecuniary return for his lavish expenditure on his productions.

His "Julius Cæsar" Production.

His production of "Julius Cæsar" is evidence that he strove to attain perfection in art itself; that his aim was to present a genuinely beautiful scenic production. Ranking as high as any of his Shakespearean characters was his Marc Antony, and posterity will be enabled to hear his speech in the Forum through the agency of a phonograph record which has been preserved in the British Museum.

Sir Herbert was a master of "make-up." When he was appearing with Coquelin the elder he encountered the French actor in the wings at the end of the "Merry Wives of Windsor" as "Falstaff to the life!" exclaimed the famous French actor, astounded at the perfection of Tree's makeup.

"Pardon me, I would like to know how you have padded your cheeks," he added, playfully tapping one side of Tree's plump face.

"Mon Dieu!" he cried, "there's nothing but air!"

Sir Herbert visited Germany in 1907 with a Shakespearean repertoire, and while he was roundly condemned by German critics he was generally successful with that part of the German public which possessed a knowledge of the English language. During his visit he was invested with the Third Class Order of the Prussian Crown. He had also received the King of Italy. In June, 1909, he was knighted by King Edward.

CHICAGO MAYOR HELPS TO WELCOME BELGIANS

Heads City Committee Which Escorts the Visitors Through the Stock Yards.

CHICAGO, July 2.—The story of Belgium's war devastation, her gratitude for the help that has been extended by the citizens of the United States, and her hopes from the entry of the United States into the war was brought to Chicago today by the Belgian war mission, headed by Emile Moncheur.

The mission was greeted here by Mayor Thompson and a city committee, which had prepared a full day for the guests, including a motor trip, a reception to the Belgian colony here, a banquet at the Stock Yards, and a banquet tonight. They will leave tomorrow morning for Milwaukee, whence they go to Green Bay, Wis., the centre of a colony of more than 15,000 Belgians.

The decision of the United States to enter the war meant the salvation of Belgium, Baron Moncheur said today. "Your help, together with the help of our brave allies, will finish the German," he declared.

He also expressed his nation's determination to fight for freedom with the last of its strength. "Rather than not be independent when we emerge from the war," he said, "we prefer to die. No kind of German dependency would be tolerable to our people.

"The deportation of Belgian civilians to practical slavery in Germany, which startled the world, stopped for a time, but now has been resumed. It is a real deportation, a real slavery, and many have died from the hardships put upon them."

SINGERS PLEASE AT PALACE.

Sisters Kouns Display Rare Soprano Voices and Refinement.

Nellie and Sara Kouns, two young singers who have been heard in concert in the Middle West, made their New York début yesterday at the Palace Theatre. Both have soprano voices of rare quality, beauty, and youthful freshness and both sing with a knowledge of their art. The timbre of the two voices is remarkably similar, which makes their rendition of Eckart's Swiss Echo Song particularly effective and interesting. The young sisters are the daughters of the late Charles Kouns, who at the time of his death last year was General Manager of the Santa Fe Railroad. They are well known in Chicago social circles, where they formerly lived, and they bring a wealth of refinement, as well as genuine talent and artistry, to the varieties where cleverness denuded of these qualities is the predominating factor.

This week's bill is an unusually good one. The Fey family is back in one of its amusing sailor skits, but not numerically grown in height, for it was last seen on this stage since it was last seen on this stage. Then there is the bucolic sketch, "Rubeville," a counterpart of which Raymond Hitchcock has incorporated in his revue. Hitchcock has incorporated in one of the Pand Savoy and Brennan's contributions that are few feminine impersonations that are distinctly without being distasteful. amusing. Added to these are the Morgan Dancers in a program of classical dances, and George White and Emma Haig in more modern dances.

Swift & Company's sales of Beef in New York for the week ending Saturday, June 30th, averaged as follows: Domestic Beef 15.52 cents per pound.—Advt.

CATHOLICS AID RECRUITING.

Knights of Columbus Councils Hold Patriotic Rally.

Knights of Columbus of the Twentieth and Twenty-second Districts held a patriotic meeting last night in the Amsterdam Opera House in West Forty-fourth Street. Delegations were present from New Amsterdam, Knickerbocker, Hesha, Cecil, Liberty, Immaculate Conception, St. Joseph, and St. Nicholas Councils. The meeting was arranged for the purpose of stimulating recruiting and to outline ways and means by which members of the order can best aid the nation in the war.

Peter J. McGorty, District Deputy of the order, presided. He introduced as the first speaker Stuart Barney, Chairman of the Mayor's Recruiting Committee.

"We are now at war with the most powerful and powerful nation on the face of the earth," said Mr. Barney. "Are we going to go over and land the knockout now while Germany is groggy, or are we going to wait until she wins on points, and then comes over here to give us a chance to shoot at her soldiers from shell holes in Central Park?

Lieutenant F. P. Hill of the Spanish War Veterans told his audience of the many advantages of the naval service. "We need more men in the navy," he said, "and you've got your chance now to choose the branch of the service you prefer. If you wait for the draft, you won't have any choice."

ANTONIO GANDARA DEAD.

PARIS, July 2.—Antonio de la Gandara, famous society portrait painter, is dead. He was born in Paris in 1862 and made his novitiate at the Ecole des Beaux Arts under Gerôme. Until his death he made his home in the French metropolis. His father was Spanish and his mother French.

M. de la Gandara's first success came in 1886, when he received an honorable mention for a St. Sebastian at the Salon. In 1889 he received a bronze medal at the Universal Exposition, but even greater success was attained several years later with paintings hung at the exhibition of Munich and Dresden.

James Alexander Frame.

James Alexander Frame, a builder in this city for forty years, died yesterday at his home, 2,131 Broadway, in his seventy-sixth year. Mr. Frame was a native of Ireland and came here when a child. He was a member of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church for more than a quarter of a century, and at the time of his death he was an Elder of the church and a member of the Board.

Mr. Frame was President of the Northeastern Dispensary, a Director of the United States Savings Bank, and a member of the Society of Mechanics and Tradesmen of this city. He was also a member of the Old Guard, besides being for an ex-Vice President of the Pond Lake Club. He left two sons and three daughters.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

A dramatization in one act of O. Henry's story, "The Gift of the Magi," has been accepted by Mrs. Adele S. Burleson of Washington, D. C.

"My Lady's Glove" ended its brief engagement at the Lyric with Saturday night's performance.

An invocable show will be given at Sing Sing tomorrow afternoon for the entertainment of the prisoners. Louis Fingue is in charge of the entertainment, which will be given largely by members of the Friars' Club.

Gina Petrova has arranged for her release from her contract with the Empress Players' Company and will give up motion picture acting and return to the stage.

Alma Youlin has been engaged as prima donna for a musical version of "Hello Bill Night," which will be sent on tour next season.

Flora Zabella has been re-engaged for the rôle of Dolly Brabazon in "Have a Heart," which will begin an engagement next month in Boston.

WM. WINTER PLANNED HIS OWN FUNERAL

Funeral services for William Winter, author and dramatic critic, will be held at 4:30 o'clock today at the Campbell Funeral Church, Broadway and Sixty-sixth Street, and, according to the wishes of Mr. Winter, expressed in a letter he left concerning his funeral arrangements, will be marked by the utmost simplicity. The pallbearers will be David Belasco and Robert B. Mantell, representing the theatre; John Rankin Towse of The New York Evening Post, and Louis de Foe of The New York World, representing the press; Joseph Tate and Frederick R. Pearson, old friends of the Staten Island Academy; Peter Duryea and John Elderkin of the Lotos Club, and Logan McPherson.

In his letter Mr. Winter requested that only certain selections be given as a musical program, and that, if an address was to be made, it be delivered by his old friend, Walter W. Price of Tompkinsville, S. I. He asked that as the coffin is carried into the chapel Handel's "Largo" be played, and at the conclusion that "Crossing the Bar" be sung by David Bispham. Following the services the body will be taken to the crematory at Linden, N. J., and the interment will be in a private family plot in the Silver Mount Cemetery, Staten Island.

Mr. Winter made Mr. Price the custodian of two letters, the one in which he gave the directions about his funeral and another to be opened and read by Mr. Price at the services.

Mrs. Winter, who was in California for her health, hurried East immediately after she learned the seriousness of her husband's condition, and arrived in Philadelphia yesterday. She was overcome when she heard that Mr. Winter was dead, and was taken to the home of her son there. Mrs. Winter is 77 years old, and it was said yesterday that she would be unable to attend the services.

COAL MEN BEGIN DEFENSE.

Smokeless Operators Want Indictments Dismissed—Decision Reserved

The Government yesterday rested its case in the Federal District Court against the smokeless coal operators, and counsel for the defense consumed most of the afternoon session arguing for dismissal of the indictments. Judge Grubb reserved decision in each case.

George Gordon Battle asserted that the Government had failed to prove its case and that instead of the defendants having restrained trade they had fostered and increased it. The alleged price fixing for which the coal men were indicted, he said, occurred at a time when, according to the evidence, other operators were charging more for coal than the defendants. Henry A. Wise said that no defendant had been shown to have transported a single ton of coal or to have restrained transportation.

The only witness of the day was Lemuel Burrowes, Jr., President of the Castner, Curran & Bullitt Company, who, called by the Government, was under cross-examination by John B. Stanchfield, of counsel for the defense. At the morning session of court, Mr. Burrowes told of the difficulties of many smokeless coal operators caused by the rise in water freight rates, while the railroad rates available to the anthracite men remained fixed by the Interstate Commerce Commission. The United States Government was also mentioned by the witness as a middleman in the coal business. He testified that the Panama Railroad, owned by the Government, had bought coal in this country for $3 a ton and sold it in Panama for $8 a ton. The defense will begin the introduction of evidence this morning.

HOT DAY, SO GIANTS PUT GAME ON ICE

ANDERSON IN FINE FORM

The Giants finished their series with the Boston Braves at the Polo Grounds yesterday, winning the final game by a score of 6 to 1. It was so hot that you could make toast at the home plate and even boil eggs in the icewater can. In fact, it was so hot that Boston forgot to object to the umpires. Johnny Evers made his first appearance in a game here, and went through without a murmur. That shows how the heat affects some folks.

The Giants did nearly all of their scoring in one inning so as to get the Braves' suffering over as soon as possible. Frank Allen, who did the pitching for Boston, comes from Alabama, and he shouldn't have minded the heat, but he did. He was so close to the boiling point in the third inning that the Giants fell upon him for half a dozen hits from which they coined four runs. Fred Anderson was unapproachable, except in the eighth, when a slight lapse of effectiveness enabled the Braves to couple two hits with a pass and save themselves from a plunge in the kalsomine vat.

Manager George Stallings, who left his team suddenly during Saturday's game because the manner in which they were playing was more than human mortal could endure, was back on the Boston bench today. He was tempted to quit the team again in the fourth inning, but restrained himself. The Boston players are so peevish over their poor showing that they carry chips enough about on their shoulders to start a lumber yard. They have had a stormy sojourn both here and in Brooklyn during the past week, and are glad to get over to Philadelphia where they can hope for a little peace.

Both Teams Load Bases.

It didn't require a great deal of effort to get on the bases yesterday, for in the second inning both clubs had the bases loaded with runners. With one out in Boston's portion of the session, Konetchy singled and Smith walked. After Tragesser fanned, Maranville walked and filled the corners. Then Allen threw cold water on the demonstration by going out at first.

In New York's portion both Zimmerman and Fletcher singled while Robertson fouled to Thomas and Holke fanned. Rariden walked and jammed the corners, but Anderson did no better than the Boston pitcher had done, and was thrown out at first.

Not satisfied with this, the Giants got another in the fifth. Zimmerman ripped a healthy double to right and went to third on Fletcher's single. After Robertson had hit a fly to Wilhoit in short right Holke was hit. Zim and Holke then started to peel off a double steal. Tragesser flipped the ball down to Evers to get Holke and Zim started for home. Evers shot the ball back to Tragesser and the Boston catcher made a wild toss to third, the ball rolling to left field, while Zimmerman scored, Holke also had the same notion about scoring, and Rod Smith got the truant ball back to Tragesser in time to get Holke at the plate.

Maranville Blunders.

There were two gone in the seventh when Zimmerman rolled an easy grounder to Maranville. The Boston short stop seldom makes an error, but when he does he makes a bad one. He threw the ball wild to first, and, although Konetchy got the ball back to Evers at second, Johnny appeared to be somewhat dumfounded at Maranville's misplay, and he held the ball while Zimmerman went all the way around to third. Allen joined the nervous squad and uncorked a wild pitch which enabled Zim to get home.

Zimmerman had a big day at the plate which set his admirers back of third base wild with glee. Johnny Cook, the leader of the Zimmerman cheering section, rooted so hard that he lost five pounds.

The Braves got their only run in the eighth. Maranville walked, and Barnes, hitting for Allen, got an infield hit to Fletcher. The Giants' shortstop had a double play laid out in front of him, but he was over anxious, and missed the ball entirely. Bailey filed to Fletcher and Burns got Evers's rocket. Wilhoit dented Anderson's service for a two-base drive to right, and Maranville sailed into port.

Tom Hughes, who hasn't been doing much for the Braves this season, pitched the final inning for Boston and seems to have recovered his last season's form. Boston didn't like the umpires yesterday, although Sherwood Magee was aching for a set-to with somebody and did a lot of chattering. For their bad manners during the past series at the Polo Grounds, Magee was fined $25 by President Tener, while Tragesser, the Boston catcher, was fined $50 for disputing a decision at the plate Saturday afternoon.

It isn't so bad when baseball clubs from wild Western cities display questionable deportment here, but when the team from Boston gets unruly one becomes horribly shocked. Boston just now is carrying around the biggest grouch of any team on the circuit. And that's about the only thing they have on the other clubs in the league.

YANKS TO AID RED CROSS.

Will Give 10 Per Cent. of the Receipts of Washington Series.

Announcement was made yesterday at the offices of the New York American League Baseball Club that Captain T. L. Huston and Colonel Jacob Ruppert have decided to donate 10 per cent. of the Yankees' share of the receipts of all games between the Yanks and Washington in their series which starts today to the Red Cross.

This decision by the owners of the Yankees comes auspiciously for the Red Cross fund, for there are two double bills scheduled between the teams in the present series. The first will be played this afternoon and tomorrow there will be morning and afternoon games. The series closes with the fifth game on Thursday.

REDS BLUNDER TO VICTORY.

Take Ragged Game from Cubs, 8 to 5, Despite Six Errors.

CHICAGO, July 2.—Cincinnati defeated Chicago 8 to 5 in a ragged game here today. Each club erred frequently and several freak plays occurred during the game, one of which gave Merkle a home run on a short hit to left which bounded off Thorpe's shoe and went under the fence. Doyle turned an ankle rounding third base in the first inning and had to retire from the game.

CARDS FIND MAMAUX EASY.

Grimes Injected Too Late to Save Pirates from 6 to 4 Defeat.

PITTSBURGH, July 2.—Pittsburgh's poor fielding and the ease with which Mamaux was hit gave St. Louis today's game here, 6 to 4. After St. Louis had made six runs on eight hits and four bases on balls, Grimes was substituted for Mamaux and stopped the scoring. King's batting was a feature. He hit safely each of four times at bat, and drove in three runs.

GALLIA BLANKS MACKMEN.

Allows Only Three Hits and Senators Win Game by 6 to 0.

PHILADELPHIA, July 2. — Gallia held Philadelphia to three hits, all of which were made after the sixth inning today and Washington won the game, 6 to 0. Errors played a big part in the Quakers' runs. Henry made a double and two singles and drew a base on balls in four trips to the plate.

RAIN HALTS LOSING STREAK FOR YANKS

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, July 2.—The long losing streak of the Yankees was halted here this afternoon, but was not entirely checked. After eleven innings of battle with the world's champion Red Sox, Umpire Silk O'Loughlin suspended hostilities, owing to a combination of rain and darkness. Heavy clouds hung over the field, and rain was falling hard, with the score at 4 to 4.

Failure to win was not through lack of opportunity for the Yankees; they drove Ernie Shore from the box in the sixth inning, and continued to pound away at Bader, his successor, but felt down repeatedly when runners got as far as second base. All told, the Yankees collected fifteen hits in the eleven innings and thirteen over the regulation route. They scored more runs than they had scored in any previous game with the champions, but again the pitching failed.

Mogridge, who has been a consistent troublemaker for the champions since joining the New York Club, started again today, having lost through weak hitting and errors by his mates a few days ago. Today he was not able to go the route. Donovan benched him in the seventh, after Scott's triple and a single by Agnew had worn out the one-run lead which the Yanks had held for a few minutes.

Shocker took up the burden, and he did not allow a run, but was in trouble in each inning, as the Red Sox opened on him in three successive frames with safe hits. Russell pitched the last inning, and after he had retired the side in order the game was called.

The Yankees picked up the first run of the game in the second inning. Baker, who had a big day with the stick, punched a double into centre field, and was run down between the bases when Magee grounded to Scott, Magee taking second on the run-down. Miller singled to centre and Magee crossed the plate with a run.

The Red Sox got very busy in their half; Gardner punched a single into right, and advanced when Lewis was hit. Walker's sacrifice advanced both runners, and they scored on Scott's fast hopper past third base. Agnew infield out put Scott on second, and he counted when Shore singled to left.

In the fifth the Yankees added another run and tied up the game. Maisel singled to centre, and on the hit-and-run play Peck sent a single through short after Scott had run to cover second for Maisel. Hendryx's single to left scored Maisel and put Peck on second. Both advanced on Pipp's sacrifice, but neither Baker nor Magee could chase them in.

The Red Sox got even in the ninth, the Yanks put on a little rally and went ahead. Pipp singled to right and went to third on Baker's single to right, the latter stealing second. Bader, who had succeeded Shore at the bat, lost control at this stage and walked both Magee and Miller, forcing in a run.

The Red Sox lost no time getting the run back. With one out, Scott tripled to right and crossed the plate with the tying run when Agnew singled to centre. The deadlock continued until the game was called. The Yanks collected two hits in the ninth and two more in the eleventh, but could not score. This was Chicago Day at Sulphur Dell Park, and the Boston right fielder was presented with a diamond ring.

WHITE SOX GET THE LAST.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, July 2.—Chicago took the last game of the series today from Cleveland, 4 to 3. Lack of control by Lambeth, following Boehling's ineffectiveness in the second inning, gave Chicago its first two runs. Poor base running prevented Cleveland from tying the score in the sixth. The game was called in the seventh inning to let the Cleveland Club catch a train for St. Louis.

ROBINS HIT OESCHGER HARD

Drive Him from Box and Beat Phillies by 7 to 3 Score.

Pat Moran's Phillies engaged in their last skirmish of the present series with the Dodgers at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, yesterday, and, as was more or less expected, were defeated by the score of 7 to 3. Which only goes to show that there must be some suggestion of brotherly love contained in the hearts of the hard-working Robins for their league-leading neighbors, the Giants, for the Brooklyn triumph, coupled with the Giants' treatment of the Braves, pushed the New York athletes a little further frontward in the chase for the National League pennant.

The Ebbets clan started their scoring in the second session, when Stengel walked and was forced by Wheat. On the hit-and-run play, Cutshaw rapped a grounder out of reach of Niehoff to right field, where Cactus Cravath generously let it pass through his legs to the fence, while Wheat scored and Cutshaw pulled up at third. George remained there, however, for the next two batters were easy outs.

Cheney started the third with a screeching triple over third to left, and, after Olson had been thrown out at first, Larry scored on Myers's single to the same territory. On the play for Cheney at the plate, Whitted threw to the grand stand, and Myers went around to third, to romp home after Hickman had fouled out to Killifer, on Casey Stengel's double to right. Zach Wheat then singled to right, scoring Casey, but was forced himself at second by Cutshaw.

One run was chalked up for Philadelphia in the fourth, when Whitted singled to centre. On Luderus's safe blow to right, Whitted went tearing around the base paths without even hesitating at second, to score when Stengel, aiming at Mowrey, heaved the ball to the grand stand. Luderus went to second on Stengel's superhuman effort, but remained there. Starting the fifth, Cheney passed Paskert, uncorked a wild pitch which put Deal on third, and then walked Bancroft. While Stock was being disposed of at first by Myers, Paskert scored, Bancroft going to second. Cravath was then passed by Cheney, and Manager Robinson wigwagged to the bull-pen for Smith, who, with the first ball, made Whitted hit into a double play and retired the side.

The sixth frame saw the passing of Oeschger, after the Robins had annexed another run. After Cutshaw had been thrown out at first, Mowrey walked, but was killed off trying to make third when Niehoff fumbled Miller's grounder. Smith sent Miller to third with a double to right, and Olson walked, filling the bases. Miller was registered by Myers with a single to right, following which Hickman was tossed out at first.

Starting the eighth with Bender twirling, Cheney tapped a Texas Leaguer back of short field that landed between Whitted and Bancroft, who both missed it after hard runs. Mike registered on a triple by Miller, and Otto scored on Smith's single to left. Sherrod got as far as third on a wild throw by Bender. In the ninth two doubles, one by Niehoff and the other by Paskert, gave the departing Phils their third tally.

Dress Goods Well Taken Up.

Spring dress goods that have been formally opened to buyers have been well sold up or at least as much so as sellers care to see at the present time with the Government in the market. In all cases the number of lines shown was less than in former seasons, and this also was a factor in bringing about quick action on Spring goods. Quite a bit of operating was also done before the lines were formally opened, and, as the materials for the new season are almost semi-staple in character, sellers found no difficulty in disposing of a large part of their production.

Silk Suits Are Fair Sellers.

In the men's Summer clothing business now being done, quite a fair demand has been made for silk suits. Sanitungs and artificial silk weaves of various sorts have not advanced in cost to the same extent as some other materials offered in the Summer clothing lines. Manufacturers, it is handled, state, however, that the volume of sales on goods of this variety cannot be expected to reach that on other and more popular materials. The lightweight silk suit, it is pointed out, usually goes into the wardrobe of a man who can afford three or four different kinds of Summer suits.

Extend Delivery Period.

According to a dress goods jobber who recently placed a large order with the leading factor in the trade, a change has been made in the usual delivery periods. Formerly buyers were obliged to take in their orders in November and December. The time, he said, has been extended to March. This seems to indicate that the big company has still a quantity of Government business to put out of the way before the needs of the civilian trade can be looked after. It is ordinarily the custom of the concern to cancel orders in December, or at the latest some time in January, if the buyer does not send along instructions to the contrary.

Silk Gloves Sold Ahead.

Manufacturers of silk gloves have nothing to complain of these days regarding the way business is coming in to them. An executive of one of the leading houses in the trade said yesterday that the demand was really remarkable, so large, in fact, that mills would be kept busy for the next month or four months delivering goods called for by orders now on their books. This is expected to result in a considerable scarcity of this merchandise for next Spring, as the manufacturers will have much less time to accumulate stocks for that season than under normal conditions. The increased cost of the goods is said to have had no effect whatever in lessening the demand.

Silk Underwear Men Are Busy.

In spite of the fact that lines of women's silk underwear for the new season are practically ready for the buyers to take out on the road, it was said yesterday that orders calling for immediate shipments of these goods are coming in much larger and later than usual. Reports of the situation are generally full of optimism, in spite of the recent constant rise in the price of raw silk and the increase in general manufacturing costs. In certain quarters the assertion is made that the women of the country, taken as a whole, are only beginning to appreciate the advantages and comforts of silk undergarments, and that as this appreciation spreads business is going to expand in proportion. Flesh continues the leading shade, from all accounts, with the call for separate vests and bloomers somewhat "shading" that for one-piece garments.

No Women's Wear Slump.

A women's wear buyer engaged in the familiar task of "bearing" the market with pessimistic talk received a reply to one of his sage predictions from a suit manufacturer, who showed that his knowledge of the mind of women had also been developed along with his ideas of what they want in the way of clothes. The buyer had something to say about "women wearing their old clothes and buying nothing new once their men went away to war." The manufacturer considered the point only for a moment and then said: "That's not going to cause us any trouble. All the men in the country could be in Europe and most of the women, but if there is one woman left with another to 'look her over,' she is going to continue buying new clothes and keep in style."

Burlap Prices Very High.

Considering the scarcity of goods and the difficulty of doing business for that reason, the local burlap market opened actively enough yesterday. Ten-ounce 40-inch burlaps, afloat, were sold at 13 cents, with 10½-ounce cloths of the same weight held nominally at 13¾ cents. Afloat 8-ounce 40s brought slightly over 10 cents. The trade has been further discouraged by reports of additional requisitioning of burlap for war uses, both at Dundee and Calcutta, by the British Government. The latest requirements are so large as to threaten seriously the supply of this country for some months to come, and higher prices are expected here as a result. No improvement in the shipping or financial situation is reported from Calcutta.

Expects Heavy Fall Business.

Although the demand has picked up a good deal in the clothing line with the seasonable weather, the improvement has come at a rather inopportune time, that is, near the end of the season. The retailers, from all reports, are not discouraged with the showing they have made for Spring because weather and other circumstances were against them. They are predictions being made now that the Fall trade should break records. The manufacturers expect to see business get under way for the season earlier than usual. Predictions of a good season are based upon the fact that, once selection under the draft has taken place, it will relieve the minds of many men who will not make purchases now because of the uncertainty.

Are Selling Spring Underwear.

While lines of Spring, 1918, balbriggan and ribbed underwear will be offered more or less formally to the jobbing trade on Thursday of this week, there was selling of these goods here yesterday in a quiet way. The chances are that there will be more of it today. While admitting that business was being done, selling agents were loath to quote the actual prices in advance of the "official" opening. It was freely said, however, that the new figures would be well above those which obtained a year ago at this time for the past Spring's goods. One well-known line of men's eight-pound ribbed union suits, it is known, will sell at $10.50 a dozen, compared with $9 last year. On another line of "union" goods the new price will be $9.50, against $7.50 in 1916. Women's ribbed union suits, it is said, will also show real advances, though not go marked as the men's goods. "Bals" will also cost much more than at this time last year.

Gray Goods Sales Small.

As was expected, business was not very active in the local gray goods market yesterday. Most of the goods disposed of were for nearby delivery, and in most cases the sales were of a scattered nature. Further bids of 9⅛ cents were in the market for nearby 38½-inch 60-48s, with most houses unwilling to let them go at less than an eighth of a cent above that figure. Some business was also told of on 39-inch 68-72s and 38½-inch 64-60s at the figures given below. Not a great deal was heard of coarse-yarn goods, though nearby 5.50 sheetings moved at 9 cents and some 3.60s were sold at 13¾ cents. Some improvement in the call for the heavier dress cottons was reported, in which skirtings played an active part. Closing printcloth prices were more or less nominal at these levels:

BOAT OWNERS GET LICENSES

Nearly 200 motor boat owners went to the Barge Office yesterday to apply for licenses which are required under the regulation made on June 20 by Rear Admiral N. R. Usher, Commandant of the Navy Yard, for all vessels navigating the harbor and approaches to New York. Captain K. W. Perry, of the United States Coast Guard Service, in charge of the licensing bureau, explained that the order referred to any craft navigating below Eighty-sixth Street on the Hudson River out to Sandy Hook and to Montauk Point on Long Island Sound.

The Captain said there was no need to apply personally for the licenses. They could be applied for by letter and obtained by yachtsmen through their respective clubs.

A. H. SMITH DEPLORES FREIGHT RATE DECISION

President of New York Central Says Attitude of Investing Public Is Awaited by Railroads.

A. H. Smith, President of the New York Central Lines, issued a statement yesterday expressing an opinion upon the rate advances authorized by the Interstate Commerce Commission in its ruling upon the request of the railroads for an advance of about 15 per cent. The statement reads:

"Until we are able to check up the advances permitted in the decision with the tariffs we shall be unable to say what increased revenue will be received by the New York Central Lines under the recent ruling of the Interstate Commerce Commission. Apparently less than one-half of the amount requested has been allowed to the general traffic lines; much less than half to those depending largely upon the movement of special commodities.

"The application for increased rates as presented was, in our opinion, conservative, and did not nearly meet the added expenditures placed upon us by higher wages, increased costs of fuel and other material, higher taxes, and growing investment. We believed then and believes now that the circumstances justified the full increase requested to insure a continuation of the amount and character of service required by the public.

"The railroads of this country require a continuing outlay for betterment and enlargement. The unusual conditions of today are bringing up hourly many problems requiring large expenditures of money on capital account. Such money must be had from the investing public. If the people who have it to invest will accept the judgment rendered by the commission and provide the money, very well. Their action will then support the view of the Government's commission. That will be the test.

"In the meantime, railroad managers can only await the verdict of the people and continue to do all they can to meet the requirements that are placed upon them. The New York Central Lines, serving a very large percentage of the population of the country, will do their utmost to meet the situation."

The ruling of the commission, made public on Saturday, gave Eastern railroads the right to advance their rates on an average of 8 to 10 per cent., whereas the railroads of the country had asked for an average advance of about 15 per cent. The railroads of the West received permission to raise their rates in smaller percentages.

BUSINESS NOTES.

The Welwood Silk Mills, Inc., Hawley, Penn., of which John C. Welwood of this city is President, have acquired a new plant in Honesdale, Penn., in which about 100 broad silk looms are being installed. Operations will begin on Sept. 1.

S. A. Meyers, for some time buyer of notions and art goods for R. Lowenstein & Brother, Memphis, Tenn., has resigned. His resignation became effective yesterday.

L. Marks, who has been buying women's and misses' ready-to-wear for Siegel, Cooper & Co., of Chicago, has resigned. The buying of these lines will now be done from the company's local office at 404 Fourth Avenue.

MAN DEAD, ONE BURNED BY WIRES IN STORM

Damage Done by Electricity After City Had Suffered from Hottest Day of the Year.

Yesterday was the hottest day of the year, the thermometer registering 88 degrees at 4 o'clock. It was 10 degrees hotter than on the preceding day. The record for heat on July 2 is borne by July 2, 1901, when the temperature reached 90.

The greatest humidity yesterday was 72 degrees at 9 A. M., when the temperature was 75. Between 6 and 8 o'clock in the evening rain fell to the amount of .11 of an inch, and a squall of wind which reached a maximum of fifty-two miles an hour, accompanied the lightning storm and broke the hot spell temporarily. More thunderstorms followed by fair weather is the promise for today.

During the storm last night a bolt of lightning struck an electric wire which was suspended in front of 196 Snediker Avenue, East New York, and one of the ends fell to the street, where it menaced passers by for half an hour. Patrolman Thomas McLo

The stock market was generally heavy yesterday, prices giving ground easily on selling due to disappointment over the rate decision, with a few specialties moving contrary to the rest of the list. The railroads were hit harder than they were Saturday, when the effect of the decision was less clearly undersiood. The selling that took place yesterday was largely professional, with the bears playing for reactions in the rails, but there has also been a considerable amount of liquidation on the part of holders who have held stocks through the Interstate Commerce Commission would grant substantially all of the increase asked for in the 15 per cent. case. Of the more active rails Baltimore & Ohio sold off 2½; St. Paul, 5¼; Northern Pacific, 1½; Great Northern preferred, 4¾; New York Central, 2¾; New Haven, 2; Reading, 2¾, and Southern Pacific, 2½. At 67¾, the closing price for St. Paul, that issue is selling at its lowest price seen since 1896. Stock of this company was picked out by the professionals as particularly susceptible to the unfavorable influence of the rate decision. Wall Street has not attempted to disguise its attitude toward the railroads, with their expenses mounting month by month and their increased efficiency producing economies that only partly offset the advancing trend in fuel, equipment and labor. With industrial companies making the greatest profits in their history, it is not strange that traders prefer to take their chances on the new business taxes in preference to dealing in the rails with favorable forecasts made by the executives in the course of the hearing at Washington.

Most of the industrials lost ground in yesterday's transactions, which were very largely professional. United States Industrial Alcohol again swung through a wide range, fluctuating from 159 to 152, and closing with a net loss of 5¾ points. A recurrence of weakness in the motors affected particularly General Motors, which sold off 2¼, with Studebaker at one time down to 64¾, though it closed nearly 2 points above that figure. Baldwin Locomotive was strong in the early part of the session, selling from 73¾ at the opening up to 76½, but retaining only ¾ of its advance at the close.

The opening of the new month came without forcing a return to higher rates in the money market. Call money loaned on the Stock Exchange at from 4½ to 3½ per cent., with most loans made at the higher rate. Brokers are taking on a considerable amount of time money loans at 5 per cent., although the view is expressed in banking circles that there should be a plentiful supply of call money at about the rates prevailing yesterday.

The Government's report on cotton for June 25 showed a very slight improvement over the condition in the preceding month. Yesterday's report estimated the condition at 70.3 per cent. of normal as against 69.5 on May 25, which established a record as the poorest showing for that period that has ever been made. The condition of 70.3 compares with a ten-year average of 80. Cotton broke about $7.50 a bale on the publication of the report, but recovered part of this loss and closed with a decline of a little less than $5 per bale. The unfavorable condition had been largely discounted, but traders were taken by surprise by the vote of the Senate to include the staple and cotton products among the articles to be controlled by the food administration.

LITTLE CHANCE NOW FOR BIG COTTON CROP

LABOR SHORTAGE IS FELT

And Farmers Are Planting Food Instead of Cotton in Many Districts This Year.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Plans of the cotton growers to produce this year the largest crop of that staple ever grown have been frustrated. A crop larger than last year's and that preceding it probably will be realized. This year's production was forecast today by the Department of Agriculture at 11,633,000 equivalent 500-pound bales, which would be about 183,000 bales more than produced last year and 441,000 bales more than the 1915 crop, but it is 4,500,000 bales less than the record crop produced three years ago.

Scarcity of labor, due to emigration of negroes to the industrial centres of the North by higher wages, and the entry of young men in the military service, high prices of food, feed and fertilizer, and the movement for the South to feed itself are the important influences against the cotton farmers' efforts to produce a record crop. Unfavorable weather also was a determining factor.

The Department of Agriculture issued the following statement regarding the condition of the crops:

"A number of influences have held the acreage down and in some places forced a reduction where heavy increases were contemplated.

"An important influence has been the labor problem. In all of the States east of the Mississippi River where the negro is the chief labor on the cotton plantations, there has been a heavy exodus of these workers. Several hundred thousands negroes have deserted the farms to go to the industrial centres in the Northern and Eastern States, where they could get higher wages. In addition many thousands of young men have left the farm to enter the military or naval service. Heretofore there was usually a small surplus of farm and industrial labor in the South while now there is a deficit with no chance of an adequate supply soon. As a result much land ordinarily planted to cotton is this year planted to other crops requiring less cultivation and hand labor.

"The high prices prevailing for food, feed and fertilizer has been a factor. The slogan "the South must feed itself" has had its effect and many farmers who have for years planted cotton to the exclusion of most other crops, are now practicing diversification. In many sections it is as profitable to grow high-priced corn, wheat or other food crops as it is to produce cotton. These crops, requiring less cultivation than cotton, seem to some farmers to solve the labor problem and they have planted these at the expense of some of their cotton acreage.

"Unfavorable weather caused much loss of early planted cotton and some of this was replaced by corn and other crops.

"There is complaint of weevils in every infested State, but the ravages to date seem not so severe as in former years. The lateness of the crop is probably responsible to some extent for this, but the dry weather prevailing in the worst infested sections has held the weevils in check. The crop is generally well cultivated."

The area under cultivation June 25, by States last year's area planted and area picked, (000's omitted) and the yield per acre in pounds in 1916, follow:

Receiver Named for Lafayette Baths

Judge Learned Hand in the Federal District Court yesterday appointed John L. Lyttle receiver for the Lafayette Baths and Hotel at 403 to 407 Lafayette Street, under a bond for $1,000. After a prosperous period during which the Lafayette Baths were known as the rendezvous for persons of many kinds, the management no longer found itself able to pay expenses, and recently the baths went into bankruptcy.

COMMODITIES MARKETS

WHEAT.

All the grain markets of the country will be closed on Tuesday and Wednesday, and consequently a holiday spirit prevailed during yesterday's operations in wheat, and trading was largely of an evening-up character. At best, the market is a very narrow affair and the trade at large believes that as soon as the Food Control bill is passed and present outstanding contracts in July and September are evened up there will be no further operations in futures. The visible supply in the United States decreased 1,450,000 bushels for the week, bringing the total to 14,209,000, compared with 48,392,000 last year. The world's exports were 11,143,000, compared with 10,613,000 last week and 12,723,000 last year. In the local market No. 2 hard Winter wheat was quoted at $2.34½, free on board, to arrive.

CORN.

Pronounced strength was a feature in the corn market, the close showing 1⅝@2¼c net rise. Part of this uplift was undoubtedly due to covering for over the two holidays, but there was also good buying on the continued strength of the cash situation and the dry weather in the Southwest. Advances were quite general in cash corn, Chicago paying $1.77½, which is a new high record. The industrial demand, feeding requirements, and export inquiry have absorbed corn rapidly, and there were few contracts for sale in the market. The cash market here was equally strong. No. 2 yellow being quoted at $1.80, cost, insurance, and freight, New York.

OATS.

In common with other markets, oats were generally higher and closed ⅛@⅜c above Saturday. July was the strongest position as there were no tenders at Chicago, and cash was continued very firm. Crop news, aside from complaints of drouth and heat in the Southwest, was generally favorable. The visible supply decreased 1,736,000 bushels. Cash oats were firmer here, as follows: Standard, 76½@77c; No. 2 white, 77½c; No. 3 white, 76@76½c; No. 4 white, 75½@76c; fancy clipped white, 78¼@79¼c; ordinary clipped white, 76¼@77½c.

PROVISIONS.

The provision list acted very firm again, with pork up to $40 and offerings light. Hogs were better and at the advance shorts and packers became rather good buyers. Deliveries on July contracts, while fair, were easily absorbed, and the market followed the strength of corn, with commission houses fair buyers, especially of lard. Receipts at Chicago were 35,000 hogs, with 13,000 expected on Tuesday. Kansas City had 8,000, Omaha 5,000 and the West about 95,000.

COTTONSEED OIL.

The report from Washington that the Senate had passed an amendment to the Food Control bill, including cotton and cotton products, came as a complete surprise to the cotton oil trade and caused very heavy selling. Early in the session the market had shown a very strong undertone with good buying on the strength in lard, but when the news from Washington was received there was a perpendicular drop of about 30 points for the active positions and final quotations were 13 to 29 points net lower. Total sales were 39,000 barrels. Range of prices:

SUGAR.

The market for sugar futures ruled irregular. The opening was unchanged to an advance of 3 points, with most of the support coming from Wall Street, thought to be operating for outside speculative interests. Trading was rather mixed, both Wall Street and local trade firms taking both sides of the market. The close was 3 points net lower to 2 points net higher, with sales amounting to 26,000 tons. The spot situation was a little easier, with refinery sugar offered at last prices and not taken, while there were sales of late August shipment at 5½c, cost, and freight. Range of prices:

The market for refined sugar was less active, but the undertone was steady and prices were unchanged, being listed at from 7.50c to 8c for fine granulated. Raw sugar was less active for the spot or prompt shipment positions, but refiners took a fairly active interest in August shipment Cubas. There were sales to local refiners of upwards of 75,000 bags August shipment Cubas at 5¼c, cost and freight basis, equal to 6.52c, duty paid, and 35,000 bags of Porto Rican July shipment, at 6.27c, cost, insurance, and freight. July offerings, about 50,000 bags at 5⅝c, cost and freight, were not taken. Recent sales of July shipment Cubas totaled fairly large, and refiners show no disposition to make further purchases of prompts at present prices. The spot prices follow: Centrifugal, 6.52c; molasses, 5.63c; cost and freight, 5¼c.

COFFEE.

The new season opened quietly enough in the market for coffee futures yesterday, sales amounting to only 22,500 bags. Prices were generally steady, however, with active months selling about 12 to 14 points higher, and with the close showing a net advance of 9 to 12 points. Sales of Rio 7s were reported in the cost and freight market at 8.00 and additional offers at 8.05. American credits. Offers of Santos 4s were said to be here, ranging from 9.40 to 9.75, London credits. The local spot market was quiet and unchanged at 9¾ for Rio 7s. Range of prices:

BUTTER AND EGG MARKET.

BUTTER.—Receipts yesterday, 9,734 pkgs. Fresh stock was a little slow in coming, and the market developed a slightly firmer tone on the top grades of creamery, though the general trade was quiet. EGGS.—Receipts yesterday, 13,738 cases. There is some further shrinkage in receipts, and advices indicate decreasing collections. The proportion of high quality eggs in the Western arrivals continues comparatively small, and under a good demand for same increased somewhat by the approach of the Fourth of July holiday, prices show further improvement and close firm on top qualities. Undergrades irregular, with little or no improvement. Nearby white eggs of strictly fancy quality are none too plentiful, and these meet a fair demand at sustained prices. Most of the supply shows more or less defect and sales largely within range of 37@40c. Fresh gathered, extras, per dozen, 37c; storage packed firsts, 35½@36c; fresh gathered, extra firsts, 35½@36c; firsts, 34@35c; seconds, 32@33c; thirds and poorer, 25@31c; dirties, No. 1, 29@30c; No. 2 and poorer, 26@28c; checks, good to choice, dry, 27@28c; undergrades, 20@22c; State, Pennsylvania, and nearby Western hennery whites, fine to fancy, 40@41c; ordinary to good, 38@39c; gathered whites, ordinary to fine, 37@39c; Western and Southern gathered whites, 34@38c; State, Pennsylvania, and nearby hennery browns, 37@39c; gathered brown and mixed colors, ungraded, 34@37c.

THE COTTON MARKET

Cotton prices broke about $7.50 a bale yesterday, following an early advance. The Government's crop report, while indicating the lowest condition on record for June 25 and a reduction of about 4 per cent. in acreage, had evidently been discounted, and the realizing which followed was turned into an active general selling movement by reports that the Senate had voted to include cotton and cotton products in the proposed Food Control bill. From 26.90, the high point of the morning, October contracts broke to 25.37, or fully 153 points, and closed at 25.40, with the general list closing steady at a net decline of 94 to 99 points.

Houses with Liverpool and Japanese connection were among the buyers on the early advance, which also reflected covering for over the Government report. The buying was promoted by the failure of the weather map to show any precipitation in the droughty section of the Southwest, and, after opening 3 to 62 points higher, active months sold 43 to 62 points above Saturday's closing figures.

The Government's condition report of 70.3 per cent. was a little better than had been suggested by recent private reports, and was followed by a rush of selling orders which carried the market off from 60 to 70 points. Prices then steadied, with buyers calling attention to the fact that, while a little better than foreshadowed by some of the private reports, the condition was the lowest on record for the date in question, and also emphasized the reduction in acreage and the small crop indication. Offerings increased after receipt of the news from Washington, however, and the market was excited later in the afternoon, with active months selling about 150 to 157 points under the high level of the morning. Closing prices were steadied by covering, but were at about the lowest point of the day.

The Government report indicated a crop of about 162.5 pounds to the acre, or a total yield of 11,633,000 bales, excluding linters, on the estimated acreage. At this time last year the indication pointed to a crop of 14,260,000 bales, and the actual yield, based upon ginning returns, amounted to 11,449,939 bales, excluding linters. The afternoon decline was accompanied by reports of scattering showers or rains in the Southwest, but the chief factor appeared to be the unsettling influence of the news from Washington. No exports were reported during the day.

"What is a Share of Stock?"

While a bond represents an indebtedness of a corporation—

A share of stock is a certificate of partial ownership in the corporation, and entitles the owner to a participation in the corporation's profits.

The property of one public service company, whose stock we recommend, represents a cash investment sufficient, we estimate, to cover its outstanding bonds and approximately two-and-one-half times the amount of the total authorized preferred stock.

NO HALT IN TRADE, PIERRE JAY REPORTS

RETAIL LINES RECOVERING

Crop Situation Is Encouraging—Metal and Textile Industries Working Under High Pressure.

General conditions of business in the New York Federal Reserve district are excellent, and the volume of trade is undiminishing, says Pierre Jay, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Federal Reserve Bank, in his monthly report, issued yesterday. He points out that activity in retail lines, which declined following the declaration of war, is reviving, and that industries whose products are directly or indirectly essential to the prosecution of the war are working to the limit of their capacity.

"Encouraging reports as to the crop situation come from correspondents throughout the district," Mr. Jay says. "There have been heavy increases in the planting of corn, grain, beans, cabbages, potatoes, various canning factory crops and vegetables, and a considerably increased production of foodstuffs is expected. Food prices have declined slightly and trade reports indicate that buyers are less eager and that a somewhat easier market may be expected.

"The metal industries, especially steel, are working under high pressure. Pig iron is selling at upward of $55 per ton and steel billets at over $100 per ton. The difficulty of securing steel products is hampering other industries seriously. The unfilled orders of the United States Steel Corporation amounted on June 1 to 11,886,591 tons, as compared with 12,183,083 tons on May 1.

"The fuel situation is improved, but lack of adequate transportation facilities is preventing the delivery of the large quantities of coal needed. Anthracite production for April and May was 2,433,000 tons, or 24 per cent. over the same months last year, and the arrangements for pooling bituminious coal shipments on eighty-two railways is expected to make possible very much heavier deliveries. An improvement in the transportation situation is indicated by the reduction during May of 30 per cent. in freight car shortage.

"In the automobile industry sales of pleasure cars have fallen off so that a larger part of the plants' capacity is available for construction of motor trucks, and the War Department's recent request for bids for 35,000 army motor trucks brought response from eighty-seven concerns.

"Activity in the textile industries is maintained at a high level by Government buying, though retailers have shown a tendency to cancel orders booked for later delivery. Cotton at 26 cents a pound has broken all price records for this staple, and the Liverpool Cotton Exchange on June 20 was obliged to close temporarily. The wool supply is still scanty, though the announced decision of the British Government to release 16,000,000 pounds of Australian wool for shipment here, is expected to help in coming months. Retail clothing lines are only slowly regaining their normal business. Prices of drugs and chemicals are firm and business active. Silk prices are advancing and business is more active. Jewelry and watches are again selling in good volume. Boot and shoe sales are slow.

"Collections are not quite as good as in preceding months, though reported satisfactory in a majority of lines."

Chairman Jay remarks that labor conditions in this district are good, though the difficulty of obtaining a sufficient supply of skilled labor is reported from many sources. "Workers in the garment industry," he points out, "have filed a request for a 20 per cent. increase in wages to meet the higher cost of living, and New York and New Jersey shipyard workers have threatened a strike."

AGAINST LETUP IN INDUSTRY

City Bank Says Plants Should Create Great Surplus.

The National City Bank, in its monthly bulletin, issued yesterday, declares that while the war lasts the only safe policy for this country to pursue is to go on enlarging the vital industries, even if by so doing there is created a great surplus capacity after the war. "It cannot be too often repeated," the bulletin says, "that in time of scarcity the emphasis is not upon prices but upon production, and policies should centre upon the latter, affording inducement and stimulus, and avoiding the creation of risks and deterrents."

The bank then discusses the general subject of high prices and production, saying the general advances have brought price figures to the point where they no longer have the meanings with which the people are familiar. Reference is made to the assertion that even at the very high price of $16 per hundred weight for hogs the farmer is not getting the present market price for the corn they have consumed.

Regarding price regulation, the bulletin continues:

"It is a recognized principle among economists that the price of a commodity at any given time tends to be fixed at a level where it will afford a working profit upon that portion of the market requirement which is produced at the highest cost. There may be, for instance, a wide range of costs in producing and delivering wheat at a certain market, resulting from differences in distance from market, fertility of soil, efficiency of the producers, &c. The price is the same for all wheat, and must be high enough to induce the continued production of the highest-cost portion of the required supply, but as the supply is increased from low-cost sources, producers on the margin of the supply is no longer required, the price falls, and the high-cost producer is eliminated.

"The same thing occurs in all lines. There is a range of costs, depending on the location of the producer, the character of his equipment, efficiency of management, &c. One producer may be up-to-date in methods and equipment, perhaps the last in the field, or he may have turned earnings back into improvements, while another has chosen to distribute earnings in dividends with the result that the former has lower operating costs than the latter and correspondingly higher profits when they sell at the same price. That is his reward for being progressive and constitutes the inducement to progress. The constant tendency in industry is toward improvement, lower costs, and the elimination of the high-cost producers. The leaders make the best profits, but all impdovements soon become common property, and new leaders are always making the pace.

"In a time like this every possible source of supply is brought into use. In the iron business, scores of old, abandoned furnaces and mills have been refitted at much expense and put into operation upon a basis of costs which would have been prohibitory at any other time in the last thirty years, and when the war is over they will be abandoned again. Moreover, not only will they be abandoned, but many of more modern construction probably will be idle. The country will have a surplus of steel and iron capacity, and the producers who can operate at the lowest costs will control the business."

$5,000,000 IN GOLD ARRIVES.

Receipt from Ottawa Raises Total of Movement to $107,531,000.

J. P. Morgan & Co. received $5,000,000 in gold from Ottawa yesterday, making the total of imports on the current movement $107,531,000. The gold was bought by the Federal Reserve Bank. Saturday's statement by the bank indicated that $21,850,000 had been advanced against gold shipments. The $5,000,000, which came in on Saturday, as well as yesterday's consignment, was supposed to represent deliveries against the advances, leaving $11,850,000 to be covered by shipments yet to come.

The Sub-Treasury telegraphed $1,985,570 to the San Francisco Sub-Treasury, which released an equivalent amount of gold for shipment to Japan. In addition, the Sub-Treasury released $1,510,000 for export to South America.

To the Holders of

First and Refunding Mortgage 5% Gold Bonds of

WICHITA FALLS & NORTHWESTERN RAILWAY COMPANY:

The Receiver of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas Railway Company in proceedings which he instituted, has been appointed Receiver of the Wichita Falls & Northwestern Railway Company. This receivership has been created without consultation with the holders of the bonds of the above named issue and the undersigned Committee deems its continuance prejudicial to their interests. Since the appointment of the Receiver, default has been made in the payment of the interest which matured July 1, 1917, on said bonds.

In view of the foregoing, and the provisions made for said bonds in the plan proposed for the readjustment of the affairs of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas System being unsatisfactory to the undersigned Committee, prompt and united action on the part of all holders of said bonds is imperative.

The Committee has extended the time for the further deposit of bonds until July 21, 1917, after which date no bonds will be received except upon such terms as the Committee in its discretion shall impose.

Bonds must be deposited in negotiable form with July 1, 1917, and all subsequent coupons attached, with United States Mortgage and Trust Company, 55 Cedar Street, New York, the Depositary under the Deposit Agreement dated December 1, 1916, and the Depositary will issue its transferable certificates of deposit therefor.

Copies of the Deposit Agreement may be obtained either from the Depositary or from the Secretary of the Committee upon request.

SAYS NEUTRAL LANDS RECEIVE LESS FOOD

BUT LARGER THAN IN 1914

At That Time, It Is Pointed Out, Neutral Europe Had Access to Countries Now at War.

A statement made public yesterday by the National City Bank covering foodstuffs shipped from the United States to neutral Europe in the ten months ended with April of this year, showed that the quantities sent at the present time, with few exceptions, were smaller than in the earlier years of the war. It was pointed out that even the total value of all kinds of merchandise sent to the neutral countries of Europe showed in most cases a decrease, despite the fact that values per unit at the present time were higher than one year or two years ago.

The appearance of the bank's statement although almost coincident with the publication yesterday morning of a memorandum prepared by the British Government and placed at the disposal of the newly formed Exports Council as an argument for greatly restricted American exports to neutral Europe, was purely accidental and intended in nowise as an answer to the British statement, which in effect charged that exports from here permitted Germany to draw heavy food supplies from Holland and Scandinavian countries. The bank's statement was confined to a review exclusively of export statistics prepared by the Department of Commerce, and merely indicated that while American exports at this time were less than in the earlier periods of the war, they were more than in the pre-war period when the markets of Russia, Germany, Austria, Hungary, and Rumania were open to the European neutrals.

According to the bank's compilation the latest Government figures of exports by articles covering the ten months ended with April last, showed that the exports of wheat to neutral Europe were 29,000,000 bushels, against 47,000,000 bushels in the corresponding period of 1916, and 54,000,000 in the same ten months of 1915. For the ten months, ended with April, 1914, all of which preceded the beginning of the war, wheat exports to the countries now described as neutrals aggregated 20,000,000 bushels, compared with the figures quoted above.

A big drop took place in the export of flour to neutral Europe in the ten months of 1917 as such shipments were 3,000,000 barrels, against 4,724,000 barrels in the same months of 1916, and 5,687,000 barrels in the corresponding months of 1915. In the same period of 1914 before the war, the figures for 1917 were returned officially as 1,428,000 barrels.

Corn to neutral Europe in this year's period was 13,000,000 bushels, against 11,000,000 and 22,000,000 bushels in the corresponding months of 1916 and 1915, respectively. Bacon exported to neutral Europe in the ten months ended with April last, amounted to 22,000,000 pounds, compared with 61,000,000 pounds in the same months of 1916, and 90,000,000 pounds in 1915. The ten months' exports of bacon in 1914 totaled 26,000,000 pounds. The 1917 period's exports of bacon were thus 4,000,000 pounds less than in 1914.

Lard shipped to neutral Europe in the ten months of the fiscal year to date amounted to 24,000,000 pounds, against 20,000,000 pounds in the preceding year and 158,000,000 pounds in the ten months of 1915. In the 1914 period preceding the war the total was 42,000,000 pounds. Nearly all lard in the first ten months of the current year went to European neutrals to the extent of 14,000,000 pounds, compared with 22,000,000 pounds last year, and an equal amount in the year preceding. Exports of lard compounds in the current year period totaled 6,000,000 pounds, against 3,000,000 pounds last year, and 6,000,000 pounds in 1915.

The bank's compilation showed that cottonseed oil exports to neutral Europe in the ten months of the fiscal year have reached 68,000,000 pounds, against 93,000,000 pounds one year ago, and 103,000,000 pounds two years ago. Cottonseed meal and cake used chiefly for animal food in the ten months of 1917 exported to date totaled 650,000 tons, against 763,000,000 pounds in the same months of last year and 1,008,000,000 pounds in the corresponding months two years ago.

Raw cotton exported to neutral Europe in the ten months ended with April aggregated 519,000 bales, against 497,000 one year ago, 1,712,000 two years ago, and 327,000 in the like period preceding the war. Copper movements to the European neutrals in the ten-month period of 1917 amounted to 70,000,000 pounds, against 44,000,000 pounds one year ago, 87,000,000 pounds two years ago, and 140,000,000 pounds in the same ten-month period before the war.

Commenting on the shipments, the bank's statement said:

"Even the figures of total value of all kinds of merchandise sent to the neutral countries of Europe show in most cases a decrease, despite the fact that values per unit of quantity of the merchandise exported to them at the present time are higher than one or two years ago. Total exports to Denmark, for instance, in the ten months ended with April, 1917, were $45,000,000 value, against $47,000,000 in the same months of 1916, $71,000,000 in the corresponding months of 1915, and $13,000,000 in the ten months of the fiscal year 1914, a period entirely preceding the war. To Sweden the exports of the ten months ended with April, 1917, were $40,000,000, against $48,000,000 one year ago, $72,000,000 two years ago, and $12,000,000 in the corresponding period immediately preceding the war. To Netherlands the total for the ten months of the current fiscal year was $97,000,000, against $80,000,000 in the same months of last year, $123,000,000 in the corresponding months two years ago, and $63,000,000 in the same months of 1914, a period entirely preceding the war. Norway shows a larger total for 1917 than in 1916 or 1915, the total value of our exports to that country in ten months ended with April, 1917, being $61,000,000, against $44,000,000 in the same months of last year, $36,000,000 two years ago, and $8,000,000 in the ten months of the year preceding the war."

FAILURES SHOW DECREASE.

Dun & Co. Report 7,488 for $94,721,000 in First Half of 1917.

With 7,488 failures for $94,721,000, exclusive of banking suspensions and a large life insurance receivership in Pennsylvania, the country's business failed mortality during the first half of 1917 made the best numerical exhibit since 1911, while the liabilities were smaller than for any similar period in nearly a decade.

The present figures compare with 9,486 defaults, involving $111,241,000 reported to R. G. Dun & Co. last year, and with 12,740 for $188,587,000 in 1915—the highest point on record. In the first six months of 1914 there were 8,543 insolvencies with aggregate debts of about $185,000,000. It thus appears that, despite the very material increase in new enterprises and other factors calculated to enhance the possibilities of financial embarrassment, failures have been relatively moderate, and a study of the latest statement discloses no evidence that the economic readjustments occasioned by this nation's participation in the war have caused serious disturbance to business.

The improvement which featured the returns during the first three months of this year was well maintained in the second quarter, and defaults in June were less numerous than in the same month of 1916 and 1915, with the smallest liabilities for the period, excepting those of last year, since 1912. Both in number and amount, reduction occurred in manufacturing and trading defaults; but whereas there were 140 fewer insolvents among agents, brokers, and other concerns not properly included in either of the two leading classes, the indebtedness was about $1,000,000 larger than in the first half of 1916. Also, such failures numbered 331 for $17,275,880, as against 301 for $10,249,809; while there were 1,883 manufacturing reverses, involving $40,440,908, in comparison with 2,247 for $38,897,742, and 5,239 in the trading division for $27,004,-559, as contrasted with 6,747 last year for $56,033,870. The trading defaults, it is seen, made relatively the best showing, with a numerical decrease of 22 per cent. and a contraction of 34 per cent. in amount.

4,000 MEN STRIKE IN SHIPYARDS HERE

HINT OF GOVERNMENT ACTION

Harry Fletcher of Hoboken Believes His Company's Plant Will Be Seized if Strike Lasts Long.

Nearly 4,000 out of 15,000 employes quit work yesterday morning at Hoboken and Brooklyn shipyards, and the rest threaten to join them today if their demand for a $4.50 minimum daily wage is not agreed upon.

The first to quit work yesterday morning were 800 machinists and boiler makers out of the 2,000 employed by Tietjen & Lang at Hoboken, and they were quickly joined by 700 of 1,000 hands employed by W. and A. Fletcher & Co. and 150 men employed by the Consolidated Iron Company, both of Hoboken.

Harry Fletcher, a member of the firm of W. and A. Fletcher & Co., said that the men did not know what they wanted, and that if the strike lasted long he believed the yard would be taken over by the Government.

In the course of the afternoon 800 machinists out of 1,500 employed by James Shewan & Son in Brooklyn laid down their tools, followed by 1,500 out of the 5,000 employed in the Robins Dry Dock.

Rowland B. Mahany, Commissioner of Conciliation from the Labor Department at Washington, has been in New York for the last month trying amicably to settle the differences between the employers and their men, but without any tangible result.

When a committee of the workmen went to their employers they were referred back to H. C. Hunter, attorney for the shipyard owners, and the Government and State industrial officials were referred to him also, it was said.

The owners of the shipyards asserted: "We cannot deal with you singly because we have joined the National Metal Trades Association and cannot make a separate peace. Mr. Hunter is the legal representative of the organization. See him."

Denies He Has Power to Act.

When he in turn was approached by committees appointed by the workmen, Mr. Hunter said the question rested with the members of the Metal Trades Association entirely, and he had no power to do anything. Incidentally, the lawyer stated there was no prospect of any increase of pay for the workmen. He said that they were paid from $3.95 up to $4.50 in wages by the shipyard owners, and that the owners would fight sooner than pay higher wages. Mr. Hunter gave the same answer to the Federal and State conciliators.

Commissioner Mahany said last night that in spite of the difficulties he intended to remain in New York to act as mediator and hoped that the strikers in Hoboken and Brooklyn would soon return to work. J. J. McGrath, business agent of the International Machinists Union, declared that committees of the workers had called on the owners recently to discuss their grievances with them and that a hearing had been refused them. On their return to the yards they were discharged by the foremen, he said.

"The shipyard owners, through Mr. Hunter, allege that the strike was urged in order to force them to recognize the union," Mr. McGrath went on to say. "This is not true. All we desire is to get a minimum wage of $4.50 daily for the men in order to enable them to meet the higher cost of living in America." He added that a report had come from Hoboken stating that the delivery of work on the ships would be completed in the Navy Yard and if that proved to be true then every union man employed by the Federal Government would be called out.

Government Work Continues.

George T. Raymond, general manager of the Tietjen & Lang Company, denied that any of the Government work in their yard would be interfered with by the strike. He said that the work was going on unhampered and that men were being secured to replace those who had quit work.

The labor leaders met yesterday afternoon at 309 Broadway, and will endeavor to see the shipyard owners today in order to avoid calling out 11,000 more workmen, which would interfere with the building of the ships that are badly needed by the Government to carry food supplies to Europe. They assert that the strike would not have been started at all if Mr. Hunter had adopted a more conciliatory attitude with the mediators sent by the Government or the representatives of the employes. If they could deal direct with the owners the men say the trouble in the shipyards would be over at once.

Samuel Gompers, when asked for a statement last night, said:

"The leaders and business agents of the men will do everything they can for an honorable adjustment of the strike. The wages of these shipyard workers in the past have been simply frightful. The men are now better organized and, consequently, have more power, but let me say, in view of the high cost of living, the wages of the men are nothing short of frightful."

The new shipyards which have started recently in Brooklyn and other points in New York harbor are paying their carpenters, calkers, and other workers $5 a day minimum, and have not had any trouble, it was said.

MAY PREVENT RIVER STRIKE.

Conciliators Will Meet with Tugmen and Employers.

Thomas L. Delahunty, business manager of the Marine Engineers' Beneficial Association, said that a conference was held yesterday afternoon at the offices of the organization, 44 Whitehall Street, which was attended by representatives of the Masters, Mates, and Pilots' Association and the Tidewater Boatmen's Union, No. 1, to decide whether the crews of the tugboats, outside those owned by the railroads, should go on strike today unless they got the increase of pay and the twelve-hour day asked for.

John L. Hughes, Commissioner of Conciliation, from Philadelphia, attended the meeting, with John J. Bonlin and Michael J. Regan of the New York State Industrial Commission. After hearing the men's side, the three Commissioners said they would meet the owners this afternoon at the New York Towboat Exchange, in the Maritime Exchange Building, and endeavor to settle the matter.

EXPECT CHANGES IN BANK.

Four or Five New Members May Be Elected to Merchants Board.

Stockholders of the Merchants National Bank will hold a meeting on July 12 when it is expected that four or five new Directors will be elected to the board. Several of these will represent interests identified with the Royal Bank of Canada, which recently made arrangements for taking over a large block of stock in the bank.

It was learned yesterday that on Saturday, $750,000 was paid over for 5,000 shares of the 21,001 shares of stock acquired by the new interests from the syndicate formerly managed by George Ceffing Warner, lawyer and promotor. This block of 5,000 will be apportioned among local financial interests, while 8,000 shares have already been bought by the Royal Bank of Canada group. There are yet some 7,000 shares to be distributed.

WANT GOVERNMENT TO INSURE SOLDIERS

WILLING TO CO-OPERATE

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Issuance by the Government itself of the insurance that is to be given to every man in the country's forces was approved today by more than a hundred prominent insurance company officials in conference at the Treasury Department. Legislation to carry such a plan into effect will be asked of Congress at this session by the Administration.

Creation of a Bureau of Service Insurance or extension of the present War Risk Bureau to undertake the work probably will be proposed. The details will be worked out by a committee of insurance men, co-operating with Secretary McAdoo and officials of the War, Navy, and Commerce Departments and of the Council of National Defense.

The insurance officials, who came to the Treasury today at Mr. McAdoo's invitation, voted 103 to 4 in favor of having the Government act as its own insurance company. They told the Secretary that they have to charge heavy rates for war insurance, and that they are not eager to handle this business, as they have no precedent figures upon which to compute risks.

Many of the companies represented offered the use of their machinery for handling the Government's insurance business and the services of their experts in the guidance of governmental activities. Most of them suggested that the Government should guarantee a limited indemnity and permit individuals in the service to carry further insurance in private companies without limitations.

Discuss Secretary Sweet's Plan.

It is probable that the bill providing for establishment of Federal insurance will ask for a system comparable to the present workmen's compensation law. It was pointed out by Captain S. H. Wolfe, representing the navy at the conference, that the Government's industrial compensation system could be broadened easily to apply to war service.

The plan recently advanced by Assistant Secretary Sweet of the Commerce Department met considerable discussion at the meeting. Under this plan, which is being considered by the Council of National Defense, the Government would assume a death liability of $4,000 and also provide compensation for injuries. Various suggestions were offered as to details of a Federal insurance scheme, including the advisability of installment payments to beneficiaries rather than lump sums.

A number of insurance men pointed out that establishment of maximum benefits would be fraught with many complications, and asserted that the number and age of beneficiaries should be an important factor in the plans.

Only action by the Secretary a definite offer to privately handle the insurance for the Government. It stipulated a rate of $58 per $1,000.

President for Indemnity Plan.

In opening the meeting the Secretary told the delegates that President Wilson is very eager that some definite indemnity plan be worked out quickly.

"We want to do something, and we want to do it quickly," he said. "The man that goes out to fight for his country has a right to know what we intend to do for him or for his family. He should not have to rely on charity, or to feel that his family will be dependent upon the charity of the public or its legislators. Charity in such cases is criminal.

"Our men will fight better if they know that their families are to be properly cared for, no matter what happens. America has the resources to do this properly. If the insurance companies are not able to do it, it is up to the Government to do it."

Captain Wolfe pointed out that a governmental insurance system would strike a severe blow at the evils of the pension system.

"The pension payrolls for 1916," he said, "showed that benefits were still being paid to 150 widows of soldiers of the war of 1812."

REORGANIZATION.

To the Holders of Certificates of Interest issued by The Equitable Trust Company of New York in respect of FIRST AND REFUNDING MORTGAGE FOUR PER CENT. FIFTY-YEAR GOLD BONDS OF CINCINNATI, INDIANAPOLIS & WESTERN RAILWAY COMPANY, AND FIRST MORTGAGE FIVE PER CENT. GOLD BONDS OF THE INDIANA, DECATUR AND WESTERN RAILWAY COMPANY:

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Reorganization Committee has effected a settlement of the litigation against The Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton Railway Company and its stockholders upon the bonds above specified. The liability of the said stockholders was dependent upon a statute of the State of Ohio, which was repealed in November, 1908. As a consequence, such bonds of both issues, as were specifically guaranteed by The Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton Railway Company and issued before the date of such repeal, will receive on the settlement a larger amount than bonds not specifically guaranteed or bonds guaranteed but issued after said repeal. These latter bonds, however, are included in the settlement because of certain agreements made before the repeal of the statute, in which your Committee found some basis for the contention that these bonds, although issued subsequent to the repeal of the statute, carried a stockholder's liability.

Holders of Certificates of Interest representing FIRST AND REFUNDING MORTGAGE FOUR PER CENT. FIFTY-YEAR GOLD BONDS OF CINCINNATI, INDIANAPOLIS & WESTERN RAILWAY COMPANY bearing the following serial numbers, to wit, 1 to 1175 inclusive, 1476 to 2200 inclusive, and 2851 to 3500 inclusive,—will receive for each bond represented by said Certificates the sum of $272.50.

Holders of Certificates of Interest representing FIRST MORTGAGE FIVE PER CENT. GOLD BONDS OF THE INDIANA, DECATUR AND WESTERN RAILWAY COMPANY bearing the serial numbers 1825 to 2757 inclusive, will receive for each bond represented by said Certificates the sum of $272.50.

Holders of Certificates of Interest representing bonds of either issue bearing serial numbers other than as above specified, will receive for each bond represented by said Certificates the sum of $47.50.

Payment will be made on and after the second day of July

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Two new apartment houses in the popular Fordham Heights section of the Bronx changed hands yesterday in a deal involving property aggregating in value about $205,000. Charles Viohl purchased for investment the two five-story houses recently completed at 2,588 and 2,562 Creston Avenue, just north of 192d Street. They cover a plot fronting 112 feet by 110, being opposite St. James Park, with a rear view of the Concourse and Poe Park. With accommodations for fifty families, the houses are fully rented, showing an annual rent roll of over $20,000.

The property was sold by the 173d Street Realty Company, Aaron Miller, President, and the houses are the last two of a row of five similar structures recently completed at that point by Mr. Miller, and all have been sold to investors.

In part payment Mr. Viohl gave the two-story taxpayer building at 1,011 Southern Boulevard, near Westchester Avenue, covering a plot 40 by 129. It was acquired by Mr. Viohl about six years ago.

Robert H. Scobie was the broker in the transaction.

The New York Central Railroad has just taken title to the property at 319 to 316 West Sixty-fifth Street, 84.11 by 100.5 and irregular. It was purchased from the Thomas & Buckley Hod Elevator Company, subject to a mortgage of $24,000. Its acquisition gives the railroad possession of the entire block bounded by West End Avenue, Sixty-fourth and Sixty-fifth Streets, and the New York Central tracks on the western boundary.

Tenement Investments.

The five-story tenement at 432 West Fifty-third Street, 25 by 100, between Ninth and Tenth Avenues, has been purchased by Mrs. N. E. Woodcock from Robert Cable.

The six-story tenement at 1,270 and 1,272 First Avenue, 40 by 100, between Sixty-eighth and Sixty-ninth Streets, has been purchased by Max Lippman from the Oser Realty Corporation.

The five-story tenement at 319 East 100th Street, 25 by 100, between First and Second Avenues, has been purchased by Bessie Gilefsky from Jacob Kronberg.

Hotel Essex in Long Lease.

Negotiations are practically closed for leasing the Hotel Essex, at the northwest corner of Madison Avenue and Fifty-sixth Street, for a long term. It is a twelve-story building, covering a plot 75 by 75.5, and was purchased last November by G. Maurice Heckscher from the Francis S. Kinney estate. The annual leasing value has been held at $35,000.

Bronx Sales.

The five-story apartment house at 749 Jennings Street, fronting 57 feet, near Union Avenue, has been purchased by Henry Schult from Annie J. Mulgrew.

Brooklyn.

Frank H. Malone has sold the plot 100 by 100, on the north side of Seventy-fifth Street Parkway, 100 feet west of Tenth Avenue, for the Eltoma Realty Company to a Bay Ridge builder, who will improve the property with one-family semi-detached houses.

Harry A. Cowan has sold houses at 417 Madison Street to Frank Green; at 822 Classon Avenue for the estate of R. Cobb to James McNulty; at 948 Kent Avenue for Mary V. Phraner to Ernest A. Hallenbeck; at 950 Kent Avenue for Delia M. Fisher to Ernest A. Hallenbeck; at 952 Kent Avenue for Catherine Mongan to Ernest A. Hallenbeck, and at 38 Quincy Street for F. Macklin to Sydney Alleyne.

Charles E. Rickerson has sold a plot on Exeter Street, between Hampton Avenue and Oriental Boulevard, Manhattan Beach, to Mrs. Matilda H. Christensen.

Deals in Queens.

The Roman-Callman Company of Long Island City represented the purchaser of the two-story brick factory on Mott Avenue, near East Avenue, Long Island City, sold at foreclosure recently. The building will be extensively remodeled for the manufacture of an industrial truck.

The two-story brick house at 18 Lotus Avenue, in the Ridgewood section, has been sold by R. A. Schlesing for Henry Doth to John E. Schelpp.

H. Bachmann has sold to the Kossuth Amusement Company the plot, 97 by 100, on the west corner of Kossuth Place and Edsall Avenue, Corona, for a motion picture theatre.

M. Anderson sold to the Glendale Development Company a plot at the southwest corner of Jamaica Avenue and Union Place, Jamaica.

M. E. Chambers sold to N. Scrobe a plot, 93 by 102 feet on the northwest corner of Twelfth Avenue and Twenty-second Street, Whitestone.

Buys $125,000 Allenhurst Home.

The property formerly owned by the Peter Fisher estate at Allenhurst, N. J., on the corner of Norwood and Allen Avenues, has been purchased by Edward H. Raynolds of F. W. Devoe, C. T. Raynolds Company, paint manufacturers. Mr. Raynolds has occupied the house under lease for several years. Besides the large house, the property contains half an acre of land and a garage. It has been held at $125,000. Alfred C. Marks was the broker in the sale.

The former country home of the late Charles Klein at Rowayton, Conn., known as Sonny Bill Manor, was purchased at auction last Saturday by Dr. Lee M. Hurd of this city for $25,000. The property was sold by Arthur C. Sheridan. It consists of seven acres of land, with a large residence and outbuildings.

Staten Island Sale.

J. Sterling Drake has sold for Grace M. Hughes of Hudson, N. Y., to Peter Larsen a plot, 40 by 75, on Demorest Avenue, Westerleigh. Mr. Larsen will improve it with a dwelling.

Buys Yonkers Home.

Robert Morrison, Jr. has purchased from Paul V. Bunn the latter's residence on Rockland Avenue, Park Hill, Yonkers. George Howe was the broker.

Realty Notes.

The transfer was recorded yesterday of the building at 324 Fifth Avenue, 15.11 by 100, between Thirty-second and Thirty-third Streets, from Livingston Phelps to Dennistoun M. Bell. Mr. Phelps acquired the property about a year ago.

Pease & Elliman have leased for Antonio M. Aciego Bassave to Thomas R. White of Boston, Mass., the three-story dwelling at 329 West Eighty-fifth Street.

WAR REVENUE BILL READY FOR DEBATE

INCLUDES NO BOND ISSUE

Treasury Can Take Care of Expected Shortage, McAdoo Says—Excess Profits Tax Scale Raised.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—The Senate Finance Committee late today adopted the much-revised War Revenue bill, carrying an appropriation of $1,670,000,000 to defray the expense of the war this year. The committee vote on the bill as redrafted was 12 to 3, Senators Gore, La Follette, and Thomas voting against it.

The $1,670,000,000 levy falls short by $228,000,000 of the amount Secretary McAdoo told the committee today would be needed to pay this year's war bill. The committee made no provision for the bond issue to cover the additional money wanted by Mr. McAdoo, adhering to its decision of last Saturday to let Congress make an extra appropriation when exigency requires it.

Mr. McAdoo, appearing before the committee, said the Treasury needed $1,228,000,000 for this year's war expense. Originally it had fixed the aggregate wanted at $2,326,000,000, but bond issues not yet disposed of would reduce that figure. These include $393,000,000 authorized for operations in Mexico and also part of the Panama Canal issue.

The War Revenue bill was printed tonight, with the few changes made today. Senator Simmons, Chairman of the Finance Committee, said it would not be offered in the Senate tomorrow, but would wait for action upon the Food Administration bill.

One change in the bill made today, the only one that affected the aggregate of the levy, was to broaden the scope of the tax on excess corporation war profits. By raising the limit of the tax to 50 per cent., instead of 40 per cent., the committee added $18,000,000 to the appropriation, making the excess profits tax $748,000,000, instead of $730,000,000.

The scale of the excess profits tax as broadened by the committee is: Not in excess of 15 per cent. of the normal profits, 12 per cent.; in excess of 15 per cent. and not of 25 per cent., 16 per cent.; in excess of 25 per cent. and not of 50 per cent., 20 per cent.; in excess of 50 per cent. and not of 75 per cent., 25 per cent.; in excess of 75 per cent. and not of 100 per cent., 30 per cent.; in excess of 100 per cent. and not of 150 per cent., 35 per cent.; in excess of 150 per cent. and not of 200 per cent., 40 per cent.; in excess of 200 per cent. and not of 250 per cent., 45 per cent.; in excess of 250 per cent., 50 per cent.

The committee rejected Senator La Follette's substitute for the entire bill providing for the levy to come exclusively from tax on excess war profits, corporation income, tobacco, and liquors.

LONDON, Tuesday, July 3.—The Daily Chronicle, commenting on Lord Northcliffe's speech of June 28 in New York, says:

"If the speaker were still a private individual, no one would quarrel with him for his hashing up the party view and personal attacks which his journals have made familiar, but surely the head of a British mission, representing, though for unspecified purposes, the nation as a whole, has no business to talk in such a strain. The impropriety of it is elementary."

In the quoted report of Lord Northcliffe's speech on June 28 at a luncheon at the Players', the only criticism of his home Government was in respect to censorship. It was:

"I trust that the United States will not make the censorship blunder that England made, and which is just becoming an evil of the past. England was kept in the dark for nearly three years. The people were blinded by the fatuous optimism of soldiers and politicians who, while efficient in peace, were incompetent in war. The people were not permitted to know the truth, and when the truth finally emerged out of costly blunders and sacrifice they were loath to accept it."

WOMEN FEED ARTILLERYMEN

Three hundred sandwiches and eight gallons of iced coffee were served to 100 soldiers of the Second Regiment, New York Field Artillery, in the New York Central yards at 230th Street, Kingsbridge, yesterday afternoon by the first canteen division of the National League for Woman's Service, as the men were waiting to leave for Sacket Harbor, N. Y., where they will go into training. The service was given at the request of Franz Sigel, Chairman of the refreshment unit of the Bronx Chapter of the Red Cross. The canteens were organized for hurried calls of this kind.

The women were in their canteen uniforms of blue with white caps. In charge was Mrs. Theodore A. Dodge, assisted by Mrs. John H. Holden, Miss Jean Mills, Mrs. Hugh Munroe, Miss Clara Dashiell and Miss Lula Freidberger. The sandwiches were provided by the Waldorf and the Ritz-Carlton, which are donating the first 50,000 sandwiches needed by the canteens.

THIRD AVENUE MEN PREPARING DEMANDS

SECRET MEETING IS HELD

Names of Members of Employes' Committee Will Not Be Disclosed for the Present.

The demands of the men of the Third Avenue Railway Company for more wages and a change in working time schedules will be presented to the company officials before Monday, it was announced last night by General Organizer William B. Fitzgerald of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employes. His announcement followed a meeting of about 400 car men at 211 East Forty-fifth Street. The meeting was a secret one, but it was noisy, as was shown by the sounds of shouting and cheering that drifted down the stairs to a lower room. The speakers were Fitzgerald, Frank O'Shea and William Collins, organizers, and Louis Fridenger, counsel for the Amalgamated Association.

The demands are now being formulated by a committee of long-time employes of the company. Mr. Fitzgerald said that the names of those who were on the committee would not be given out until the demands had been handed to Edward A. Maher, General Manager of the Third Avenue Railway Company. He added that already three members of the committee, men whose terms of service were more than ten years, had been discharged by the company.

The men want more money. They are not satisfied with the advance just made because they assert it carries with it longer hours and a practical doing away with overtime. They also want recognition of the union. The employes believe that now they have a better chance of winning than last Summer. There is a shortage of men, and there will be still further shortage when the draft goes into effect. One of the men said that there was such a shortage of car men that last Sunday the Chief Inspector had to take a car out, and there were about thirty-five cars laid up in the barns because there was no one to man them.

The employes are going to ask not only for time and a half overtime but also for a rearrangement of the runs so that they will not have to work from ten to fifteen hours at a stretch as they say they do at present. The demands, however, have not been worked out, and it is probable that they will not be announced until they are presented to the company. It was pointed out by one of the organizers that the company did not give the increase just announced until rumors of coming trouble with the men reached the officials. This they believed to be a hopeful sign.

The union men charge that the company is employing detectives to watch and harass them, asserting that they were being hounded by the detectives employed by the company. Fridiger, Fitzgerald, and Ernest Boehm, Secretary of the American Federation of Labor, called on Police Commissioner Woods and asked for relief. They told Commissioner Woods that the so-called detectives had been interfering with the plans of the union officials to organize the employes, and threatening to report them to the company should they attend organization meetings. At the close of the conference, the union officials requested that the Commissioner give to them an even break with the street railway company, and that the employes have the same measure of police protection as was accorded the officials of the road. The Commissioner agreed to do this.

RED CROSS GIFTS IN MAIL.

New Yorkers Sent In $42,592 to Local Committee Yesterday.

The War Fund of the Red Cross maintained its daily mail campaign average yesterday by receiving $42,592.18 from New York contributors. The auditors of the fund are still at work on the revised figures for the teams, however, and will not have them ready until Sunday. Of the contributions received yesterday $700 came from J. Henry Harper, $200 from Garo Keshisian & Co., and $502 from the Huyler stores.

The rest was in small amounts received through the mails.

REGRETS SOLDIERS' SHARE IN RIOTING

BOSTON, July 2.—After conferring today with Federal and military officials regarding the disturbances attending a Socialist parade yesterday, Governor McCall issued a statement in which he deplored the participation of uniformed soldiers and sailors in the affair, and said he had assurances from army and navy officers that it would not happen again. United States Attorney George W. Anderson said that he heartily concurred in the sentiments expressed by the Governor. Brig. Gen. Clarence R. Edwards, Commander of the Department of the Northeast, and officers representing Commandant W. R. Rush of the Navy Yard, took part in the conference.

In his statement the Governor said:

"While I am far from being a Socialist the way to defeat the doctrines is not illegally to invade their headquarters, destroy their property, and break up their parades. I am of the opinion that the part played by the soldiers and sailors has been exaggerated, but at the same time it was very unfortunate that men wearing the uniform of the United States took any part in such a disturbance. In doing it they violated the first essential of military and naval discipline and I know their participation is strongly disapproved by the commanding army and navy officers.

"It is the duty of the soldier to obey his superiors, and it is most antagonistic to his duty to resort to violence in order to resent or to control the expressions of opinion by the civil population. Assurances are received from the commanding General of the Northeastern Department and the Commandant of the Navy Yard that there is no liability of the recurrence of such disorder on the part of men wearing the Federal uniform."

General Edwards had previously issued a statement in which he said that any interference by the troops with a legitimate expression of public opinion, such as a parade, would be severely dealt with. He added:

"I am not in possession of all the facts as to Sunday's disturbance as yet, but so far as I have been able to learn none of the regular troops had a hand in it. I think I may safely venture the assertion that none will take part in any similar occurrence in the future."

BOSTON, July 2.—A survey today of the districts covered by the rioting yesterday, when uniformed soldiers and sailors broke up a Socialist peace parade, showed that the actual damage done, aside from torn banners and clothing, was confined to the Socialist Party headquarters in Park Square. Large quantities of literature and pictures were hurled from the rooms to the street and burned, and the furniture was roughly handled.

No one was seriously hurt in the fighting, which was conducted only with fists. James Oneal, State Secretary of the Socialist Party, in a statement said that he believed the police did not give the Socialists adequate protection.

Of the ten men arrested in connection with the affair, one was acquitted, two convicted, and the cases of the others continued until July 11.

James H. Maurer, President of the Pennsylvania State Federation of Labor, has written a letter to the People's Council, 2 West Thirteenth Street, describing the attack on the parade in Boston on Sunday. Mr. Maurer said that soldiers and sailors went up and down the streets looking for trouble, and that the real work of the "uniformed mob" started when the American flag at the head of the parade was "torn from the hands of its bearer and its staff broken."

"One group of soldiers and sailors broke into a division of the parade made up of mothers with babies in their arms," he said. "Sailors beat and choked one woman with a child until a man came to her defense. They turned and beat him unmercifully. The screams and pleas of the women had seemingly no effect upon the assailants. It had become a parade of terror."

He also charged that the meeting on the Commons was proceeding in an orderly way when policemen charged the crowd, and beat men and women indiscriminately with their sticks.

SCHEIDEMANN'S MEN WIN.

Defeat Radicals in German Metal Workers' Union Who Favored Strikes

COPENHAGEN, July 2.—Followers of Philipp Scheidemann, majority Socialist leader, among the German Conservative Socialists, triumphed in the National Convention of the German Metal Workers' Union at Cologne, although by the narrow margin of 63 to 54 votes.

The Radicals had attempted to swing the union into line in favor of a policy of strike demonstrations and to secure resolutions rebuking the union leaders for co-operating with the Government in stopping the food strike in April. The move, however, failed by the margin of nine votes.

VELMA POMEROY FOUND.

Missing Girl Was Working in a Cigar Factory in Philadelphia.

Miss Pomeroy, who is about 25 years old, had been working in a cigar factory since her arrival in this city. The only explanation she made to her father relative to her disappearance was that acquaintances in New York had disparaged her ability as a clerk and that she had decided to come to Philadelphia.

J. E. Parsons Left $2,557,273.

The first accounting in the estate of John E. Parsons, the lawyer, filed in the Surrogate's Court yesterday shows that the total sum received by the executors is $2,557,273, of which all but $200,000 has been distributed, according to the provision of the will. The executors have thus far collected $155,587 as income from the estate.

One Business News Item Paid for the PUBLIC LEDGER 20 Years

A business man recently told of reading an item in the Business Section of the Public Ledger which, printed there exclusively, saved him enough money to pay for the Ledger twenty years.

Any business man who reads the Public Ledger Business Section for one year, and THINKS while he reads, may save thousands—or learn ways to increase and improve his business to a like extent.

And this applies to almost EVERY business in the United States. No matter what YOUR business is the Public Ledger prints news of it at least once a week—and like as not that news appears exclusively in the Ledger.

But when it is combined with a great daily newspaper, with exclusive London Times cable service, and a host of special news sources, in addition to all regular news channels, the Public Ledger Business Section is a unique and unusually comprehensive source of business information.

Gogorza sings a famous Italian boating song

"Santa Lucia" has always been a prime favorite with lovers of song the world over. It is a charming folk-lyric, born among the fishermen of Naples and sung by Venetian gondoliers—a bit of the warm heart of romantic Italy.

Gogorza's sterling vocalism—he is one of the world's foremost baritones—and his abounding vigor render his "Santa Lucia," just recorded for the Victor, a veritable jewel of the singer's art. It is to be classed among those Victor Records for which you have a positive affection—which you play again and again with increasing pleasure.
